

Crippled Girl Burned By Two Teasing Boys

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An eight-year-old girl, crippled by polio, was hospitalized Tuesday with painful burns over 40 per cent of her body — the victim of malicious teasing by two schoolmates because she wore braces on her legs.

The victim, Cathryn Reeves, had been the target of taunts from two young boys for several weeks because of the braces. The taunts reached a climax Tuesday when one of the boys tossed a book of flaming matches at her and reduced her flower-print dress to ashes.

"She couldn't do anything but stand there and burn," said an ambulance attendant who rushed her to Mission Emergency Hospital.

Cathryn was reported in fair condition today while police searched for the two boys, believed to be schoolmates of the injured girl.

The girl's mother, Winona Reeves, told police her daughter had complained for several weeks of harassment by the suspect assailants.

"She had complained that they pulled her hair and knocked her school books out of her arms," Mrs. Reeves said. "And earlier this afternoon Cathryn said they hit her on the head with a lunch pail on her way home from school."

The girl was out playing when the harassment started again. She told investigators the boys started flicking one match at a time at her. But, she said, she was unable to run away because of her braces.

Finally one of the boys tossed a book of matches and turned her into a human torch.

A neighbor, alerted by the screams of the two young girls, told police, "I looked down the street and saw little Cathryn staggering along, screaming. Her clothes were all burned off. She was burned all over."

First Lady Arrives In Greece

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy arrived in Athens today for a sunny and enthusiastic beginning to her two-week private visit to Greece.

The commercial jetliner carrying the First Lady from New York touched down at the airport at 2:25 p.m. (8:25 a.m. EDT). Greek police had closed off most of the airport and allowed only a few local people in to cheer her.

On hand were American and Greek officials to extend the official greetings.

Mrs. Kennedy's sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, is playing host during the stay. She said that Mrs. Kennedy's visit is for "a casual rest to have a change."

The weather was sunny and hot as the First Lady, dressed in a two-piece black suit, left the plane. She was wearing black shoes and yellow gloves.

The gangway from the jetliner was decorated with Greek and U.S. flags.

As Mrs. Kennedy reached the bottom of the steps, Princess Radziwill rushed forward and they kissed. Then American Ambassador Henry Lobouisse stepped forward and presented to her a little girl that Mrs. Kennedy had sent to the United States last year to have a delicate operation.

The 12-year-old girl, Chrysanthemi Papakotaki of Messina, underwent the operation at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington in February. Her mother had managed to get a note to Mrs. Kennedy in June, 1961, when the First Lady paid a visit to Greece.

Because of the note, Mrs. Kennedy had arranged for the operation to deal with aortic stenosis.

The pretty little girl gave Mrs. Kennedy flowers and the First Lady bent over to kiss her and receive a small package containing a gift. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Papakotaki, shouted in specially learned English, "Thank you, thank you, madam."

IRS Seeks Back Taxes

PORTLAND (UPI) — An 88-year-old ex-Oregon congressman said Tuesday the Internal Revenue Service has attached some $50,000 of his funds for alleged back taxes.

A. W. Lafferty said the IRS is seeking the judgment on a legal fee of more than $100,000 he received in 1958 as his share of a court allowed fee involving Oregon and California (O & C) Lands timber-sale income.

Lafferty also said the state is "reaching for about $18,000."

Fred Hoelke, a member of the State Tax Commission, said the commission seeks $18,266.16 in tax and penalties, and that distraint warrants calling for that amount have been filed in Marion County.

Hoelke said the state is attributing the taxed income to the same period the federal government is using, under a similar law.

The period covered by the tax is the basic dispute between Lafferty on the one hand and the IRS and the State of Oregon on the other.

Lafferty was a congressman representing Oregon from 1911 through 1915. He recently returned to Portland from Missouri.

Portland State President Defends Suspension Act

PORTLAND (UPI) — Portland State College President Branford Millar Tuesday defended his suspension of six sororities last week by relating new findings in the alleged discrimination of the organizations against a pair of Negro students.

Millar said it had been pointed out that 115 girls sought to join sororities and only 72 could be admitted.

"Some 43 others had to be discriminated against — that is, rejected and disappointed."

