

Rebels Join Ben Bella

ALGIERS (UPI)—President Ahmed Ben Bella's regime was greatly strengthened today in its border conflict with Morocco because of the unexpected submission of rebel Berbers in the Kabylia region.

Ben Bella announced in a radio broadcast Thursday that Col. Mohamed Ou El Hadj, military leader of the Kabylia rebels, had rejoined the Algerian army and was on his way to the front to help fight the Moroccans.

(Hopes for the peaceful settlement of the fighting between Algeria and Morocco rose with a report from Tunis that Ben Bella and Moroccan King Hassan II would meet soon in Libya to discuss their differences.)

(The report was attributed to the press officer of Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie, who has been conferring with Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba on the North African crisis. Selassie earlier visited Hassan and Ben Bella in an apparent mediation effort. The report was not immediately confirmed by Algerian or Moroccan sources.)

Plea Made For Faithful In Communist 'Chains'

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Bishops from Iron Curtain countries urged the Ecumenical Council today to recognize the faithfulness of Christians who are "almost in chains."

The plea was made as the council fathers opened debate on a document which calls on all Christians—the laity as well as priests and members of religious orders—to lead holy lives.

At today's session the fathers also overwhelmingly approved a declaration that the Roman Catholic Church will be glad to go along with other Christian bodies in fixing Easter on the same Sunday each year.

The declaration in addition endorsed international discussions of a so-called perpetual calendar under which any given date would always fall on the same day of the week every year. But it stipulated that under any reform of the civil calendar the church must insist on maintenance of the traditional seven-day week with a Sunday.

The vote was 2,058 to nine. By a vote of 2,057 to 13 the fathers approved another amendment to a pending liturgical reform document to make clear that the Catholic Church approves the veneration of saints and their "authentic relics and images."

The first representative from the "church of silence" to address the council today was Archbishop Anton Baraniak of Poznan, who spoke on behalf of the entire Polish hierarchy.

He said that the council should take public note of the loyalty of Christ which is being displayed by millions of laymen under "very difficult circumstances" in countries where there is "oppression of religion."

He said it takes real courage for parents in such countries even to have their children baptized.

State Won't Subsidize New Plants

PORTLAND (UPI)—Oregon is not so desperate to attract industry that it will subsidize new plants, Sam H. Mallicoat, director of the Oregon Department of Planning and Development, told the Oregon Bankers Association Thursday.

"We do not subsidize new industry and we are not seeking plants on that basis," he emphasized.

"We are not in the business of buying new plants by offering free land, 10-year tax concessions or use of tax money to finance new ventures," he declared, referring to practices of some other states.

Mallicoat admitted the state's attitude has cost it some industry.

"Two months ago a company seeking a location for a new plant...communicated with a dozen or so Oregon communities," he revealed. "The terms were simple: Free land, four per cent financing of a new plant over 10 years and a virtual guarantee of cheap labor. 'The plant did not land in Oregon.'"

Mallicoat said his department attempts to create an image of Oregon as a state where an industry can come in, develop and prosper.

"We go on the basis that the industry we now have is just as important—or even more important—than the new industry we might get," he explained.

He said the state's image in the scientific field is enhanced by new facilities such as Martin Marietta's research center west of Portland, the federal water quality laboratory at Corvallis and the oceanographic research laboratory under construction at Newport.

Republican Nod Goes To Paxon

BEAVERTON (UPI)—Beaverton businessman Elwin Paxon won the Washington County Republican Central Committee's endorsement Thursday night for the House seat soon to be vacated by State Rep. Robert Jones, R-Portland.

Jones is scheduled to resign Oct. 31 to become a Multnomah County circuit judge. The Washington County Commission will meet to name a successor the next day.

Hospital Says Sheriff 'Fine'

MEDFORD (UPI)—Siskiyou County, Calif., Sheriff Al Cottar was reported in "every fine" condition at Rogue Valley Memorial Hospital today after undergoing facial surgery Thursday.

Cottar was injured Wednesday night when his pickup truck struck a herd of horses near Yreka, Calif. The sheriff said he swerved his vehicle after being blinded by the lights of an oncoming truck.

