Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vanden Broeck, Lieber & Co. notes that the performance of the stock market in the last two months is causing a combination of satisfaction and anxiety to close observers.

"There is satisfaction to once again see this impressive demonstration of the willingness of owners of capital to aggressively place their money in the equities of the most successful companies of the moment," it says. "However," it adds, "there is anxiety because of an apparent follow-the-leader mode of selection which has tended to make the market abnormally selective."

Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co. says t at nrrrrrrr

Kennety Ward of Hayden, not indicated as yet. He says investors should continue to maintain long term commitments "while bearing in mind that a large short position, the attractive profits outlook for 1963 and first quarter of 1964, and the prospect of a bumper year-end dividend crop constitute important stabilizing factors."

Reynolds & Co. says that while it is on its guard, "we still feel that worthwhile profits can be made in technically strong issues backed up by solid fundamentals."

Investment adviser Ralph E. Samuel says that it is his "rock-ribbed conviction that the American economy is going to continue to move forward and well-chosen equities probably provide the one best way of participation."

Jury Convicts Dean In Slaying Of Brother

John Wesley Dean Thursday night was convicted of second-degree murder for stabbing his brother last July 8 during a scuffle in front of a Fifth Street residence.

The jury of nine women and three men voted 11-1 to convict Dean after 2½ hours of deliberation. He had contended he stabbed his brother in self-defense.

Dean, 57, will be sentenced Monday by Circuit Court Judge Donald A. W. Piper.

Dean's brother, Hagan, 37, died five days after the stabbing. Medical experts said two blood vessels that had been nicked by Dean's knife ruptured as Hagan regained his health in Klamath Valley Hospital and his blood pressure rose.

The trial began Wednesday morning. Dean had been charged with second - degree murder on a Grand Jury indictment. The jurors retired to their deliberations at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, were out to dinner from 6 to 7:30 p.m. and returned with the verdict at 9:30.

Jackson Urges Facilities To Reach Crater Water

SALEM (UPI) — In today's tense push-button era, there is need for the urban resident to get away from it all, Gov. Mark Hatfield said today.

In an address to the Oregon County Park Association, Hatfield said "we are moving toward a reduced work week, both in Oregon and nationally."

"With more leisure time, more park and recreation facilities will be needed. We must recognize the technological changes that are being made, and begin planning now," he said.

"If we are careful in planning our park and recreation programs, we need not fear industrial growth."

At the conclusion of his address, Hatfield presented a merit award to Highway Commission Chairman Glenn L. Jackson of Medford, "for his outstanding contribution to outdoor development and recreation."

Crater Lake Liked

Jackson told the group that some means should be provided to get visitors to the water at Crater Lake National Park. He said that half of the 592,000 visitors to the state's only national park in 1962 stayed less than an hour.

"Crater Lake is an outstanding national park — The unfortunate part is that it is a huge picture with no animation."

Jackson said if people could get to the surface of the lake easily it would open the way for boat trips, fishing and other recreation.

"If we provided something to do and facilities to get people to the lake it would increase the number of people visiting the park and the length of their stay," Jackson said.

"I don't think it would be out of line to ask the National Park Service to design some kind of service to get to the lake which would not destroy its scenic values," he said.

Previous proposals to provide mechanical tramways from the edge of the one-time volcano to the water have met with strong opposition from outdoor groups, who fear the lake's beauty would be destroyed.

Jackson said Oregon now has more parks than any other state and noted that 60 per cent of the visitors are from out-of-state.

He said California parks "are rapidly becoming coney islands" and that Oregon is "gradually falling heir to the recreational responsibility" for many Californians.

Four Tots Die In Fire

LA GRANDE (UPI)—Flames raced through a two-story home here early today and took the lives of four small children.

The victims, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Mann, were identified as Robbin Marie, 4; Timothy Ray, 3; Sonora Grace, 2; and Brian Seth, 1.

Mrs. Mann said the children were asleep in two upstairs bedrooms when the blaze broke out about 7 a.m. Mrs. Mann was asleep downstairs and Mann had left for work.

Firemen were seeking the cause of the blaze.

