WALL STREET NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks responded to a batch of sparkling earnings reports today and moved higher despite a warning from Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon of a "possible recession next year."

Wall Street Chatter NEW YORK (UPI) — Ira Haupt & Co. points out that the average investor has failed to participate in the recent advance for many reasons. "First and foremost," it says, "the advance has been led by only a handful of stocks and the market as a whole has been a viciously selective place in which to invest funds in the past year. The small investor who proportionately suffered most in the 1962 decline has been most apprehensive about investing funds and has been happy to wait for his securities to come back to a level where he could recoup some of his capital. The large investor, contrarily, who proportionately suffered the least, has been extremely selective in reinvesting both funds derived from former sales as well as new funds."

Spear & Staff, Inc., says the weakness in the technical indicators "dictates a near-term policy of continued caution, some profit taking on more speculative issues and limited new buying."

According to Colby & Co., a move through the 750 level in the Dow-Jones industrial average, "would be a pretty good indication of a following move to about 775."

HERE'S HOW — Ever wonder how stripes are put in candy? Learn all the tricks of making candies at home with the professional touch at the Herald and News free cooking school Wednesday, Oct. 16. Attend either or both of the schools, 2 to 4 p.m. or 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., at Mills School Auditorium. There is no charge or obligation. Everyone is welcome to be the guest of the Herald and News. Here Mr. and Mrs. E. Remington Davenport show how to put the stripes on A.D. mints.

Candy School May Help Answer Gift Problem With Christmas not too far away, now is the time to be thinking about Christmas gifts. One of the nicest gifts of all is something made in the home kitchen with candy leading the list of appreciated remembrances. On Wednesday, Oct. 16, E. Remington Davenport, who has taught thousands to put the professional touch on candy made at home, will demonstrate tricks of his trade at a free public candy making school at Mills School Auditorium. There will be two classes, an afternoon session, 2 - 4 p.m. and an evening class from 7:30 to 9:30. No tickets are required and there is no obligation. The candy expert, who has been trading trade secrets with other professionals for many years, will make three kinds of candy, fudge, peanut brittle and after dinner mints, during the school and will explain techniques of 10 related candies. He will answer the puzzling questions on why candy turns to sugar, why some recipes say "cook without stirring," and many other questions from the audience. He is the author of two books on candy making which will be on display. One may be purchased for a nominal sum but there is no obligation to buy. The Herald and News welcomes you to the classes, open for the second consecutive year by popular demand.

THOMAS ODEN In The Day's News

Oden Heads Dimes Drive Thomas Oden, local insurance salesman, has been named director of the 1963-1964 March of Dimes. The campaign will start in November and conclude Jan. 1, 1964. His appointment came during the October meeting of the National Foundation March of Dimes. He will be assisted by Howard Axtel, assistant manager of a local bank, as publicity chairman. Mrs. Ruth Tribe, an active Red Cross instructor, will chair the Women's Activities Committee. In addition to these appointments, methods of financial aid to polio, arthritis, and birth defects were discussed. It was also pointed out that scholarship funds for local students desiring medical training are desperately needed.

Mrs. Rose Rites Set Funeral services will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 16, from the Littlefield Funeral Chapel in Ashland for Mrs. George Rose, 77, who died Oct. 13 in Salem. She had been in ill health for a month. Mrs. Rose was a native of East Orange, N.J., born Jan. 25, 1888. Her parents came to Ashland in the early days. Survivors include the widow, George Rose, Springfield; a son, Sanford Rose, Springfield; daughter, Mrs. Charles (Virginia) Mack, of 941 Windemere Drive N.W., Salem, a former resident of this city; brother, Jorbert Sanford, Ashland; also four grandchildren.

Father Dies John H. Lichtenstern, 71, died Oct. 14 in Medford. He is survived by the widow Grace, Medford; son, John R., Klamath Falls, and daughters, Eunice Mayes of Klamath Falls and Lorna Kasper, now residing in New Mexico; also three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Wednesday, Oct. 16, 1:30 p.m., at the Conger Morris Funeral Home in Medford.

Teachers Will Hear Talk By OEA Services Head Roy E. Dancer of Hillsboro will address the Klamath Falls Classroom Teachers Association on the subject "Negotiations." The meeting will be at Mills School Thursday, Oct. 17, at 3:30 p.m. On last July 1, Dancer assumed the position of head of the Oregon Education Association's new Professional Services Department. This department will offer direct services to local education associations in the negotiations area and extend greater assistance to O.E.A.'s subject areas and administrative departments. Dancer has been chairman of the Hillsboro Union High School language arts department for grades seven through 12 for the past five years of the 12 he has been with the system. Previously he was an English teacher, speech coach, and dean of boys at Dallas. In 1960 he was named Junior Citizen of the Year by the Hillsboro Junior Chamber of Commerce.

