Delightful New Book For Youngsters Authored By Woman In Klamath Falls

By RUTH KING

"People coming up," said Daddy, picking up the shears again. He began to cut, and when he was through he had made a man paper doll . . . then Daddy cut out a lady wearing a hat. Unfortunately she turned out to be just a bit dumpy, but Daddy said her husband was so very handsome he made up for everything."

And then came four little boys and four little girls. And that is how the Beautiful Culppeppers came into being.

"The Beautiful Culppeppers" were created by a Klamath Falls author, Marion Uppington of 1940 Portland Street, whose delightful children's book has just reached a Klamath Falls bookstore.

It is written for children, grades three through five, and takes the Culppepper family through trials, "Mr. Culppepper picked up a feather which he found lying on the floor, and fanned his wife with it, but she lay perfectly still," through exciting adventuring, and a wonderful wedding.

The volume, first book written by Mrs. Uppington, is charmingly illustrated by Louis Slobokin who won the Caldecott Award from the Children's Services Department of the American Library Association. For the Most Distinguished American Picture Book of the Year, and recognition and many other awards and honors for his work. He lives in New York City.

Franklin Watts, Inc. New York, was the publisher.

Marion Uppington is the wife of Gaylord M. Uppington. She is a native Oregonian, born in Portland, and has lived in Klamath Falls for over 30 years.

She has liked to "juggle words" since first she could form sentences and cannot remember when she has not wanted to write. Although she has frequently crept out of bed in the wee hours to flip a light switch to hustle thoughts that have popped up while lying in the dark, onto paper, it is rarely necessary with Marion Uppington. Her thoughts, once formed, usually remain, locked tight in her subconscious.

While she has had published, in children's magazines, bits of verse and prose, "The Beautiful Culppeppers" is her first full-length book. A second is in the hands of the printers and a third is unfolding beneath the keys of her typewriter.

It was an illness after her two sons were grown, that actually took her to writing on a day to day schedule, "about an hour and a half a day." She is a perfectionist, writing and re-writing her copy until every word "talks."

In preparation for her career, she took a correspondence course from the University of Chicago. She is a nature enthusiast, loves the out-of-doors and takes home rocks from every jaunt, far and near.

She is the mother of Gaylord W., a chemical engineer of Richmond, Calif., and Thomas C. of Portland affiliated with Meier and Frank. Her husband is a construction engineer with the Weyerhaeuser Company . . . and she is a grandmother.

Should you want to shed the years and dip into the pleasant yesterdays of childhood, join in the Culppeppers who "have our house and a bright gay place it is in which to live, and we have each other. And we have friends, too . . . we have everything," sighed his wife contentedly. "There is nothing more to wish for."

Speakers Set Contest

Modoc Toastmasters No. 98 will prepare for their annual speech contest, to be held in the near future.

The group met Tuesday, Oct. 29, for a 6:30 a.m. session at Molatore's Restaurant with Toastmaster Bob Knuths officiating. The invocation and flag salute were by Ken Kinton. Joe Mercer was wordmaster; table topics, Lee Shafer; timer, Dick Wentworth and general critic was Norman Gould.

Speakers were Ollie Wolcott, who talked on "Pari-mutuel Taxes"; Bob Kennedy on "Word Use Peculiar to the West Coast and Loggers"; Bob Davies on "Speechcraft." Ollie Wolcott received the best speaker trophy and Joe Mercer, best table topic speaker trophy.

Three guests, Bob Scholze, forester, U.S. National Bank; Bob Moore, West Coast Airlines, and Bob Johnson, Clay Thomas Lumber Co., were introduced. Dick Wylie is president. The group meets for breakfast every Tuesday.

Rangers Will Move

Headquarters for the Chiloquin Ranger District of the Winema National Forest will be moved effective Nov. 1 from the old Klamath Agency headquarters to a new station development on Highway 97, it was announced by District Ranger Homer Faulkner. The station is on Highway 97 one-quarter of a mile north of the Chiloquin junction and opposite the Chiloquin City Airstrip.

The new headquarters site will provide offices and residence for key personnel engaged in management of the Chiloquin District. Buildings, which were just completed, were constructed under contract, and is another step in the multiple-use management program under forest service administration of these former reservation lands.

New mailing address for the Chiloquin District will be District Ranger, Post Office Box 357, Chiloquin. The telephone number remains unchanged — 783-2221.

Local Bull Wins Prize

The Lost River Hereford Ranch has gained distinction with the champion Hereford bull at the 19th Grand National Livestock Exposition, horse show and rodeo now in progress at San Francisco.

The championship honors were earned by the Lost River ranch entry in Tuesday's judging.

Other Oregon entries also gathered top honors. The Wolfe Hereford Ranch of Wallowa had the top Hereford female.

In the Angus class, the Hoots Angus Ranch at Grants Pass swept both the senior Angus bull and the Grand Champion Angus bull.

Solon Charges Gilpatrick With Conflict Of Interest

SEATTLE (UPI)—Rep. K. W. (Bill) Solon, R-Wash., Wednesday called for the immediate resignation of Assistant Secretary of Defense Roswell Gilpatrick.

Stinson, in a speech before the Seattle Downtown Rotary Club, said Gilpatrick was involved in a possible conflict of interest "to an even greater degree" than resigning Navy Secretary Fred Korth in the awarding of the TFX fighter plane contract to General Dynamics.

The Boeing Co., headquartered in Seattle, was General Dynamics' chief rival in the bidding for the TFX contract.

Stinson said Gilpatrick was a partner in the law firm of Craveth, Swaine and Moore. He said this firm received more than $300,000 in legal fees from General Dynamics between 1958 and 1963.

The last fee paid was $31,500 in the first quarter of 1963 after Gilpatrick had become assistant secretary of defense, Stinson added.

"In view of these circum-

Howell Notes Official Tally

SALEM (UPI)—The official count of the Oct. 15 tax election vote showed 362,045 against the income tax hike and 103,737 in favor, Secretary of State Howell Appling said today.

The vote represented a 61.4 per cent turnout of registered voters.

For the special election there were 401,778 Democrats, 346,922 Republicans and 11,829 others.

TV Set Taken From House

James Roberts, 1422 Oregon Avenue, reported to police this morning that his television set was stolen from his house while he was gone for two hours.

Roberts said he left the house at 11 p.m. Tuesday and when he returned at 1 o'clock this morning, the 17-inch set was missing from his front room. He said the front door had been unlocked.

Progress In Tissue Graft Reported By Researchers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Some hope for producing tolerance to tissue grafts was offered today by a medical college of Virginia research team.

So far, they were quick to add, there has been no practical application of a hopeful new technique devised at their laboratories.

But their research works toward a major medical problem of finding ways to make the human body accept the transplantation of organs or other tissue from other persons. Normally, as in the transplantation of kidneys between persons who are not identical twins, the body rejects the foreign tissue.

The Virginia findings were reported at the 49th annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons, where discussion of tissue transplants has been a popular activity.

Dr. John A. Mannick said the Virginians had recovered from rabbits a substance which indicates transplantation immunity when injected into the skin of the animals.

Most methods used in trying to make animals tolerant to tissue grafts consist of repeated injections of massive number of living foreign cells. The usual result is what is known as "runt disease," deterioration of the animal leading to death.
