

Armistice Day Well Named -- Little Remembered

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

Today comes up the 45th Armistice Day, a fiesta of not much import to anyone other than the pot-bellied gaffers who marched and sang "Over There" in World War I.

It was quite a war, friends, while it lasted, which was not long so far as the United States was concerned. The United States joined up in April, 1917. And 45 years ago today, Nov. 11, 1918, there was marching and counter marching in streets at home and abroad. Bands played. Ticker tape and waste paper snowed from tall buildings, coast to coast.

Young men and women bused in public and there was a heavy run on bootleg hooch.

Nov. 11, 1918, was a big day. The U.S.A. had licked the Hun, by golly, and you'd better not get smart with your Uncle Sammy or pow! Never was a great nation riding for a harder fall. And never was a great nation less aware that the big, bad trouble was still to come, instead of having been disposed of in handy fashion after Black Jack Pershing stepped ashore in France, snapped a hand salute and said: "Lafayette, we are here."

U.S. On A Jag

True, the United States had enjoyed a little help in licking the Hun. But everyone knew the whole war would have been lost but for a stubborn division of U.S. Marines. So the United States 45 years ago was on a jag of well being, like being slightly stoned.

Whoops, we won the war. Moreover, we won the war to make the world safe for democracy. We won the war to end all wars. We won the war to guarantee the self-determination of small peoples. We won it, and all of us were going to live happily ever after. Not only that, but everyone, worldwide, would live happily, too, and love the United States and its people. Also its way of life, chewing gum, movies and all.

That is how the script read back there in 1918. Our man Woodrow Wilson was a great phrase-maker although a positive sucker for European diplomacy as were some of his side boys who succeeded him in the White House. Our man was sincere like a Madison Avenue pitch man. He believed his own slogans and his fan mail. But Wilson and his fellow citizens were bewitched and benumbed by the beauty of our man's fine phrases.

Pause in Silence

Armistice Day was celebrated with noisy toasts to dreamy objectives never really achieved, with parades and such. And for many years there was in the United States the ritual of two minutes silence. At 11 a.m. on Nov. 11, United Press wires would fall silent for two minutes, an eerie thing, and citizens would pause in the streets; yes, and even in the speak-easies.

London bus riders who passed the memorial cenotaph in Whitehall, going to and from their daily chores, would uncover their heads and think a moment for the dead.

But the two minutes of silence got lost somewhere over the years and the British in Whitehall no longer bare their heads. Armistice Day is almost forgotten, though still an official holiday known as Veteran's Day. Armistice Day was well named. An armistice is merely an interruption. The interruption was not for long. There was no peace then and there is no peace now except for those who died.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, the only announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, today prepared for a mid-week political foray to Miami.

The governor will be in his office here today and Tuesday tuning up for his address to a group of newspaper editors and two taped television interviews in Miami Wednesday.

Rockefeller is not expected back in Albany, the state capital, until Thursday at the earliest.

"When he arrives in Miami, he will be returning to the scene of a recent triumph.

In September, Rockefeller boosted his sinking political fortunes by emerging as a champion of civil rights at the National Governors Conference in the southern resort city.

The governor sought to bring his strong pro-civil rights resolution to a vote at the conference, but was blocked by southern Democrats who charged Rockefeller with "politicizing."

Nevertheless, public acclaim received by the governor for fighting for civil rights legislation impressed liberal Republicans worried by the effect of Rockefeller's divorce and remarriage.

Rockefeller also delighted almost everybody in the GOP by causing Democratic governors to sidestep voting on the civil rights issue which the Kennedy administration had given top priority.

Rockefeller announced his candidacy for the GOP presidential nomination last Thursday in Albany and then left immediately for a two-day campaign junket in New Hampshire, where the nation's first scheduled presidential primary occurs March 10.

Rockefeller is rated the underdog in New Hampshire, where Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona has the backing of most of the state's GOP leaders.

Undaunted by the underdog label, Rockefeller opened campaign headquarters Sunday in the nation's capital and Friday in New Hampshire.

Rockefeller Returning To Miami

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, the only announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, today prepared for a mid-week political foray to Miami.

