

Strong Southern Oregon Passing Faced By Oregon Tech Owls Next

It's back to Oregon Collegiate Conference action for Ron Pheister's Oregon Tech Owls Saturday night as they travel to Ashland for the annual meeting with the strong Southern Oregon Red Raiders.

In returning to conference play following a 26-7 setback last Saturday night against the Portland State Vikings, the Owls will also be returning to action against the league's scoring leader.

It will also mark the second consecutive battle for the Owls against a team well-known for a sparkling passing attack.

The Raiders, led by 155-pound quarterback Bill Bailey, currently ranks 14th in the NAIA national passing figures. And, they now are pacing the Oregon Collegiate Conference statistical picture in the aerial game.

It is against this type of game the Owls will attempt to control if the first league triumph of the season is to be collected.

The Raiders' overall attack has accounted for over 400 yards per game in four outings and has produced an average of 40 points per game, while the defense has allowed average of 19 points.

The Owls, meanwhile, have allowed an average of 23.7 points per game while scoring an average of 12.5.

Pass defense has been, naturally, one of the principal phases of the Owl workouts this week in preparation for the Raiders.

The Owls have given up a total of 583 yards in four games, a large portion of which was collected by the Portland State Vikings last weekend in the league opener.

It was Mike Schunk passing good for 266 yards, two touchdowns and setting up two other TDs climaxing the Owl lack of pass defense in the Viking contest.

The principal aim this week has been to improve this sufficiently to stop the passing of Bailey to such talented receivers as ends Denny Ellis and Bill White and halfback Doug Olsen.

The Raiders have other passers in Olsen and southpaw Mike Hood.

Often the Southern Oregon eleven will send Olsen to the right side on an option run-pass rollout or the lefthander Hood to the left side on the same play.

Both have proved accurate in their aerial attempts and this compounds the Owls' problem in containing the Red Raider offense.

The Raiders have also employed the tackle-eligible pass on which left tackle Glen Moses is the target. According to scouting reports, it was this play used on the first offensive play of the game for the Raiders last weekend against Eastern Oregon accounting for the initial touchdown of the fray.

The Raiders add to the offense with the running of 200-pound fullback Steve Grimes, who has picked up the necessary yardage up the middle each time called upon.

Of special interest to Klamath Falls fans is the work of freshman center Bob Holman. The 190-pound Holman is a regular starter for the Raiders.

The Owls are reported to be in top shape for the contest, with one exception. This is regular starting defensive left tackle John Harris who is still hampered with a leg injury sustained early in the season.

The Owls slowed practices some Thursday, with no contact in the picture after a session Wednesday considered by Pheister to be "... the best practice we've had all season."

A few new plays have been added to the Owl offense this week in an effort to improve this phase of the Oregon Tech game.

Next weekend, the Owls return to Medford Field for a Homecoming meeting with the Oregon College Wolves.

Pelicans Await Tornado Clash, Seeking To Duplicate 1960 Win

Change that 1960 Klamath Falls-Medford football result. Change it to read a 7-6 triumph posted by the Pelicans, not by the Tornado.

This is the most recent victory by the Pelicans over the Black Tornado, not 1953 when a 26-18 win was recorded.

The last win by the Pels is well-remembered, for it was the 1960 edition of the Pelican football club which ended the Southern Conference season in a three way tie for first place along with Grants Pass and Medford. And, through a three-way draw, the Cavemen were ruled the team to represent the league in the state playoffs and face the eventual state champion that year, the Roseburg Indians, in the quarterfinals where they were defeated.

Tonight the teams resume their rivalry dating back to 1914 when they tangled at Modoc Field at 8 p.m. in the Pelican Homecoming contest. It's the 53rd meeting of the teams in the series, with the record now standing at 37 wins for Medford, nine for the Black Tornado possessed by the Black Tornado will be its outstanding group of backs and large forward wall.

At quarterback it's Mike Barnes, and outstanding halfback last year and a quarter-back the previous year; halfback Greg Gaudet, 165-pounder and at the other halfback Tim Murray, who throws his 186-pounds into ground-gaining action for the Tornado and fullback Bill Enyart, a 215-pounder fense in an attempt to keep any sustained drive which might materialize alive to a successful conclusion.

This has been a problem with the Pels as they have mounted good drives against top opposition, only to see them bog down short of the end zone.

With the exception of Tom Osa, Pelican defensiveness injured in the Grants Pass game, the KU eleven will be in top condition physically for the fray.

The same offensive alignment which has started previous contests for the Pels is expected to go against the Tornado.

This is the picture a few hours prior to the renewal of one of the state's oldest traditions.

