Speech Center Reports Openings For Children

ASHLAND — Southern Oregon College has announced that openings are available in the Southern Oregon Speech and Hearing Center for children with speech difficulties.

The college said parents who wish their children to attend the center this year should contact Dr. Leon Mulling, director of the center.

The center accepts children who are at least four years old, are educable, and who have difficulties expressing themselves in speech. It serves all preschool children in the Southern Oregon area, but, according to the college, "does not attempt to treat school children in first-class districts in which other speech therapists are working, unless special permission is secured from the therapists."

There are no charges for the services, since the center is a state-supported institution operating under the State Department of Education and the college.

The college said parents interested in sending children to the center may telephone Dr. Mulling at 482-3311 in Ashland.

Bond Defeated

CORVALLIS (UPI) — Voters here Tuesday turned down a $280,000 bond issue to finance construction of a covered swimming pool at Corvallis High School.

The vote in the special election for rejection was 1,410 to 974. A similar bond issue was defeated in 1961.

Boys Town Will Keep Salem Lads

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Juvenile Judge Seward Hart Wednesday ruled two youngsters who were sent here by bus from Oregon to try to get into Boys Town could be placed in the institution.

Hart ruled Daniel Presnell, 12, and his brother, Ronald, 10, were neglected and dependent.

The boys arrived here Sept. 19 from Salm, Ore., with 86 cents and a note from their mother, Mrs. Betty Hackworth. She said she was ill and unable to care for the youngsters and hoped they could be accepted by Boys Town.

After taking testimony at a hearing in Douglas County Juvenile Court, Hart ruled that Boys Town would be "by far the best place for the boys."

They originally were kept at the Douglas County Youth Center, but were transferred to Boys Town on a temporary basis a week ago.

Robert Haney, the court-appointed attorney who represented the boys, said Oregon authorities assured him they would not seek to have the boys returned if they were placed in Boys Town.

Mrs. Hackworth and the boys' stepfather wrote Msgr. Nicholas Wegener, director of Boys Town, that they would be grateful if the boys could be cared for at the world-famous institution.

The boys, who testified at Wednesday's hearing, said they "like it real well" at Boys Town.

Colorful Former Sheriff Lloyd Low Dies In Yuma

One of Oregon's most colorful sheriffs, ex-sheriff Lloyd L. Low, 75, died at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 9, in a Yuma, Ariz., hospital. He had been in failing health for several years. Death followed a massive stroke, one of several he had suffered during his illness.

He and Mrs. Low had wintered for the last four years in Yuma.

O'Hair's Memorial Chapel will announce funeral arrangements.

Mr. Low was a native of Klamath County, born Aug. 4, 1888, on the old Howard Van Valkenburg place on the Keno Highway. The home still stands. He was the son of Charles C. and Lena (Lavenberg) Low, both born in Oregon, who pioneered in this part of the state. His father, a native of Jacksonville, also served as a sheriff in this county.

Lloyd Low first ran for sheriff in 1921 after an honorable discharge Oct. 27, 1919, from the Army. He served in World War I as a first sergeant overseas with the 302nd Division, Remount Squad Cavalry including the Army of Occupation in Germany at the end of the war.

He served in the sheriff's office for 24 years, earning statewide recognition for courage, undaunted approach to difficult duty and earnest devotion to his responsibilities. Mr. Low retired in 1948.

He was married Aug. 6, 1926, in Portland to Laura Frances Clark, now of Yuma. Mr. and Mrs. Low built a home at 1975 Del Moro where they lived for over 30 years. He also homesteaded land as a veteran near Tulelake, a ranch he owned at the time of his death.

He was a member of Klamath Falls Lodge No. 1247 BPOE and of the American Legion.

Survivors include the widow, Frances, Yuma; one brother, Judd Low, Roseburg; two sisters, Mrs. John (Elsie) Siemens, Mill Valley, Calif., and Mrs. Hugh (Jo) Worcester, Berkeley, Calif.
