

Crash Kills 4 Persons

CHENEY (UPI) — Four persons were killed early today in a fiery crash of an auto and a tanker truck carrying 76,000 gallons of gasoline three-tenths of a mile north of here on State Highway 11.

The State Patrol said the dead were tentatively identified as personnel from the 1st Missile Battalion at Fairchild Air Force Base near Spokane.

Officers at the air base said, however, that no positive identification could be made until dental records of the dead men had been checked. The bodies of the four men were charred beyond recognition.

Troopers said the accident occurred shortly before 2:30 a.m. when the car, which was traveling at an high rate of speed, approached the tanker truck from the rear. It swerved into the opposite lane, sideswiped an oncoming automobile and careened into the rear of the truck.

Driver of the truck, Robert C. Christensen, 47, Spokane, escaped injury as the gasoline exploded and engulfed both vehicles in flames.

Home Jeered In Scotland

AUCHTERARDER, Scotland (UPI) — Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home was heckled, jostled and booed Saturday in the main street of this Scottish town where he is campaigning for a seat in the House of Commons.

The incident was the second rowdy show of antagonism to the former 14th earl of Home since he started his tour of the "safe" Conservative constituency where voting in a by-election takes place on Thursday.

Friday night he had to interrupt a speech because of heckling by "empire loyalists."

Saturday's hecklers were a band of hostile youths who waved banners saying "We don't want smart Alec — we want a local man" as Sir Alec made his way to the city hall steps to address a meeting.

The youths showed and jostled the 60-year-old premier as he made his way without losing his aristocratic calm along the main street.

On the steps of the city hall, Douglas-Home grabbed the microphone and said to the cat-calling youths:

"You boys will have your opportunity to have your say. You will get as good as you give. I hope to collect some of your votes, even though some of you seem too young to vote."

A local Tory supporter called for three cheers. But a storm of booing from the youths and supporters of the opposition Labor party almost drowned out the cheers.

Despite the heckling, Sir Alec's election in the Thursday voting was regarded as a certainty.

Earlier Saturday, ministers of his new government went to bat for him up and down the country, predicting he will be "a great prime minister."

Morse Plans To Continue Fight For Foreign Aid Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield warned the Senate Saturday it could expect a full week of debate and voting this week on its $4.2 billion foreign aid bill and more than 40 amendments.

The embattled aid bill would authorize another fiscal year — already one-third gone — of economic and military aid overseas. The $4.2 billion total recommended by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is about $700 million more than the $3.5 billion voted by the House, but is $300 million less than President Kennedy's $4.5 billion request.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., the most vocal of a large number of senators seeking to cut or change the aid proposal, served notice that he would give no quarter in his pledged efforts to make the debate as full and as long as possible.

In the only major action to date, the Senate Friday rejected 46 to 29 a motion by Morse to send the bill back to the Foreign Relations Committee for not more than a week.

The next major test is expected — probably Monday — on a bipartisan leadership proposal for a "package" net cut of $385 million in the $4.2 billion authorization. The move was possibly in an effort to head off possibly deeper cuts.

Post Sued For Article

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Mississippi's public safety commissioner filed a $1 million libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post Friday, claiming the Post defamed the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

Col. T. B. Birdsong, head of the patrol, based the suit on a story, "What Next in Mississippi?" He said it was published "with intent to defame" the patrolmen's action in the University of Mississippi integration crisis.

He said the story tried to pin the blame for the riots in which two persons were killed and scores injured when Negro James Meredith was brought to the school to register last year.

An attorney for Birdsong said the suit was filed here because Curtis Publishing Co. does not do business in Mississippi and the federal district court here had accepted jurisdiction in another case involving the Post.

TITLE WINNER — Judy Doll, 17, Akron, Ohio, is crowned Miss Teenage America 1964 by the outgoing titleholder, Darla Banks of Fresno, Calif., to highlight the pageant at Dallas, Tex., Friday night.

17-Year-Old Ohio Miss Claims Teenage Crown

DALLAS (UPI) — Judy Doll, a blue-eyed, wholesome-looking, 17-year-old girl representing Akron, Ohio, is the new Miss Teenage America.