"The fact is that only four of the 43 had been rejected by all six sororities at the time the college intervened. Two of these were the Negro girls in question," Millar said.

Millar reported that the college was also concerned with discrimination against others for a number of reasons.

"There have been questions about discrimination involving Jews, Catholics, Orientals and those with backgrounds of several European countries, as well as Negroes," he said.

Council Debates Nature Of Church Document

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Fifteen cardinals and bishops addressed the Ecumenical Council today as the council fathers debated in detail a document defining the nature of the church.

Today's third meeting of the new council session heard a plea for a clearer statement that the church is not seeking earthly power and has come "not to dominate but to serve."

It also heard long arguments on the exact relationship between St. Peter and the other apostles 20 centuries ago—a subject which has an important bearing on present-day relationship between the Pope and bishops.

The 2,288 council fathers today started detailed debate on the introduction and first chapter of the draft "De Ecclesia"—"about the church"—which they approved by an overwhelming vote Tuesday as a basis of discussion.

The first American father to speak at this session, Bishop Ernest J. Primeau of Manchester, N.H., urged that a section be added to the document clarifying Catholic teaching regarding the relationship of church and state.

Bishop Primeau also asked clarification of the doctrine that some persons who are not members of the Catholic church in a formal sense may yet be members of the church in the eyes of God in some sense.

He suggested a distinction between "perfect" or "full" membership and "imperfect" membership which is not externally apparent.

The moderator of the session, Julius Cardinal Doepfner of Germany, mistakenly introduced Primeau as the bishop of Manchester, England. Primeau drew laughter by hastening to correct the designation. He pointed out that the bishop of Manchester, England, is "one of the separated brethren"—a bishop of the Church of England.

The document as a whole is entitled in Latin "De Ecclesia"—"about the church." The first chapter bears the subtitle, "Of The Mystery of the Church."

Relying heavily on Biblical language (there are 39 scriptural quotations or references in the first chapter alone), the document outlines the Christian belief that the church is a divinely established institution which serves, in St. Paul's vivid metaphor, as the "body of Christ" on earth.

The original text of the document, which the council fathers found unacceptable at last year's session, explicitly renewed the Catholic claim — highly offensive to all orthodox and Protestant Christians — that "there is but one true church of Jesus Christ," namely, the one headed by the Pope.

The document was drastically revised during the council's nine-month recess.

Authoritative sources said the new version holds that "there is but one church of Jesus Christ" and identifies it as "the Catholic Church, directed by the Roman pontiff and by the bishops in communion with him." But it goes on to add, in the same sentence, that "outside this structure it is possible to find many elements of sanctification which are proper to the church of Christ."

Senator Resents 'Threat' Of Higher Tuition Fees

PORTLAND (UPI) — State Sen. Walter Pearson, D-Portland, said Tuesday he resents the "threat" by the State Board of Higher Education to raise entrance requirements and tuition if the Legislature's tax program goes down to defeat Oct. 15.

Pearson and State Sen. Thomas Mahoney, D-Portland, are scheduled to make a television appearance in opposition to the tax program Sunday.

If a special legislative session is called, Pearson said he would introduce a bill forbidding the board to increase tuition or scholastic standards for Oregon residents.

"Public-supported higher education was never meant to be only for the best students," he said.

"Most of our prominent citizens have been in the average student class. People who want their children to go to practically a graduate school should send them to some private school, such as Stanford, Yale or Harvard."

Pearson also suggested the state could get along with less "leading" teachers.

"I think we can better get teachers from the average teacher group, rather than those who spend their time writing books which the students are required to buy the next year," he commented.

Pearson, vice chairman of the Senate Taxation Committee in the 1963 legislature, said proponents of the tax program are guilty of misrepresentation in stating that its defeat would automatically mean an increase in property taxes.

Housewife Hit By Wild Arrow

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI) — A 40-year-old housewife was recovering Tuesday from surgery required when she was struck by an arrow that came soaring through a kitchen screen door.

Mrs. Rita Lamperth, 40, Torrance, was struck in the right thigh Monday by the three-pointed, steel-tipped arrow — apparently shot by someone aiming at a jackrabbit or a crow on a nearby hillside.

Doctors at the Little Company of Mary Hospital in this Los Angeles suburb said the woman was "in no danger and in fairly good condition."