Mrs. Mann said she awoke after 7 a.m. and saw the flames roaring around a chimney in the kitchen and the stairwell leading upstairs.

She said she ran to her brother's home nearby for help when she was unable to get through the flames to the children's rooms.

She said her brother, Nick Schooler, tried to enter the house four times but was driven back by the flames.

When firemen arrived the whole house was aflame.

Wage Hike

The joint Army - Air Force Wage Board announced today in Washington, D.C., that 67 Wage Board employes at Kingsley Field will receive a pay increase of approximately nine cents per hour beginning the first pay period after Nov. 11.

35 Youngsters Help UNICEF

Thirty five young people of Peace Memorial Presbyterian, First Methodist and Congregational churches, soliciting for one hour Halloween night, received contributions for UNICEF totaling $114.28.

A second smaller group of the Girls Friendly Society of St. Paul's Episcopal Church tallied $6.38 for the UNICEF fund.

The larger group was under the direction of Gary Collver of Kingsley Field.

UNICEF funds are distributed throughout the world to aid under-privileged children.

ON THE AIR — Assistant FAA controller Dick Shine speaks on the radio to a plane during one of the more than 66,000 operations performed by the FAA at Kingsley Field each year. This total makes Kingsley the third busiest airport in the state. Shine looks out over the field from a 64-foot-tall tower in the center of the installation.

Fall Hurts KF Woman

Mrs. Frances Miller, about 60, of 3419 Granite Street slipped off a stool at the First Presbyterian Church late this morning and suffered a possible fractured left arm.

She was taken to Klamath Valley Hospital by Peace Ambulance after the 11:20 a.m. accident.

Church officials said she was climbing onto a stool to set a clock when the stool slipped out from under her and she fell to the floor. The church is located at 601 Pine Street.

FAA To Mark 5th Year At Saturday Open House

The Federal Aviation Agency today celebrates its fifth anniversary and the Kingsley Field branch of the service is preparing for an open house Saturday at its tower.

The public will be welcome all day Saturday at the tower — which is the third busiest in Oregon.

During the fiscal year which ended June 30, the Kingsley Field tower handled a total of 66,689 takeoffs and landings from the field.

This is third only to Portland (151,220) and Troutdale (70,411) and tops such others cities as Medford and Pendleton.

Of this total, 38,455 of the Kingsley operations were classified as "itinerant" meaning they involved planes which were traveling through this area and not planes which both took off and landed at Kingsley. In this category, Kingsley ranked second in the state, second only to Portland.

The nerve center of the FAA at Kingsley is a 64-foot-tall tower in the center of the field.

Actually it is a combined tower and station — a tower which controls aircraft and a station which advises pilots.

There are only 71 combined tower-stations in the nation operated by the FFA, plus 203 individual towers and 337 individual stations.

A large chunk of the tower's duties concern the Air Force planes that are stationed at Kingsley, but civilian traffic is a far greater share of the responsibility.

It is the tower's duty to act as a "traffic cop" of the air, directing planes so that their travel might be smooth and troublefree.

'Flying' Deer Smashed Into Car, Driver Hurt

A forked horn deer that wandered onto Highway 66, near Milepost 55, was blamed for an automobile accident that demolished one car, damaged another and hospitalized a motorist, about 6 p.m. Thursday, Oregon State Police have reported.

Two persons who also were hospitalized with injuries they received in one of two other vehicular accidents in the vicinity of Klamath Falls Thursday are in "satisfactory condition," the Klamath Valley Hospital reported today.

In fair condition at the same hospital is Lawrence Morris Kline, 27, formerly of Klamath Falls and now of Tigard, who received a head injury when a deer, struck by an oncoming automobile, was thrown into the path of his car as he was eastbound along the highway.

The deer went through the windshield and out the rear window of the car, police said. Kline's car was demolished as it went off the north side of the road, across a ditch, and through a fence.

The accident developed as the buck jumped into the path of a westbound car operated by George Arthur Reed, 37, of Central Point. Reed's car piled into the deer, throwing it up over the hood of the automobile where the buck's antlers shattered the windshield. The impact of the collision flipped the animal across the road and into Kline's car as it approached from the opposite direction. Reed was apparently not injured, police reported.

