WALL STREET: NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks rallied sharply today, pushing the Dow Jones industrial average to a new all-time high. Most of the gains were triggered by a long list of higher earnings, record auto sales, rising industrial production, a hopeful outlook for steel earnings this year and next, and a growing feeling that tax cut legislation will be passed before the end of the year. Gains from 1 to 4 points in nearly a dozen issues reflected improved earnings. These included Ferro Corp., Great Western Financial, Miles Laboratories, Parke Davis, Swingline, Upjohn, Texas Instruments, Youngstown Sheet and Smith Kline & French. Wall Street Chatter: NEW YORK (UPI) — Bache & Co. says the economy remains at a high level and "despite the age of the current period of expansion, there are few if any signs of deterioration." "While we don't anticipate any run-away boom or expansion, taking into consideration the fact that 1964 is an election year and the administration will make every effort to keep the economy moving, we feel it is reasonable to assume the economy will show moderate growth in 1964," Bache said. Investors Research Co. says despite the warning signals that have been flashing in the past few weeks, "there has been little serious price weakness in the industrial average or the market's leading groups. Even the speculative high-flyers have recovered rather well. Under these conditions investment accounts may continue to hold a fully invested position." OTI FIREMEN — These are three of the four full-time firemen at the Oregon Technical Institute Fire Department, which not only protects the campus, but provides training for student-firemen as well. Shown (left to right) are Chief Albert Loomis, Lt. Joe Bowen and Capt. Al Hart.

OTI Fire Squad Has Dual Purpose; Protects Campus, Trains Students

Editor's Note—This is another in a series of articles about Klamath County's fire departments. men in North Bend and one works in Baker as a fireman. Besides the four full-time men in the OTI department presently, Chief Loomis has eight "sleepers" — student - firemen who stand duty watches at the fire station. These men are not paid, except on occasions when they are called out to fight large fires for other departments. The OTI department is the first to be called out by the County Fire Department when extra equipment is needed on a blaze. Almost every large fire in the County Fire Department's jurisdiction finds OTI men on the scene. OTI firemen have three pieces of major equipment. There are two pumps, each capable of pumping 500 gallons of water per minutes. One of these vehicles carries 500 gallons of water in a tank, while the other carries only 150 gallons. The third vehicle is a 150-gallon - per - minute p u m p e r which carries 500 gallons of water. This four-wheel-drive rig is used frequently in the summer for the suppression of grass fires. At present, the future of the OTI Fire Department is in doubt. It was established nearly 20 years ago when the campus was first used by the government for the training of soldiers and continued in force when OTI was established in 1947. Its reason for being was — and is — protection of the large campus which is miles from the nearest fire station. But OTI is moving to a new fire substation near the new campus. This means that the OTI department will not be moving with the rest of the institute. There are three other possibilities: —The County Fire Department may absorb the men and equipment into a new substation for that department; —The department may continue to protect the present campus if it is utilized for one or more of several different purposes; — The department may be abolished altogether. A decision on the fate of OTI firemen probably will be made in the near future.

Ballot Controversy Leads To Mistrial Declaration

Klamath Falls hotel owner Frank Weaver's citizen's arrest of three election judges Tuesday took on new ramifications today when a completely different court case was declared a mistrial. The case declared a mistrial was that of John Dobranski, charged with larceny of a calf. There has been testimony on the case for the past week and a half. But Tuesday's action by Weaver affected this case because Weaver was a juror in the Dobranski case. Dobranski's attorney moved for a mistrial this morning for two reasons—1) that one of the women Weaver arrested, Ada Barleen, had been a witness for the defense in the Dobranski case; and 2) that Weaver had conferred this morning with Dist. Atty. Dale Crabtree on the election matter, and that this was improper because Crabtree is prosecuting the Dobranski case. The defense contended that both of these actions would tend to prejudice Weaver against the defense and for the prosecution. Crabtree didn't object to the declaration of a mistrial by Circuit Court Judge David Vandenberg Sr.

A thief who apparently didn't care to be inconspicuous Tuesday night stole a bright orange pickup truck. But he abandoned it less than two hours later across town. C. V. Karns, 2215 Etna Street, reported to city police at 8:40 that his truck was stolen from its parking place on Eleventh Street, near Oak, while he was attending a meeting. At 9:30, Mrs. C. D. 2 Airmen Win Cash For Ideas

Two Kingsley Field airmen have received monetary awards for beneficial suggestions which will improve safety methods and save labor and material costs to the government, the Information Office of the air field has disclosed. One of those cited was A.I.C. Gary L. Zeigler, refueling unit operator for the Materiel Squadron, who has suggested the use of a new type of sample container that would reduce breakage and improve safety. A native of Columbus, Ind., Zeigler came to the air field in 1961 and has been transferred to Naha, Okinawa. The other recipient, A.I.C. Edward E. Zander, a carpenter for the 400th Materiel Squadron, was awarded $30 for suggesting that wooden moulding and metal putty be used on window sashes. Adoption of the idea has resulted in a substantial cost reduction in labor and material, the Information Office reported. Airman Zander, a native of Medford, entered the Air Force in 1961 and came to Kingsley Field in 1962.