The governor will be in his office here today and Tuesday tuning up for his address to a group of newspaper editors and two taped television interviews in Miami Wednesday.

Rockefeller is not expected back in Albany, the state capital, until Thursday at the earliest.

"When he arrives in Miami, he will be returning to the scene of a recent triumph.

In September, Rockefeller boosted his sinking political fortunes by emerging as a champion of civil rights at the National Governors Conference in the southern resort city.

The governor sought to bring his strong pro-civil rights resolution to a vote at the conference, but was blocked by southern Democrats who charged Rockefeller with "politicizing."

Goldwater Stands Firm

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., is not going to speed up his decision on whether to seek the GOP presidential nomination because Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller already has entered the race.

Goldwater told United Press International that the announcement of Rockefeller's candidacy Thursday would not affect his timetable in the least. The senator made the statement in reply to questions submitted by UPI.

The Arizona conservative is expected to announce his decision in January. Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., urged Goldwater Sunday to declare his candidacy for the nomination before January or risk losing the New Hampshire primary on March 10.

Cotton said in a television interview that Goldwater could "very well kiss New Hampshire goodbye" unless he declared himself soon enough for local supporters to campaign for him. Cotton is a Goldwater backer.

Rockefeller went immediately to New Hampshire to campaign after announcing his candidacy. He also plans to enter the California primary on June 2 and has challenged Goldwater to run against him in both contests.

Goldwater told UPI that if he became a candidate he would expect to enter the New Hampshire and California primaries and perhaps others where there was no "favorite son."

The senator also said it would be "highly illogical" for anyone to suggest that he might shift away from some of his conservative views if he campaigned for president.

He suggested that perhaps Rockefeller might be willing to say "where and why he differs with so many Republicans." Goldwater also took swings at the Kennedy administration and opposed a congressional pay raise.

Police Ponder Plant Burglary

Police are investigating the weekend burglary of the Donco Inc. plant, 1340 Elm Street, in which an electric drill was taken.

J. W. Bailey discovered the break-in Sunday afternoon. He told police the theft occurred between 4:30 p.m. Friday and 3 p.m. Sunday.

Police found a rear window had been broken out and the drill was taken from a work bench.

The cab was being driven west on Garden Avenue by Ralph Uran, 39, 927 1/2 Jefferson. Police said Uran was halfway through the intersection when the cab was struck by the youth's auto, which was traveling on Mitchell.

The crash was witnessed by a off-duty police sergeant walking home.

Truck Involved In Collision

A tow truck was right at the scene when an auto crash occurred Friday night — because the tow truck was involved.

Police said the Bill's Towing truck driven by Cecil Arthur Sollers, 27, 320 North Fifth, clipped a parked car as it was rounding the corner at North Fifth and Pine streets. The parked car is owned by E. F. Longer, 2906 Bisbee.

Neither vehicle was in need of the truck's services.

Vehicle Hits Road Barrier

A Dorris, Calif., man was left high and dry Saturday morning when his 1963 auto struck a road barrier on Main Street.

Police said Gordon Davis was driving on Main near Euwana Street when his car struck the barrier, which became lodged under the auto. Davis couldn't drive either forward or backward.

A tow truck lifted the car off the barrier. There were no citations.

Airliner Lands At Wrong Field

SEATTLE (UPI) — A West Coast Airlines F27 prop jet landed unexpectedly at Albany, Ore., Thursday night when the crew mistook the airport there for the Salem, Ore., airport where it was scheduled to land.

The plane was on a flight from San Francisco with scheduled stops at Eugene, Ore., and Salem. The flight, normally scheduled to land in Salem at 9:30 p.m., was running late and landed at Albany about 11 p.m.

An airlines official said an investigation of how the mistake was made is under way. The plane took off again immediately after landing, and continued on to Salem.

Of the 500 largest industrial corporations in the United States, 134 maintain their headquarters in New York City.

Police Hold KF Woman In Stabbing Incident

A 29-year-old Klamath Falls woman is being held today on suspicion of assault with a dangerous weapon in the stabbing of a man in a Commercial Street residence Sunday.

Gertrude "Tiny" Harvell is being held pending filing of formal charges.