She won Friday night in the finals of a contest that started last Monday with 49 entrants. Various eliminations reduced the field to six girls Friday night.

Jeanine Zavrel, 16, of Falls Church, Va., was first alternate. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Zavrel, she entered the contest as "Miss Washington, D.C."

Eileen Melody Speerin, representing New York City, won third place. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Speerin, Rosedale.

"I still can't believe it," Judy said. "It's great." Her father, Jay P. Doll, a plant engineer, said, "Her mother and I certainly did not consciously prepare her to win a contest like this."

As winner of the contest, Judy got a $10,000 scholarship, a convertible automobile, 50 shares of a soft drink company's stock, a new wardrobe and a trip around the country.

The Dolls live in Navarre, Ohio. Judy is a senior in high school and a member of St. Paul United Church of Christ.

As Miss Teenage America of 1964 she succeeded Darla Jean Banks, 17, of Fresno, Calif.

Wins Talent Award
Karen Valentine, 16, of Santa Rosa, Calif., won a special talent award. On the strength of her performance, a song and dance, she won an appearance on a national television show.

The finals of the contest were broadcast for an hour on television.
Mary Jane Daly of Miami, Fla., Peggy Ann Neilsen of Seattle, Wash., and Marilyn Roat of Bossier City, La., were semi-finalists.

Qualified Agent Sought For Baker Investigation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Wanted: a hard-nosed, tight-lipped investigator to take charge of the Senate inquiry into the "outside activities" of former Senate official Robert G. (Bob) Baker.

The Senate voted $50,000 Friday night for a Rules Committee investigation of Baker's wide-ranging business ventures. The 35-year-old former page boy resigned his $19,600-a-year job Oct. 7 after a number of his outside interests came to light.

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., of the Rules Committee said Saturday he was looking for a "well qualified" investigator to begin the staff work for the inquiry. He said he would contact a recently retired FBI agent with extensive experience. He did not identify the man.

Jordan said the committee would hold a closed session Wednesday during which witnesses may be called to testify. He said that among those who will probably be called will be a friend of Mrs. Ellen Rometsch, the West German beauty who was sent home after an FBI inquiry into her private life.

There were only a few senators present Friday night when the Senate approved the committee's budget, thus clearing the way for employment of an investigation staff.

5 Drown In Slough

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — Five persons, including a mother and three of her children, were killed Friday when their speeding station wagon missed a curve on a country road west of here and plunged into a 12-foot-deep slough, the Highway Patrol reported.

The victims were identified as Marjorie A. Madderra, 32, and her three daughters, Jorie, 9, Corine, 7, and Sarah, 4; and Marshall H. Alexander, 22, driver of the station wagon.

Witnesses said the vehicle passed two cars on the road at about 70 miles-an-hour, missed the curve, flipped over and landed upside down in Whiskey Slough.

FRANCE LAUNCHES ROCKET
PARIS (UPI) — France has launched a 2,205-pound two-stage "Dragon" rocket 310 miles into space above the Sahara Desert, Gaston Palewski, minister of state for science announced Wednesday night.

He told the National Assembly the rocket brought France a step nearer launching a satellite and further ahead in its effort to compete in the space race.

L.A. Official Urges New Water Plan Likely To Bring Howls In Northwest

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A Los Angeles city official Friday suggested an alternative within the Udall water plan that was certain to raise shakles in the Pacific Northwest.

Samuel B. Nelson, general manager for the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power, urged construction of a 519-mile aqueduct to tap surplus water in the Snake River, a tributary to the Columbia River.

"They're going to scream," Nelson said of the northwesterners, who have so far done everything possible to protect their water and power resources against outside use.

Nelson made his suggestion during a special meeting of the California Water Commission, called to take testimony on the five-state water plan proposed last August by Interior Secretary Stewart Udall.

The plan, aimed at easing water shortages in the booming desert regions of the Pacific Southwest, calls for exporting 2.4 million acre-feet of Northern California water annually into Southern California and Arizona.

