Dam Facts Outlined

MOUNT SHASTA — At the Mount Shasta Chamber of Commerce luncheon last Thursday at the Lamplighter, Sen. Randolph Collier of Yreka spoke 12 minutes on the Box Canyon Dam project. He was very explicit regarding facts to be studied by the state legislature.

The cost of $12 million to be paid by those who will benefit from the project must be studied to fix the cost, he said. The Senator added that feasibility considering hazards must be checked after all other aspects are surveyed.

Jury Fails To Rule On Easter

A Bend circuit court jury has failed to reach a verdict in the case of Oregon vs. William J. Easter, 72, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a Klamath Falls girl, the Herald and News learned Friday.

Judge Robert Ford did not set a date for a new trial following announcement of the hung jury. Earlier this year, Easter had been indicted by the Klamath County grand jury on two counts of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and one count of filing a fraudulent claim with a fire insurance company.

The defendant pleaded not guilty to all three counts in a local court and the cases were transferred to the circuit court at Bend when a request by Easter's attorney for a change of venue was upheld here.

In two separate trials at Bend last summer, one jury acquitted Easter of fraud and another exonerated him on one of the contributing charges. Easter resides at 1050 California Avenue.

Chambers Study Siskiyou Fish And Game Report

ETNA — A comprehensive outline of fish and game habitat improvement and increased public access in Siskiyou County is now in the hands of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Siskiyou County.

The State Department of Fish and Game prepared this detailed report at the request of J. D. Proctor, Etna, chairman of the associated chambers' fish and game committee.

Proctor stated that this report gives local interests a basic understanding of the Fish and Game Department's projected program in Siskiyou County. The associated chamber will in turn make the report available to the member chambers of Dunsmuir, Mount Shasta, Weed, Yreka, Scott Valley, and Klamath River to develop greater cooperative efforts.

Proctor hopes the report can be augmented soon with a timetable and budget figures to give Siskiyou County some idea of what specifics to anticipate in the next five years.

Under one current program in Siskiyou County, 18 big game water sumps and three big game gazzers have been constructed under cooperative agreement with the National Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management.

Additional water holes are being plotted the report said. Experiments are underway on the restoration of game food and cover, with test plots where clearing and seeding are being compared to the regrowth potential of mahogany and bitterbrush which provide deer forage.

Public access to unpatented lands in Siskiyou County is now hampered by an existing checkerboard pattern of ownership, the report noted, and land exchanged are being studied. Through the efforts of Siskiyou County personnel of the Fish and Game Department, landowners, particularly in the Shasta Valley, are engaged in game habitat improvements which contribute to the general increase in the county's recreational values.

The success of ring-neck pheasant plants has prompted a program of introduction of other game birds. Five hundred Turkish chukars were released in the foothills of Shasta Valley during the past two years, the report continued.

Game managers are currently engaged in measuring and evaluating wildlife, which may be affected by the proposed Box Canyon Dam and improvements to Dwinell Ditch, so the interests of the public and sportsman may be considered in the early stages of planning. Few counties in the state are receiving as much attention in the fisheries management field as Siskiyou County, the report continued, because of the wide-spread stream and lake variation in the county. The Fish and Game stocking program of Dwinell Reservoir in central Siskiyou County has made it a top habitat of large rainbow trout.

Camp Fire Board Discusses Need For Group Leaders

The need for women to serve as group leaders for Camp Fire Girl groups was the topic for much discussion at the Camp Fire Board of Directors meeting held Tuesday evening at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

In presenting a progress report on group organization in the council, Mrs. Naomi French, executive director, said, "Thirty-one group leaders have been found during the past month for new groups and for continuing groups which have lost their leaders, but many girls are still waiting for us to find leadership for them."

"All of these 31 new leaders have been given their orientation training and are now meeting with their girls," she added. "Eighty-one groups of girls are now active in the council, but the goal for this school year is 127 groups, in fact, we have girls waiting for leadership to fill this goal," the director stated.

Charles F. Johnson is chairman of group organization for Camp Fire Girls at board level, assisted in this work by Mrs. Bob Moore, Klamath Falls district; Mrs. Henry Kerr, South Klamath Falls district; Mrs. Paul Lewis, Merrill; Mrs. Herman Johns, Dorris; and Mrs. Ben Ash, Chiloquin.

In addition to these people, there are women in almost all schools to interview and help recruit volunteer leadership for the Camp Fire Girl groups. Specific needs were listed as follows: Gilchrist - Crescent area needs a Blue Bird leader and two Camp Fire leaders; Chiloquin needs a Junior High Camp Fire group leader for girls in the seventh and eighth grades; Camp Fire and Junior High leaders are needed at Sacred Heart Academy; and Blue Bird leaders are needed at Conger and Riverside schools.

Blue Bird and Camp Fire groups at Fairview, Mills, and Pelican schools are also waiting for leadership. In the south suburban area, group leaders are needed for Blue Bird and Junior High groups at Altamont; a Blue

Bird group at Henley; Camp Fire and Horizon Club girls at Peterson School; another Horizon Club at Shasta; and Falcon Heights School needs a Camp Fire leader.

Malin needs a Blue Bird and two Camp Fire leaders; Merrill needs a Camp Fire and a Blue Bird leader; and Dorris is looking for three Camp Fire leaders and a Horizon Club adviser.
