Local Trio Sees Opera, Tours Set

Opera has a new perspective for three Klamath Falls voice students who recently saw a performance of the San Francisco Opera Association's "The Queen of Spades" by Tchaikovsky.

The trio, Linda Drew, Kathy Chilcote and Tamia Mitchell, accompanied Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Richardson to San Francisco for the initial presentation.

They were treated to a tour of the opera house, saw work on the staging, visited the wig room, saw company employes making props and talked to the head of the wardrobe department.

The group met Herbert Scholder of Portland, publicity director, listened to the teleprompter behind the stage which keeps the cast out of trouble, met the stage director who designed the new set and saw Dorothy Kirsten who sang the feminine lead as Lisa.

Dr. Kurt Adler has directed for the San Francisco Opera Association for 11 years.

Court Upholds Jackson Conviction Trophies Go To Winners In Horse Show

The Oregon Supreme Court Wednesday upheld the second-degree murder conviction of Boyd Julius Jackson III of Chiloquin, who killed a woman and left her body in a car parked on Main Street in Klamath Falls Jan. 17, 1962.

The 23-year-old man had been sentenced to life imprisonment for shooting 33-year-old Patricia Jackson of Chiloquin, who was not a relative.

She was shot in the head with a .22 calibre pistol. The auto containing her body had been parked in front of a Main Street motel and police found Jackson asleep in the motel with the pistol under his pillow.

In another action Wednesday, the Supreme Court upheld a Klamath County Circuit Court decision that Adair's Furniture of Klamath Falls is entitled to payment from Klamath Falls realtor Paul McAttee under three contracts.

Judge Lyle R. Wolff had ruled in the Klamath County Court that McAttee must pay Adair's even though the company failed to properly sign the three contracts.

McAttee had taken the case to the Supreme Court, which backed the Klamath County Court.

Adair's suit had charged that McAttee quit paying on the three contracts. The total amount left was about $2,734, but court costs are expected to boost the amount McAttee must pay to more than $4,000.

The first Klamath Falls Equitation Horse Show to be held in Klamath Falls was Oct. 5 in the sales arena at the county fairgrounds. Entries were from Lakeview, Canby, Calif., and this area.

Jim Zeller, Chiloquin, judge of 4-H horse shows, also judged this show which included American saddlebreds, Arabians, thoroughbreds, and quarter horses.

A trophy went to first place horse winners in each of the seven classes and an overall trophy to the champion, Nugget, ridden by Janis Payne.

The show, which the sponsors hope to make an annual affair, was prompted by the need for adult competition in this area where many are interested in riding English (flat saddle).

Runner-up to the champion was Supreme's Forever Amber, ridden by Diane Gueck. Third place went to Princess, ridden by Diane Colby.

School Closing Reports To Beelayed On Radio

Cliff Robinson, county superintendent of schools, Wednesday announced plans for informing families of school cancellation during periods of bad weather.

He said that if school is cancelled due to bad weather, it will be announced on local radio stations starting at 6:30 a.m. on the day in question.

Also, Robinson reminded parents, it is sometimes necessary to send students home early from schools because of the weather.

Again, he said, information concerning early closure will be relayed to radio and television stations, and he again asked that parents do not call the schools, county school office or the stations.

He said decisions on school closures will be made after consulting the county roadmaster. "Hazardous road conditions are a factor in making decisions whether to run out buses," Robinson said in a letter to parents of county school children.

power failures are also a problem. Without electricity we are without heat, lights, water in some schools, and facilities for preparing lunches.

Highway Department Lists Traffic Counts Near KF

Traffic on two major highways in Klamath County increased during the first eight months of 1963 compared to the same period of the previous year and was down on three other highways for the same period, the Oregon State Highway Department has reported.

Increases were noted in traffic proceeding along ORE66 through Beatty, where traffic counters indicated an increase of 12.9 per cent.

Meanwhile, similar counters reflected a hike of 2.9 per cent in traffic passing through Merrill on ORE39.

Decreases were noted at two points along US97 and on ORE22, south of Fort Klamath. The latter point registered the greatest decrease with minus 13.4 per cent.

The vehicle counter on US97 near Chemult showed a decline of six per cent in passing traffic, while another counter on the same highway, near Midland, indicated a decrease of 2.5 per cent.

Other information released by the department indicated that of 45 traffic fatalities reported in the state during August one occurred in Klamath County. The fatality occurred about eight miles west of Klamath Falls at the Geary canal where the driver of an eastbound car was killed after the car struck a bridge.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average American consumer has piled up an installment debt equal to 13 per cent of his total disposable income, according to the American Bankers Association. The banking group says this figure is "historically a bit high."

Taxpayers Oppose Bill

The Klamath County Taxpayers League has voted to oppose the tax referral item on the Oct. 15 ballot.

The league said it opposes the bill because of its "many inequities."

The next meeting of the league will be held Oct. 17 at 8 p.m. at the Shasta Grange Hall, Shasta Way and Madison Street.

A film illustrating a new concept, land value taxation, will be shown. The film illustrates the concept with the story of a young couple who buys land upon which to build a house.

The public is invited to the meeting.

Honor Lunch Attracts Ex-Residents

Former Klamath County residents recently participated in a gathering at the Chemawa Indian School near Salem when Daughters of the American Revolution honored the original Americans at a luncheon at the school.

Mrs. J. Edward (June) Poitras, formerly of Chiloquin, now of Portland, a Klamath, exhibited a prize winning beaded saddle and other parade horse trappings which she has used in numerous parade appearances in Oregon.

Mrs. George P. Paris, state chairman of the Indians Committee, D.A.R. was general chairman for the luncheon. George Paris, executive chef at Barbary Coast Restaurant, prepared food donated by restaurant suppliers.

Also present and honored were Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, who spoke on brotherhood; Arthur S. Janalaska, Cherokee Indian playwright, actor and director who came to La Grande from New York to be director of performing arts of the Indian Festival of Arts, and Mrs. Gladys B. Price, founder of the festival.

More than 700 students, presently from Alaska and the Navaho Reservation, live at the school which prepares the youths for gainful employment.