STEVENSON WHACKED — Mrs. Cora Lacy Frederickson, 47, Dallas, Tex., with her tongue sticking out, strikes U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Adlai Stevenson (partly hidden behind sign) with a picket sign. Stevenson was heckled and booed during a speech in Dallas last night celebrating UN week. Stevenson was leaving the auditorium as Mrs. Frederickson struck him and two unidentified men spat in his face. The woman claimed it was an accident. She meant only to "shove the sign in front of his face, but someone pushed me."

Stevenson Booed, Hit And Spat On

DALLAS (UPI)—Adlai Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, gave an optimistic view of the U.N.'s record of preserving peace Thursday night, then had to fight his way through a militant mob that cursed, booed, beat and spat on him.

Outnumbered police tried to escort him to a waiting limousine. But a woman rushed up and rapped Stevenson on the head with an anti-U.N. placard. Two young men spat in his face.

Police arrested a 22-year-old North Texas State University student. They said he would be charged with inciting to riot and aggravated assault on Stevenson.

About 70 demonstrators showed and jostled Stevenson, who spoke to commemorate the U.N. Day in Texas.

"It was a concerted action by members of (former Maj. Gen.) Edwin Walker's following and the John Birchers," Jack Goren, president of the sponsoring Dallas U.N. Association, said.

"All they've done is disgrace Dallas and the good manners of Texans and Americans."

Stevenson said he did not understand why persons of different points of view showed such "bad manners."

Frank B. McGehee, leader of a conservative movement known as the National Indignation Convention, rose from the second row of Dallas Memorial Auditorium as Stevenson prepared to start speaking.

"Mr. Ambassador," McGehee said, "I have a question."

"I will be glad to give you equal time when I am through," Stevenson said.

Again McGehee rose and started to address Stevenson. "Throw him out," cried persons throughout the crowd of 5,000.

"I don't have to come from Illinois to teach Texans manners, do I?" Stevenson asked.

Police escorted McGehee out of the hall.

Members of conservative organizations sat in scattered parts of the auditorium, many waved American flags and some Confederate banners. Stevenson had to stop speaking several times because of hissing, booing and cat-calls.

Stevenson said differences between Communist China and Russia are deep and serious and because of them "the cold war will never be the same again. We are moving into a new era."

He said the atmosphere in the U.N. was the best since 1946 because all nations were talking the language of diplomacy. He termed the world organization a solid investment, costing about $100 million a year.

Recent Upsurge Failed To Cut Unemployment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An AFL-CIO spokesman said today the fact that a recent upsurge in production did not make a dent in heavy unemployment showed the need for a 35-hour week and increased public works spending to create more jobs.

AFL-CIO Research Director Nathaniel Goldfinger said the jobs ratio held steady at 5.6 per cent of the labor force during the past year while the nation's output of goods and services rose by $1.7 billion.

The third-quarter advance in the Gross National Product—the barometer of output—reached a two-year peak of $8.9 billion but unemployment did not show any significant drop this summer, Goldfinger added.

Instead, the economy expanded just enough to provide jobs for 1 million more persons—the same number who entered the labor force looking for work during the past 12 months.

Goldfinger said an "extraordinary" rise in productivity—output per man-hour—was mainly responsible for the paradox of rising production without corresponding increases in job openings. Productivity may have advanced from 3.5 to 4 per cent during the third quarter of 1963, he said, on top of 1961 and 1962 productivity advances of well over 3 per cent.

"This confirms our belief that it's necessary to have very substantial increases in production to have an effect on employment," he said in an interview.

The AFL-CIO is supporting President Kennedy's proposed $11 billion tax cut because this will provide a "quick lift" to the economy, Goldfinger said. But a tax reduction is no cure-all, he said, and cannot be expected to restore full employment within the foreseeable future.

New Draft Plan Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department is considering a plan under which all youths would be given physical and mental tests for the draft at the age of 18, it was learned today.

At present, the physical and mental tests are given at the time of induction, which averages 23 years.

Defense officials said the purpose of the change would be to increase voluntary enlistments in the armed services.

They said they believed that more youths would enlist if they knew they were physically and mentally qualified and probably would be drafted five years later anyway.

More than half of the potential draftees now are rejected by physical and mental tests, but it is believed the rate of rejections would be far smaller if they were given to all youths.
