POLLY'S POINTERS Shortening A Knit

DEAR POLLY—The best way I have found to shorten a knit dress or skirt is to first run two rows of machine stitching all around the skirt at the desired new hemline. Then cut off the material just below the stitching. Unravel yarn from the discarded piece and use it to do a row of single crochet over the stitching and the raw edge.—MRS. A. S. GIRLS—I have also done this with two rows of zigzag machine stitching and then turned back a one-inch hem that was then sewn by hand. This was on a machine-made knit, not a hand knit.—POLLY