The outcome of course is always in doubt, however, a near certainty is the large crowd always in attendance at a Medford-Klamath Falls grid contest. Kickoff time at Modoc Field is 8 p.m.

RAIDERS NEXT — Richard Yamashiro, 187-pound guard from Maui, Hawaii, will lead the OTI Owls against the Southern Oregon Red Raiders at Ashland Saturday night in the second Oregon Collegiate Conference contest for the Owls. The Raiders are favored for the 1963 title.

Pioneers Now Rated Twelve

KANSAS CITY Mo. (UPI) — Lewis and Clark took over 12th place in the NAIA football poll Thursday after beating Linfield 21-7 last weekend.

Linfield, which had been in the top 10, fell out of the first 20, but was listed with 11 other teams which received votes.

Lewis and Clark, unbeaten in four games, was one of only four teams to receive a first-place vote in the poll this week. The others were to-ranked Texas A & M, second-ranked Florida A & M and third-ranked Northern Illinois.

Grid Upsets Take Toll

The nation's wave of football upsets took its toll of area "experts" in last week's start of the weekly feature "Football Predictions."

Those fortunate enough to hit a .500 average numbered three, while four other "experts" fell below the break-even mark. Just one was lucky enough to correctly pick more than half the contests listed.

Undaunted, however, the "experts" return for another week of attempting to pick the winners of some of the top collegiate football games in the country.

Vote Slated Tonight On Olympic Site; Lyon, France, Is Favored

BADEN-BADEN, West Germany (UPI) — The International Olympic Committee will vote tonight on the site of the 1968 Olympics and it is expected that Lyon, France, will get the designation.

Michigan Gov. George Romney, however, was confident that Detroit would receive strong consideration.

"We've got a lot to offer and I think people will be impressed by our layout," Romney said Thursday after viewing Detroit's huge exhibit. "It will be tough, but exciting."

Other cities in contention for the Olympic site are Buenos Aires and Mexico City. There was a possibility that the Detroit delegation might make a deal with Buenos Aires where by the losing city on the first ballot would shift its support behind the other.

Prior to the voting, which will be conducted among 69 delegates, representatives of the four cities each will have 45 minutes to present their qualifications before the committee.

Strengthening the Lyon bid was a petition by a 13-member Afro-Asian bloc that the IOC hold the 1968 games in a city "which will avoid a long and difficult journey."

The petition said that the "financial means" of the Afro-Asian National Olympic Committees were "very slender." Only one of the 13 nations which signed the petition, Egypt, has a vote in choosing the site.

PELICAN WEIGHT — John Enright, 212-pound senior tackle, will be in action for the Pelicans tonight at Modoc Field as the KU eleven hosts the Medford Black Tornado in one of the state's top prep traditionals.

for the Pelicans and six games having ended in deadlocks.

This is the brief history of the titanic and now the night arrives, with the Black Tornado a heavy favorite to add another win over the Pels.

Both clubs have engaged in brisk and lengthy workouts during the week in preparation for the fray.

And, despite the fact the Pelicans are winless in live outings while the Tornado has worked up an impressive 4-1 record, Medford mentor Fred Spigelberg is sure to have the Tornado ready for the Pels.

Needless to say Coach Bob Williams' Pelicans will be ready mentally for the contest. Practice sessions this week have shown this.

However, much more difficult who gets the three and four yards when needed.

This is the backfield the Pels must control.

The large Tornado forward wall is just as impressive, with 225-pound Jeff Hardrath anchoring.

Of 124 yards rushing by the Tornado last Friday night against Crater, Enyart was responsible for 108 yards in 18 carries. The Crater eleven outrushed the Tornado in the first half of this contest 91 yards to 76, however, Barnes only pass completion of the evening good for 43 yards gave the Medford club an edge in the first half yardage stats.

The Pels have stressed both offense and defense in preparation for the Tornado, with a few new wrinkles added to the offense.

Ashland Grizzlies Top Runners

The Ashland Grizzlies won a three-way cross-country meet at Ashland Thursday by collecting 29 points to 39 for Klamath Falls and 52 for Crater.

The team scores were also broken down into dual meet scores, with Ashland topping Klamath Falls, 24-31; Klamath Falls beating Crater, 23-32 and Ashland defeating Crater, 20-25. Ashland's Gerald Brown paced the runners to the wire with a time of 9:30.6. Placing for Klamath Falls were Merkle Britt, Terry Metler, Ralph Tolten, Gary Maw and Bob Robbins in that order.

The Pelicans return to action Tuesday when they host Medford.
