

Legitimate Claim Or Lousy Loser?

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to comment on the problem of class elections. Recently we had an election at our high school. Petitions were circulated for signing. Then the students of each class voted for president, secretary, treasurer, student council representative, and members of the executive committee.

Who was elected? The same bunch as last year — the cutest girls, the best looking fellows, the sharpest dressers and the kids from the richest families.

These kids who always win the elections don't deserve it, I know because I've tried to work with them (decorating the halls for dances and stuff like that) and they are the biggest goof-offs of all.

Please print my letter for the benefit of kids who elect leaders who have no leadership qualifications.—NOT ELECTED

Dear Not: Your letter sounds like a blast from a lousy loser. I've met a good many high school officeholders these past several years and they didn't look like goof-offs to me. Almost invariably they were attractive but they were also excellent students, and extremely well-mannered. (If I'm wrong kids, please tell me.)

Dear Ann: I am a young woman, 29, married and have four children. We all get along fine. Recently my mother's youngest brother passed away. Mom was very close to this brother and she is shattered with grief over his death. In a week mom will be visiting us for several days. She feels a change of scenery might do her good.

How shall we treat her? Should we encourage her to talk about her brother? Or would it be best if we changed the subject and tried to turn the conversation to more cheerful things? I hope you don't think this question is too silly to print. Thank you. MRS. U.N.C.

Dear U. N. C.: There is no rigid rule for dealing with people who are suffering from grief. It's best to play it by ear.

If your mother wants to talk about her brother, listen. Your conversation, however, should be steered along generally cheerful lines.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 17 years old and have been going with this boy for 10 months. He has told me he loves me so many times I've lost count. He asked me to marry him and I have said I would. Although it has not been announced, and I am not wearing a ring, we are as good as engaged.

Suddenly he doesn't want to be tied down. He says he still wants to see me but he also wants to be free to see other girls if he feels like it. I asked him if he had any girls in mind and he swears he has not. He also said he would feel better if I went with other fellows.

I have been out of circulation for so long now no other fellows know I'm alive. This is a terrible spot to be in and I'd like to know what to do about it.—VERY HURT

Dear Very: The first thing you can do is kick yourself for getting tied up for almost one whole, precious year. Next, consider yourself lucky you didn't marry this fellow, only to find out then he doesn't want to be tied down. My desk is piled high with letters from young kids who mistake biological urges for love. When the bloom is off the rose they start looking around, longingly, at what they've missed, and then somebody signs a letter "Very Hurt." This is only one of the reasons I'm so strongly opposed to going steady.

Nixon Denies Candidacy

HERSHEY, Pa. (UPI)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Saturday night he could not conceive of himself as the Republican presidential nominee in 1964.

Nixon was here at the Hershey Hotel for a sentimental birthday party for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower who will be 73 years old on Monday.

A large group of Eisenhower friends gathered here for an afternoon of chatting with the former chief executive and dinner with him Saturday night.

Nixon arrived in the late afternoon and was besieged by reporters before he could check into the hotel.

Briefly, his thoughts on upcoming national politics:

—He could not conceive of himself as the top GOP candidate next year.

—If his name is offered in any state primary requiring the consent of the candidate, he will not give it. He expects that his name may be offered in Oregon which does not require the consent of the candidate and in this case he will appeal to Gov. Mark Hatfield to take his name out of the picture.

California Board To Clarify Court Prayer Ruling

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Methodist Bishop Gerald Kennedy will begin work immediately to draft a statement authorized by the California State Board of Education clarifying the U. S. Supreme Court ruling governing prayer in the classroom.

Bishop Kennedy is head of the Southern California - Arizona conference of Methodist churches and a member of the board's belief that the high court's decision does not exclude God from schools.

"The Supreme Court did not ban God from the schools," declared board member William A. Norris, Pasadena attorney, during the final session of a two-day board meeting.

The action by the board followed a protest by two Orange County women that the theory of evolution was being taught as fact in elementary schools to the exclusion of religion.

Dr. Maxwell Rafferty, superintendent of Public Instruction, a frequent critic of the U. S. Supreme Court decision, declined to comment or enter into the discussion.

Bishop Kennedy said he would attempt to prepare the policy statement before the board's next meeting which will be held in San Francisco Nov. 14-15.

Kennedy and Norris agreed that the Supreme Court ruling allows certain references to religion to be brought into classrooms.

Norris added: "It said you cannot say prayers as a matter of faith (religion), but that you can discuss religion."

Several board members held the opinion teachers and administrators were now bypassing all religious topics in classrooms due to a misinterpretation of the court's decision.

Protests against the teaching of the theory of evolution in schools came from Mrs. Jean E. Sumrall, Costa Mesa, and Mrs. Nell J. Segraves, Santa Ana.

The board asked the women to submit any evidence to support their position to Superintendent Rafferty for further investigation.
