BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—A food store operated by a white man in a Negro neighborhood exploded and burned Wednesday night during an apparent arson attempt.

Burned Girl Still Listed As Critical

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Little Cathryn Reeves remained on the critical list at San Francisco General Hospital today, while authorities sought to determine how and why the 8-year-old crippled polio victim was set afire.

Cathryn suffered third degree burns over 40 per cent of her body Tuesday evening when her dress caught fire and she was unable to run for help because of the braces on her legs.

The injured child told police that two boys in her special ungraded class at Visitation Valley School threw a book of flaming matches at her. She said they teased her because of the braces.

Police questioned three of Cathryn's classmates, including the two whom she had named. Authorities said the youngsters, ranging in age from 7 to 10, denied throwing the matches.

"The boys claim she lit them herself," said police Lt. Dan Mahoney, who added that his investigation determined that the four children were playing together, and that Cathryn evidently had the matches.

Police Inspector Kevin Conroy said all three of the boys seemed confused as to what actually happened.

"I don't think any of them really knows," Conroy said. "It appears it might have been accidental. We'll talk to the little girl later, when her condition improves."

Mrs. May Raps Joint Moon Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash., suggested Wednesday the United States might be sacrificing a military advantage for a propaganda advantage if it joins the Soviet Union in an attempt to put men on the moon.

"To be first in propaganda but second in defense could be fatal," Mrs. May said in a newsletter.

The Washington Republican questioned President Kennedy's proposal for a joint effort to reach the moon, saying the Russians could be expected to seek military control of space while "tying up" the United States in the joint expedition.

"The Russians have scored 'spectacular' propaganda victories in their space program over the years," Mrs. May said. But during those same years, she added, the United States had maintained a lead in the stockpiling of weapons.

"We may have been second in propaganda," she said, "but we were first in defense."

She said she based her doubts of the wisdom of a joint U.S.-Soviet moon shot on views expressed by Sir Bernard Lovell, director of Britain's Jodrell bank experiment station.

Lovell, Mrs. May noted, had expressed belief the Russians had given up the race to put a man on the moon and were concentrating instead on the assembly of a space platform. She said U.S. military experts had suggested such a space platform could be used to launch nuclear warheads to targets on the earth.

Ben Bella Readies Army To Halt Algerian Revolt

ALGIERS (UPI) — Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella warned today that the "counter-revolution" of Berber rebels against his regime is a threat "both to our national unity and the territorial integrity of our country."

In a speech to his hand-picked National Assembly, he demanded full powers to end the week-old insurrection centered in the mountainous Kabylia region about 40 miles east of Algiers.

But he pledged that in using the army to put down the uprising, it would be employed only against the armed rebels and not against the civilian population.

"The national people's army never will be used against the populations of Kabylia," he said. "The rebellion, led by insurgent leaders Col. Mohamed ou el Hadj and former Vice premier Hocine Ait Ahmed, has been bloodless. Neither side has fired a shot."

Ben Bella informed a special session of the one-party National Assembly that he took full powers under article 59 of the Constitution. No vote on this either was needed or taken. But the assembly unanimously voted approval of a motion denouncing the insurrection.

The resolution was introduced by deputies from the Kabylia area. It denounced the action of the anti-Ben Bella forces and asserted there is no "Kabyle problem." The Kabyles are a separate race apart from the Arabs

Mansfield Expects Canada To Ratify Columbia River Treaty In Near Future

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield expressed optimism today that ratification of the Columbia River Treaty by Canada might be forthcoming in the near future. The Montana Democrat rejected speculation that a victory in the British Columbia elections this week for Premier W.A.C. Bennett's Social-Credit Party might hurt chances for ratification.

"I am not discouraged," Mansfield said in an interview. Among those expressing doubt that Canada would ratify the treaty as a result of the British Columbia elections was Washington State Conservation Director Earl Coe. The Washington state official earlier suggested that the United States should give up hope of Canadian ratification and go it alone on river development.

Bennett, whose party won 31 of 32 seats in the election, has been at odds with the Canadian federal government over the treaty for the joint development of the Columbia River. The U. S. Senate ratified the treaty in 1961, but the disagreement between the provincial government and Ottawa has delayed ratification by the Canadian Parliament.

Mansfield said he was as convinced now that the provincial and federal governments would get together on the treaty as he had been before the elections. Once the elections were held, Mansfield said, the Canadians then could "get down to bedrock" on the problem of the sale of downstream power benefits. Under the treaty, the United States and Canada would work together for further development of the Columbia River and its tributaries. Canada would build three storage dams in British Columbia

Fishing Fleet Funds Voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Wednesday approved a $50 million subsidy program to help American fishermen build new vessels for "wet war" competition against huge fleets of Russian and Japanese trawlers.

Approval came on a 57-14 vote after defeat of two amendments that would have sliced the federal support. The measure, which now goes to the House, would provide up to 55 per cent of the cost of constructing new fishing boats.

The $10 million-a-year program would run for five years and would replace another ship-building subsidy program that expired July 1. It offered subsidies up to one-third of the cost of building the vessels in the United States.

On a standing vote, the Senate turned down an amendment by Sen. John Williams, R-Del., to cut the amount from $10 million to $5 million a year.