United Fund Campaign Hits One-Third Mark

The United Fund campaign has reached one-third of its goal in Klamath County, campaign leaders were told Monday at their weekly luncheon. As of Oct. 12, $48,416.60 had been raised, 33 per cent of the goal of $148,311. By far the largest percentage of the collections is in the Pilot Division, which has been operating for a month and a half. Pilot Division chairman Henry Kerr reported that 85.5 per cent of the division goal has been raised. This is $29,493.43 of the $34,511 goal. Outside the Pilot Division, the Education Division continued to lead the other divisions by collecting 78.6 per cent of its goal of $11,000. This division covers employees of schools in the county. Following close behind the educators, the Special Gifts Division reported collections of $3,259—76 per cent of its $4,300 goal. From there, collections drop down to 21.4 per cent at Kingsley Field. The goal there is $7,000. Other divisions, their collections to date and percentages of goals are: Large Firms II, $925, 14.2 per cent; Professional, $1,011, eight per cent; Downtown I, $900, seven per cent; Large Firms I, $2,476.40, six per cent; Public Employees, $237, 4.8 per cent; County, $340, 4.8 per cent; and Downtown II, $87, one per cent. In the Pilot Division, all 12 firms have contributed 100 per cent and four of the 12 have reported 100 per cent or better participation among employees. These are Cascade Laundry, 123 per cent; Klamath Plywood, 102 per cent; Montgomery Ward, 100 per cent; and Sears, Roebuck, 100 per cent. One other firm, Herald and News, reported completion of the employees campaign with 80 per cent completion. Other Pilot Division firms have not yet closed their campaign. These firms and employee participation percentages are: Klamath Lumber and Box, 92 per cent; Modoc Lumber, 89 per cent; Pacific Power and Light, 85 per cent; Great Northern Railway, 73 per cent; Pacific Northwest Bell, 72 per cent; Gilchrist Timber, 49 per cent; and Southern Pacific Railroad, 42 per cent.

Guilty Plea Entered By Kirksey

Melvin Kirksey pleaded guilty Monday to burglary not in a dwelling after waiting indictment by the grand jury. Kirksey, 41, will be sentenced Oct. 23 at 10 a.m. for the crime. The man signed a waiver of grand jury indictment in the circuit court of Judge Donald Piper and immediately pleaded guilty. Kirksey was apprehended last Wednesday night as he emerged from Bill's Towing, Spring and Elm streets. Police caught him coming out a broken window first. Kirksey was later implicated in another burglary the same night, but wasn't charged with that crime Monday. After the waiver was signed, Kirksey was charged on an information filed by the district attorney. Kirksey declined the court's offer of an attorney to be assigned to his case.

Man Given Fine, Term

Fred Hood of Chiloquin was sentenced to 15 days in jail and fined $100 Monday by Circuit Court Judge Donald Piper for disobeying a subpoena. Hood pleaded guilty to the contempt of court charge, admitting he willfully disregarded the subpoena served on him during the trial of Donald Hult Switlik three weeks ago. Hood will be given credit for the six days he has already spent in jail since his arrest on Judge Piper's bench warrant last week. Switlik was convicted of beating a hitchhiker and sentenced to state prison for not more than three years. Hood was identified during the trial as one of the five men in the car in which the hitchhiker was beaten. Meanwhile, the man indicted with Switlik for the beating, Louis Gibbons, has been freed on dismissal of the assault with a dangerous weapon charge.

Demo Club Will Report Tax Report

The Klamath County Democratic Club will hear an explanation of future state tax programs Wednesday — regardless of the outcome of today's tax referendum election. The explanation will come from State Representative James Redden of Medford. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Shasta Grange Hall, Shasta Way and Madison. Club officials, in explaining the meeting, said: "Regardless of the result of the tax referendum election Oct. 15, the voters will need to do some serious thinking about future revenue measures for the state. The club invites the public to turn out, hear Redden's ideas and express their own views." Light refreshments will be served at the meeting.

Elk Events Scheduled

Klamath Falls Lodge, No. 1247 BPOE will host a visitation from the Ashland Lodge No. 944 Thursday night, Oct. 17. Officers of the visiting lodge will initiate a class of candidates. The 8 p.m. lodge session will follow a 6:30 p.m. Italian dinner. Members with October birthdays will be free. Phone plans to attend dinner to TU 4-8181. Charter members night and the annual free venison feed is scheduled for Oct. 31. Donations should be taken to the meeting for "Santa's Pantry." Also scheduled is the Western dance and Chuckwagon Dinner on Nov. 2. Western togs will be in order. Be sure to phone the lodge if planning to attend any of these dinners. The cyclist was A2C. Robert Eugene Nesser, 20, who was treated for his injuries at the airfield dispensary and later released. He was negotiating a curve at the time of the accident, police reports indicated. The motor scooter was registered to Fred H. Hasse, also of Kingsley Field.

Two More Flee Home

Two teen-age girls added their names to the growing roster of juvenile home escapees early this morning when they slipped out a cell window. One of the girls had escaped last week, but later turned herself in. The juvenile home has been plagued recently with a series of escapes by female inmates. The two latest runaways are both 15 years old. They were reported gone at 1:07 a.m. and were the object of a search today. A warmer left his truck at the Worden truck stop Monday morning and when he returned moments later discovered that someone had stolen his suitcase containing personal effects and $63 in cash from the cab of the vehicle, according to Oregon State Police. Edwin Laine, La Puente, Calif., told police that he had parked his highway tractor and load of house trailers at a rest-room near the truck stop. Laine said that he observed no one in the area from the moment he left the truck until he returned. Police are investigating.
