WALL STREET NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks moved up to a new closing record today, paced by strength in drugs, electronics and a few individual blue chips. Largely responsible for a sizable jump in the Dow Jones industrial average were gains of nearly 4 in General Motors, more than 2 in Du Pont and American Telephone and better than 1 in Standard of Jersey, the last on news of record nine-month earnings.

By United Press International Stocks higher in moderately active trading. Bonds narrowly mixed. U.S. government bonds firm in quiet trading. American stocks irregularly higher. Cotton futures steady. Wheat closed up 2 1/2 to 4 cents; corn unchanged to up 1 1/2 cents; oats up 1/2 to 1 cent; rye up 3/4 to 1 1/2 cents; soybeans up 10 to 6 1/2 cents a bushel.

Wall Street Chatter NEW YORK (UPI) — Market analyst Elliot Janeway notes that the market leaders have broken out of their trading range into a sharp new move and that the old target for the Dow-Jones average at 750 has now become a base. "The Dow shouldn't have much trouble jumping to 760 in spite of the administration's new campaign against steel, and the 760-800 level is its next objective," Janeway said. "Sometimes," he added, "the market plays the old game of follow the leader — that is follow the leaders on the ticker. That's what it started to do again last week and what it seems to be set to do for the next round."

Bache & Co. says that "while fundamental business news continued exceedingly good, current market behavior leads us to believe that we are still in the consolidation phase we have been experiencing for some time."

L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. says that "while the steel quills naturally are lower on the news of the government's recent action, they are being supported by better than expected third quarter earnings, by the realization that fourth quarter earnings should be better than third, and by the refusal of other parts of the market to be infected by their softness."

Change Taken From Machine

City police are investigating the theft of change from a soft drink machine located in Klamath Valley Hospital. The Coca-Cola Bottling Company reported the theft Thursday afternoon. The break-in apparently occurred Wednesday night when only one person was on duty in the hospital office. The company said $150 in damage was done to the machine. No estimate of the amount of change was reported.

Suit Filed As Result Of Beating

A 24-year Toppenish, Wash., man filed a civil suit in the amount of $17,578.05 in the county clerk's office Thursday naming as defendants three Klamath Indians who allegedly pistol-whipped him into unconsciousness on Agency Lake Road last Aug. 11.

The suit was filed by a local attorney on behalf of John D. Whittington, who seeks general, exemplary and special damages in the specified amount from Donald Huitt Switlik, 23, Louis Harvey Gibbons, 31, and Fred Ryan Hood, all of Chiloquin.

In his complaint, Whittington charges that as a result of the beating he was hospitalized for two days with severe lacerations above his right eye, bruises and contusions of the face, head, and body, a brain concussion and shock to his nervous system. He further states that he is still suffering from the effects of the attack.

As a development of the assault, Switlik and Gibbons were indicted by the Klamath County Grand Jury on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon. Switlik was later convicted and sentenced to serve a term of not more than three years in the Oregon State Penitentiary. Gibbons was slated for trial this month but the charges against him were subsequently dismissed.

Earlier this month, Hood was charged with contempt of court and sentenced to 15 days in the county jail and fined $100 after he failed to respond to a subpoena calling for him to testify at the Switlik trial.

Murder Weapon Found By Police

Klamath County law enforcement officers went looking for a needle in a haystack Thursday and beat the odds.

The needle was in the form of the .32 caliber bullet that killed Rudy Rodriguez, a 42-year-old potato harvest worker, during a shooting in an automobile about 3 a.m. Wednesday in Merrill.

Charged with first degree murder are Isabel Pina Rodriguez, 24-year-old farm laborer, who has admitted to being the slayer, and his brother, Thomas, who witnessed the shooting and helped dispose of the body in a ditch near a Malin ranch. The brothers are not related to the victim.

It was that ditch in which District Attorney Dale Crabtree, his investigator John Webber, and Deputy Sheriff Del Summers sought the projectile that took a downward course as it entered the left temple of Rodriguez.

The spent projectile that represents the last vital piece of evidence collected by the district attorney in preparing a case against the Rodriguez brothers was located by deputy Summers in a clump of grass along a ditch bank some two feet from the road, about 6 p.m.

The officers went to where the body was found after an earlier search of the death scene automobile by Cpl. Larry Bergmann of the Oregon State Police and Deputy Sheriff Lou Bogart failed to uncover the missing projectile.

Letters Urge Wage Cuts, Common Sense Program

Here are excerpts from a few of these: "Actions of the legislature which riled the taxpayers: 1. Sparring between the two houses, and especially their leaders, for favorable position; 2. Irresponsibility in raising their own salaries and the ridiculous per diem allowed. We like our graft to be more subtle. People feel vicious toward the men as well as toward the tax."

"The tax bill, in itself, wasn't too bad, but the way it was tried to put across wasn't too good. It has got so that people just want to stand by and let things be shoved down their throats."

"The tax increase wouldn't be necessary if they would cut wages of the brass in higher education. Some of them got twenty thousand dollars, home, car,

'Bomb' Found In Used Car

An object that resembled a bomb was found in the trunk of a car at a South Sixth Street auto dealership Thursday afternoon—but the Kingsley Field bomb squad determined it was a harmless battery pack. A mechanic discovered the object wrapped in a burlap sack. The auto had been traded in on a new car.

Police were called and they removed the object to the police headquarters, where it was picked up by the Kingsley Field detail. The object was a 13-inch-long section of rubber radiator hose, capped on each end. What aroused the original suspicion were the wires attached to the object. Inside the hose were five flashlight batteries.

Local Authorities Check Homosexual Ring Report

Klamath County authorities today launched an investigation into reports that local residents may be tied into a ring of men and boys engaged in homosexual activities in the Portland area which is believed to have been broken. Two men were arrested in secret indictments in Portland and authorities there said the case may spread to Eugene and Klamath Falls.

Klamath County Dist. Atty. Dale Crabtree this morning initiated an investigation into those reports and Klamath Falls Chief of Police Charles Howard said one tie-in has already shown up. Howard said a former Chiloquin man who was arrested in Klamath Falls Aug. 24 on a Portland warrant charging him with sodomy has been implicated into the Portland ring. This information was relayed to Howard from Portland authorities this morning.

Howard said there has been no evidence uncovered as yet to indicate Klamath Falls students have been involved, but an investigation is continuing along that line. Klamath Falls was pinpointed in the investigation by Leonard Schurr, a special investigator for the Portland Public Schools, who said: "We haven't been able to track down everyone yet so we cannot give positive answers, but we do know this case will stretch to Klamath Falls and Eugene."

Authorities said activities of the Portland group included filming of obscene still and motion pictures. Two of the indictments charge Michael Patrick Dillon, 25, of Portland with two counts of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He is being held. Another indictment charges Samuel L. Thompson, 28, of Portland with the same offense and he is being held in Rocky Butte. The fourth indictment charges a third man who has not yet been arrested. The Multnomah Grand Jury viewed color films reportedly taken in Thompson's residence, and other Portland homes. Police said the ring involves a number of boys from Portland high schools. Three policemen raided Thompson's residence Oct. 11 and confiscated the motion and still pictures and camera equipment. Officers said homosexual parties are held regularly in Portland residences. The Oregon Journal said today as many as 18 persons eventually may be involved in the investigation.