Police said the man, 33-year-old Lawyer Lee Williams, 616 Commercial, suffered a 2 1/2-inch-long slash wound in his upper right arm and was treated at Klamath Valley Hospital.

Officers said the incident occurred at 1:33 a.m. Sunday in the woman's residence, 545 Commercial.

Williams told police he was talking to another man in the front room of the place when the woman came out of the bedroom with a pistol in her hand.

He said the other man, Emmett Ford, took the gun away from her, but a short time later, the woman again came at him.

Williams said he felt pressure on his right arm and a blood spurted from a wound in the arm. He called police, who took him to the hospital. A knife blade was found in the house when the woman was taken into custody and it was held as the weapon involved.

No reason for the attack was given.

Les Snively Tops Field

Les Snively, 1433 Crescent Avenue, jumped into the lead for the season's grand prize in the Herald and News Football Experts Contest last week by missing only two games and being off only 16 points on his tie-breaker scores.

Snively replaces Robert D. Little, Kingsley Field, who had held the lead for the past two weeks.

Grand prize in the contest is two tickets to the Shrine East-West game in San Francisco worth $50 cash to cover expenses of the trip.

Second prize in last week's contest went to Howard E. Cross, Rte. 1, Box 925B, who missed three games and was off 17 points on the tie-breakers. Cheryl Blösky, 2121 Madison, took third prize by missing three games and being off 18 points on the tie-breakers.

Checks for $10, $5, and $2.50 will be mailed to the weekly prize winners.

Jack Wolff, 1209 Pacific Terrace, won honorable mention with his entry, also missing three games, but being off 36 points on the tie-breakers.

The ninth in a series of the weekly contest appears elsewhere in today's Herald and News.

KU Meet Postponed

The regular meeting of the Klamath Union High School board scheduled for tonight has been postponed until Tuesday night because of Veterans Day.

Tuesday night, high school directors will consider an appointment to the budget committee, distribution of audit reports and an educational radio program.

Superintendent Ray Hunsaker will report on war production training equipment, student body account and a follow-up study on the class of 1963.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the school administration building on Alameda Avenue.

Girl Hurt In Accident

An 18-year-old Klamath Falls girl was injured Sunday morning in the spectacular collision of her auto and a sports car.

Police said injuries to Susan Ellen Green, 240 Michigan, didn't appear serious and she was not hospitalized.

Neither her passenger, Rod Green, 20, or the two persons in the sports car were injured.

Both autos were total wrecks.

The collision occurred at 1:23 a.m. on Highway 97 near the Westside bypass.

Police said the girl was driving a 1956 sedan on the highway when the sports car attempted to pass.

The 1957 sports car ran out of control during the passing attempt, hit the right-hand guard rail, bounced back, struck the right railing again. Meanwhile, after being struck, the Green car rammed into the left railing.

The sports car was driven by Dennis Ray Nelson, 22, 1106 Kane Street. His passenger was Dave Burnett, 19, 2815 Kane. There were no citations.

OTI Campus Closed Off

The new Oregon Tech campus has the status of private property at the present time, it was announced by President W. D. Purvine today. The working site, tools, material, and construction work are the complete responsibility of the contractors until accepted and final payment has been tendered by the state. The contractors' responsibility make them reluctant to permit visitors during the construction day. Their obligation to perform satisfactory work makes it necessary to close the campus to traffic also when their personnel are not working.

Public open house arrangements will be made by the Oregon Tech administration as soon as the campus construction has been completed and accepted by the State Board of Higher Education.

"It is hoped that the public will celebrate with us at that time," said President Purvine.

Absolving Jews Doctrine Rips Ancient Tradition

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A document before the Ecumenical Council absolving Jews of sole responsibility for the death of Jesus Christ would wipe out centuries of Roman Catholic Church tradition.

Pope Innocent III told council fathers of the Fourth Lateran Council in 1215 that Jews were condemned to perpetual servitude because they crucified Christ.

Numerous other church actions and statements dating back to the Fifth Century contributed to the anti-semitism which persists today, although the Catholic Church and its Popes also acted at times to curb the extremes of anti-Jewish practices.

The Fourth Lateran Council ruled that Jews and Saracens (Arabs) living in Christian countries were to wear a distinctive badge of yellow cloth sewn on their clothing.

