

Fremont Forest Fire Danger Subsides

LAKEVIEW — Fire danger is considerably reduced in the forests, according to the weekly report from the Fremont National Forest, but caution is still urged with camp and warming fires.

In the Drews Valley district there are muddy spots on the roads; log hauling has been completed on the Dog Lake road. Hunting for water fowl is fair; some fish are being taken at Cottonwood Meadows Lake.

In the Paisley district fishing on all rivers is fair; hunting the last weekend improved due to cold nights.

In the Silver Lake district forest travelers are cautioned to watch for logging trucks as all main roads into Silver Lake have logging traffic. Some reconstruction is going on at Thompson Reservoir campground and parents are cautioned to watch their children. Bird hunting is fair to good in rim areas and fishing at Thompson Reservoir is fair.

The two-day event, to be known as Medford Air Force Days, is being promoted by Medford merchants and the Medford Chamber of Commerce.

Activities scheduled for the event are a diamond formation flyover at 1 p.m. Friday; a precision marching formation by the Honor Flight in the downtown shopping center at 7:30 p.m. Friday and at noon Saturday; a jet engine display; and five window displays of flight clothing and equipment. There will also be a display of missiles.

Col. Edwin J. Witzinger, commanding officer of Kingsley Field, will speak at a Kiwanis luncheon Wednesday in connection with the observance.

High Cards Don't Help

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Editor

Sometimes high cards may prove to be an embarrassment of riches.

East looked at his fine hand and opened one diamond with every expectation of winding up with a nice profit. It came as quite a shock to find that his opponents were in a heart game before the bidding got back to him. East wanted to compete further, but decided that discretion was the best strategy and passed.

West opened the deuce of diamonds and East was in the lead with the king. He thought a while or at least paused because if he had really thought he might have come up with the winning defense. Finally he led his singleton trump. South won with the ace and played two more rounds of trumps. Then he led the ten of clubs and it was all over but the mopping up. South had to lose two club tricks, but that was all. Eventually he was able to discard two spades and a diamond on dummy's long clubs and to ruff his other diamond with dummy's last trump.

Had East really thought before leading to trick two he could have defeated the contract. He would have seen the club danger and led a spade up to dummy's ace-queen. Then he would have been able to lead a second spade before the clubs were set up and would have made a spade trick.

Where does the embarrassment of riches come in? Had East held queen-jack-ten of spades he would have had no trouble finding the spade shift. The king was his undoing.