In an accident that occurred near the Westside Bypass about 5 p.m., two women were injured when the automobile in which they were passengers was struck in the rear by a car operated by Sam L. Scherer, 51, of Vanzant, Mo.

The injured were Della Mills, 77, who sustained fractured ribs, and Erma Clark, 71, who received minor injuries and was to be released from the hospital later today. Both victims are from Bremerton, Wash., as is the driver of the car, Lillian Christina Baker, 63, and her two other passengers, Hazel Binnis, 65, and Agnes Hall, 70.

Scherer, cited for following too close, was not injured, nor were his passengers, Pauline Scherer, 49, and Gail Scherer, 19.

The victims of the collision on the bypass and the accident involving the deer were removed to the local hospital by Peace Ambulance.

Another rearend collision involved two pickup trucks and resulted in moderate damage to one vehicle but no injuries to either of the motorists.

The accident developed as Robert R. Dorey, 22, of 3710 Lakeport Blvd., reduced his truck's speed as he was eastbound on Lakeport Blvd. about 7:25 a.m., Thursday. As he did so, his truck was struck in the rear by a vehicle driven by Edward J. Dorscher, 31, of 703 Hemlock Street. Dorscher was cited for violation of the basic rule. The latter's vehicle sustained damage to the radiator, grill and headlights. Damage to the other truck was minor.

Rains Cut Danger In Forest

LAKEVIEW—Fire danger has practically been eliminated on the Fremont Forest by recent storms, with Silver Lake the only district reporting moderate fire danger.

Bird hunting is fair to good in the rim area of the Silver Lake district, and fishing at Thompson Reservoir is fair. Some reconstruction is underway at the reservoir campground, and parents are cautioned to watch their children. All main roads into Silver Lake have logging traffic.

All trails are open in the Paisley district; main roads are open and passable but getting muddy; all campgrounds can be used. Fishing season closed as of Oct. 31.

Bird hunting is fair in the Bly area. All roads are open but users are cautioned to look out for logging trucks on the Fishhole roads, the county road to Camp Six, and road No. 345 to Sycan siding. There will be some logging traffic on the Dairy Creek road from the Lee Thomas Meadows area to Bly.

Little Folks Enjoy Making Rounds On Halloween Night

By RUTH KING

The Halloween moon was big and bright and round. Across town and down the roads and up the lanes they came — the witches and the black cats, the clanking skeletons and the awesome owls, the boys and the girls, swathed in sheets and masked, eyes bright in anticipation.

They carried "store kind" bags, huge enough for duffel. Others, the shrinking violet kind, back in the shadows, offered smaller paper sacks.

They all, every one, had a common thought, "Trick or Treat."

Some plucked daintily at the offered loot. Others grasped a double handful. Some said "thank you" and disappeared in the darkness to invade the house down the street. Others scuttled away without a spoken word or a backward glance . . .

The visitors ranged from a few, four or five, to hundreds in the "morning after" reports that came to the Herald and News.

Out at Kingsley Field, the wife of an Air Force officer counted 250 before she closed the door on the last arrival. These were mostly small tykes, chaperoned by their elders.

At the home of Mrs. Helen Thomas on Pacific Terrace, a unique check has been kept of the young visitors since 1940. This year the number was swelled to 155, largest since her husband, the late Bert C. Thomas, invited the Halloween sprites in to sign a guest book. The lowest tally was in 1943, the year of the war blackout.

Because Mrs. Thomas was responsible for two homes this year, she enlisted the aid of two retired teachers. By the time the last small "spook" had retired into the darkness they had retired to the comfort of a soft davenport and a waiting chair.

These groups of Halloween revelers did little damage to homes or streets or family fences. They sent frightened pooches skittering to safety in lighted rooms, chased big-tailed cats up leafless trees and trailed traditional rolls of toilet tissues through hedges and across lawns then went home to sample fruit, eat too much candy and chew cheeks full of bubble gum.

Another Hallow-even, a relic of pagan times, was history.