Hitler Takes Cue

Adolf Hitler thus took a cue from a council of the church when he required 20th Century Jews in conquered Europe to wear such badges.

The ruling of the Fourth Lateran Council was enforced in several European countries up until the time of the French Revolution in 1787.

The Christian antagonism toward Jews originated in the ancient belief that Jews were the murderers of Christ. In the early centuries, priests, sometimes deliberately, whipped up anti-Jewish passions with heated sermons during Holy Week recounting the death of Christ. Indignant Christians came out of the churches and attacked Jews.

A widespread belief of the time held that Jews kidnapped

Christian children, killed them and used their blood in secret rituals.

The Theodosian Code of 439, the Council of Clermont in 535 and the Council of Toledo in 589 prohibited the appointment of Jews to positions in which they could impose penalties on Christians.

Renews Church Laws

The Council of Avignon in 1209 banned "Jews and harlots" from touching bread or fruit in shops and markets. It renewed church laws against the hiring of Christian servants by Jews.

The Council of Bezier in 1245 condemned the employment of Jewish physicians by Christians. Several councils declared the marriage of a Christian with a Jew to be null.

But despite the actions of the councils the Jews enjoyed papal protection from the time of St. Gregory the Great (590-604).

Gregory IX, the stern founder of the Inquisition, issued a papal bull in 1235 denouncing mob violence against Jews. Innocent IV in 1247 repudiated the legend of the ritual murder of Christian children by Jews. Gregory X in 1272 ruled the testimony of a Christian against a Jew should not be accepted unless confirmed by a Jew.

Elderly Motorist Hurt In Weekend Accident

A 72-year-old Klamath Falls motorist is in satisfactory condition at the Klamath Valley Hospital today as the result of injuries he received in an automobile accident in which the driver of the other car was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol, Oregon State Police have reported.

In another accident, Kenneth H. Powell, 33, of Rte. 1, Box 234, Tulelake, escaped injury after the pickup truck he was driving collided with a horse in the northbound lane of Highway 39, Milepost 10, about 9 p.m. Saturday. The impact of the collision spun the vehicle in a circle and sent it into a ditch on the west side of the road. Police said the horse was the property of Troy Qualls, Rte. 1, Box 639, Klamath Falls.

At the local hospital as the result of the accident Sunday is William Thomas Moore, Rte. 2, Box 547, who sustained broken ribs and lacerations when the station wagon he was driving went out of control after it was struck in the rear by a car operated by Othmar Nichols Sieben, 845 California Avenue, near Henley, about 9:45 a.m., Sunday.

Band Plans Fund Drive

The Klamath Union High School band has launched a campaign to raise funds for its trip to the East-West Shrine football game in San Francisco Dec. 28.

It is estimated that the trip will cost $3,000 and the band has called upon the public to contribute half of this amount.

Most of the remaining sum is expected to be raised by the band's fruit cake sales project. It is expected that beginning this year, the band will attend the game every other year to participate in the half-time show.

It was asked that contributions to the trip fund be made to LaMar K. Jensen, director of instrumental music, Klamath Union High School.

Lost Jeep Recovered

A Central Point man lost his jeep while he was towing it from Klamath Falls to Medford and it wasn't until two days later that the location of the vehicle was reported to Oregon State Police.

Jerry Robinson, Cal-Ore Construction Company, told police that the jeep came detached from a tow bar while he was en route to Medford Thursday. Robinson said that he did not become aware it was missing until he arrived at his destination.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—According to A. W. Zelomek, president of International Statistical Bureau, Inc., there will be no boom in 1964—even with a tax cut.

"However," he adds, "neither will we experience a recession without a tax cut. General business in 1964 will average about 5 per cent above 1963, based on gross national product and total production will show a 4 per cent gain."

The Dow Theory Trader says he sees no reason to be anything but bullish for the vast majority of stocks into late this year and the first half of 1964.

L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. says that "it would be strange if the outstanding stocks of 1964 should be the same stocks which have led the market this year. Probably we face a change in leadership, but this change is more likely to come gradually rather than to develop over a few weeks. This is a time when it may be better to feel one's way along rather than to follow an assertive policy in either direction."