It also proposed a vast system of dams, reservoirs and water conservation projects within the five states of California, Arizona, Nevada, Utah and New Mexico. Nelson said that he favored this part of the secretary's proposal.

Nelson proposed taking the 2.4 million acre-feet from the Snake at a point 20 miles northwest of Twin Falls, Idaho. After passing through his proposed aqueduct, it would dump into Lake Mead on the Colorado River.

er, northwest of Las Vegas, Nevada.

"Under the plan advanced by Udall," Nelson said, "the cost of delivering the same amount of water (from Northern California) would be $2.2 billion." He estimated his project's cost at $1.4 billion.

Nelson said that water delivered through his Snake-Colorado project would cost approximately $32 per acre foot. He said that Udall plan deliveries would cost $44 or more for the same amount. (An acre-foot will cover one acre to a depth of one foot.)

Nelson said that his plan would enable the Metropolitan Water District, which serves six million persons in Southern California, to continue taking water from the Colorado River.

Under the Udall plan, the district would eventually lose its Colorado River supply and face what Nelson called "the junking" of its aqueduct to the river.

"Even if the people of Southern California should be reimbursed for the money they have invested in this aqueduct," he said, "it would be a gross waste of resources to abandon a project that still has a useful life of 50 years or longer."

Nelson was among 20 witnesses representing nearly every facet of California opinion who testified in opposition to the Udall plan. Several also recommended against its introduction into Congress next year, as Udall plans to do.

Congressional Leaders Cautious On Viet Nam; Await Developments

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congressional reaction to the military coup in South Viet Nam appeared cautious Saturday with leaders awaiting further events.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said Friday news of the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem "came as a complete surprise to me and, I am quite certain, a surprise to the administration."

Mansfield, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee and considered one of the Senate's Southeast Asia experts, said "the best comment at this time is no comment."

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, top Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said the developments represented "a very serious situation that will require scrutiny and watchful waiting until we know more about it."

Another committee member, Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said he did not know if any American officials were involved in the coup, but "if we are at all involved, we didn't want another failure."

He added that "it's been apparent for some time that something would have to happen in South Viet Nam or we would have to withdraw our support."

In the House, Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on the Far East, said the revolt seemed to come as a "complete surprise" to U. S. intelligence.

Zablocki led a House study delegation to Viet Nam last month. The group's report, written before the coup, but made public Friday, mentioned the possibility of Diem's ouster, and cautioned U.S. agencies about actions against his regime.

The House group noted the inner political and religious conflict which has shaken the Southeast Asian country in recent months.

"There is no doubt that Diem's regime is authoritarian," the report said. "It must be pointed out in fairness, however, that many of the repressive measures which he has taken have been a direct result of the war against the Viet Cong."

But, the House group said, "some have recommended as a solution the ouster of the Diem family. Those who advocate such a course offer no specific alternatives."

Reporter Witnesses Fall Of Presidential Palace

Editor's Note—The following delayed dispatch from Saigon was written by a UPI correspondent who witnessed the marine attack on the presidential palace, climaxing the coup against the South Vietnamese government.

By RAY HERNDON
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—The 11-year reign of South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem ended today when thousands of rebel marines stormed the presidential palace.

The attack climaxed an hours-long battle with Diem's personal palace guard. The end came shortly after sunrise when rebel troops blasted holes in the fortress-like palace with cannon and poured into the building.

Screaming with apparent joy, the marines began ransacking the palace and searching for Diem and his adviser—brother Ngo Dinh Nhu, who were reported hidden in a concrete basement bunker.

(Rebel-held Saigon Radio, in a broadcast heard in Singapore, reported that Diem and Nhu had surrendered and then committed suicide.)

This reporter was one of two Western newsmen who entered the palace while the fighting was still in progress.

We entered through a small hole blasted in the wall, and were pinned down for ten minutes by sniper and machine gun fire.

Marines swarmed through the palace knocking out the last of the defenders and began a systematic search for Diem and Nhu, who were not immediately found.
