

Kerr Guided Successful Pilot Drive

(Editor's Note—This is one in a series of personality sketches on the people who head the United Fund campaign in Klamath County.)

Although the jobs of most of the division leaders in the United Fund drive in Klamath County are just beginning, the task of Henry Kerr is just ending.

Kerr is the chairman of the pilot division of the United Fund, which this week is winding up an apparently successful campaign among 12 of the county's largest firms.

This was the first year that Kerr has been active in United Fund, since he came to Klamath Falls only a year and a half ago from Spokane, Wash.

Kerr is president of the Klamath Lumber and Box Company. He and his wife, Anastasia, have six children, one of whom attends the University of Oregon.

GOP Head Protests JFK Jaunt

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican National Chairman William E. Miller believes that President Kennedy's current Western tour is "an out-and-out campaign tour at public expense."

The White House has carefully described the speaking tour as "non-political." The trip was scheduled as a means of letting the President visit conservation projects and to speak on the government's natural resources program, officials said.

Miller charged Friday night that Kennedy's Salt Lake City speech assailed foreign policy proposals advocated generally by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater without mentioning the Arizona Republican by name.

"The last vestige of pretense has been removed from the tongue-in-cheek description of the President's Western tour as a non-political one," Miller said.

"In behalf of the taxpayers of this country I must vehemently protest the diversion of public funds toward financing of an out-and-out campaign tour; and I would call to the attention of fair-minded Americans of both parties that the President is grossly abusing his prerogative," Miller said.

Palisades Park To Close Oct. 1

SALEM (UPI)—Cove Palisades State Park in Jefferson County will be closed Oct. 1 to allow time for relocation of movable park facilities before water behind Round Butte Dam rises, highway Engineer Forrest Cooper said Friday.

The man-made lake to be formed behind the dam will cover the present park site with about 200 feet of water.

Woman Remains Hopeful Hiccups Will Be Cured

ATLANTA, Ga. (UPI)—Mrs. Lucy McDonald, whose marathon hiccupping spree is heading into the third month, says she still maintains her faith that doctors will find a cure.

Two weeks ago Saturday, Mrs. McDonald entered an Atlanta hospital for the second time to try and find out what is causing the malady. Doctors still are running tests.

The spasms began July 8. Since then she has received suggestions for home remedies ranging from plucking hairs in the inner ear to drinking hard liquor.

"I just wish they'd (the hiccups) quit for a little while," she mother of three said. Hospital authorities have succeeded in easing her into sleep each night and the hiccups don't seem to bother her. "At least they don't wake me up," she observed.

Her mother, 75-year-old Mrs. Gross, tends Mrs. McDonald's 14-year-old twins, Lind and Larry, and 8-year-old Susie, making sure they get off to school each day and are fed and cared for.

The doctors continue trying to find the cause of the hiccups. Tests, and X-rays still are being taken, but the medical men have not as yet said what they plan to do in the way of a cure.

PORTLAND (UPI)—Two Negro girls said Friday they were not aware of any racial discrimination when they went through rushing activities of Portland State College sororities.

All six sororities at the school are suspended Thursday by President Branford Miller for alleged discrimination in failing to pledge the girls.

The rushing was postponed Wednesday, shortly before invitations were to be issued for the second round of functions. Miss Gaskin said she did not know whether the two girls would have received any invitations for that round.

Malin To Receive Money For Runways At Airport

The regular meeting of the common council of the city of Malin was held recently with nine city officials and members present, Mayor Leonard Petrik, Atorney Henry Perkins, Paul McCulley, recorder, Mark Sullivan, marshal, and George Papp.

George Bauer, Dan McAuliffe, John Phillips, and Cy McCoglin, councilmen.

Perkins reported that he had received a letter from the Oregon State Board of Aeronautics stating that money is available from the state to repair and construct runways, but not for the building of fences around city airport property.

McCulley reported on a number of complaints received in regard to children playing in the streets and obstructing traffic. Perkins told the council that little could be done about the situation from a legal standpoint, and advised the members to contact the parents of the children to correct the situation.

The council voted to have Perkins prepare an ordinance controlling the riding of bicycles in the city of Malin.

McCulley reported that the purchase of a hypochlorinator, approved by the council at a previous meeting, had not yet been completed.

The recorder also read a letter from Cornell, Howland, Hayes, and Merryfield, consulting engineers, quoting a price of $975 on a proposed survey necessary to bring the present city sewage disposal plant up to the standards required by the state. After a lengthy discussion, the matter was tabled until a later date.

A letter was received from the city of Tulelake expressing gratitude for the $25 given to the city for a surplus truck which it donated to Malin. The letter said the $25 would be used to purchase a new type of sump to be placed in the Tulelake ambulance.

The Malin Explorer Scouts requested permission to use city water to make an ice skating rink east of the swimming pool on Malin Park property. The council agreed to let them use the necessary water.

Drive For Contributions From Students Protested

SALEM (UPI)—A drive to get this from parents in the past 24 University of Oregon students to contribute their breakage fees to a campaign to save the state's tax measure Oct. 15 has sparked a wave of parent resentment. United Press International learned today.

University President Arthur S. Flemming said students were being asked to pledge the unused balance of their breakage fees to the campaign.

State Sen. L. W. Newbury, R-Ashland, commented "parents who have contacted me were highly incensed at the pledges."

A. L. Ellingson, director of the Student Union, was in charge of the drive for pledges, Flemming said.

Ellingson confirmed that "more than $5,000" worth of pledges have been turned in.

He said money for the tax campaign would be "borrowed from other funds, and repaid out of the pledges at the end of the school year."

Each student is required to make a $15 breakage deposit, and the average refund to students is $7, according to Flemming. The refund is paid at the end of the school year.

"They are entitled to get their money back if they want it," he said.

"It is a common practice here to permit students to sign over breakage fees to some cause. Last year many students signed their refunds over to the Development Fund. Students are not required to sign over their refunds," Flemming insisted. He said he did not think any other schools were following suit.

Pioneer Dies At Bend Home

BEND (UPI)—One of the few remaining pioneers of the American West died Saturday at a county rest home here.

He was Robert C. (Tex) James, whose age was either 106 or 107. He carried papers which indicated he was born in March, 1856, in Texas.

Army records confirmed that he once served under Gen. George A. Custer. He maintained that Custer's wife taught him how to read.

James had lived here since 1927 and was a familiar figure in the area. He told of being kidnaped by Comanche Indians at the age of eight and of spending his younger days as a cowboy in the Texas Panhandle country.
