Wife Slain, Body Sealed Behind Wall

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A 72-year-old man was arrested on a murder warrant Saturday for the strangulation slaying of his wife, Mrs. Anna Lewis, 70, whose body was found sealed behind a wall in their home.

Officers said Joseph J. Lewis, sought since the discovery of the body by detectives on Sept. 12, was taken into custody and would undergo questioning about the slaying in the Highland Park district.

Lewis, husband of the victim for 42 years, told police early this month while they were searching for the then-missing woman that she had been "unfaithful to me." Police said he disappeared Sept. 11—the day before the discovery of his wife's body.

Police said an autopsy showed the woman had been strangled and that her slayer also had inflicted blows about the head of the victim.

Mrs. Lewis was last seen alive in Chicago Aug. 13 when she boarded a plane in Chicago after visiting with relatives. Her daughter reported her missing Sept. 9.

Police said that when they began their search for the missing woman they found only Lewis living in the home. When questioned, he denied knowing the whereabouts of his wife, against whom he had filed for divorce.

But later while searching the house—after Lewis disappeared—police discovered new plaster that had been painted over, was masking a wall bed. They dug through the plaster and found the body.

KINDS OF BREAD
NEW YORK (UPI)—There are more than 32 different kinds of bread that the world's population consumes, according to Encyclopedia Britannica.

The two major groupings are yeast breads and quick breads. The yeast breads include such well-known types as American white, whole wheat, rye and pumpernickel. There are 14 varieties of quick breads, including biscuits, crumpets, muffins and popovers.
