

Hatfield Offers Six Recommendations In Talk Before Legislature

SALEM (UPI) — The text of Gov. Mark Hatfield's special address to the legislature:

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the Assembly:

This is a day set aside to honor our veterans. Many of them made the supreme sacrifice in behalf of America.

We do well to enter these deliberations in a spirit of sacrifice and service which will win the approbation of those for whom our veterans fought.

We are met to respond to the expressed will of the people for whom our authority is derived. The revenue program passed by this body at its regular session, which reached my desk a fortnight after you had adjourned sine die, has been summarily and decisively rejected under Oregon's unique processes of citizen participation in the law-making procedure.

The proposal which went before the people was the product of no individual. It was disliked for many reasons. It was opposed in referendum even by some of you who answered aye as the roll was called during the regular session. It was backed in referendum with some reluctance by some of you who wanted no part of it en route to enactment.

But it is not for us here assembled to dwell on the past. The fruits of your previous efforts have been voided by those to whom we owe final responsibility.

The action of the voters has been subject to various and conflicting interpretations since the ballots were counted October 15. To some it has seemed an open invitation to sales tax. To some it has been viewed as a vindication of those of us who urged a cigarette tax. To some it is the result of a mounting tide of resentment about the expansion of government and the weight of taxes at every level — Federal, state and local.

You and I know that, prior to your convening last January, I had pruned agency appropriation requests by $90 million. The expected hue and cry for increases was heard, but you withstood the pressures. You and I know that you rejected my tax recommendations and declined to direct to the people an election opportunity in mid-session so that their reactions might be known.

You and I know that two-thirds of our $1.3 billion budget is earmarked, removed from significant executive fiscal control. You and I know that, of the $494.3 million general fund budget, $135.1 million is for basic school support and is not subject to executive adjustment.

With the expression by the people, then, and in accord with the constitution and statutes requiring that the budget be balanced, I immediately implemented stringent allotment adjustments. There was no alternative.

My recommendations to you, in these circumstances, are:

(1) — To authorize the executive department to modify basic school support allotments as conditions warrant and in accord with requirements for other budgets. It may be your preference to modify the allowance per student as well in recognition of the fact that further adjustment could be required in 1965-67.

(2) — To place a moratorium on yet unlet capital construction contracts, except to meet the requirements imposed by court commitments of wards to our correctional institutions.

(3) — To authorize a speed-up of the payment to the state of income taxes withheld by employers.

(4) — To undertake no subjects at this session which are not directly related to our fiscal picture.

(5) — To be aware the vast majority of the people expect no new taxes from this extraordinary session. To interpret last month's election results as a demand for a new tax is to misread the intentions of those we serve.

(6) — To recognize that there will remain the uncompleted task of tax reform which must be faced squarely by the 1965 regular session.

As we discharge our respective responsibilities may we have the wisdom to recognize the functions for which there is greatest need. Ways must be found to assure that the sustenance of life be provided those unable to care for themselves. Opportunities for an education to the capacity of one's mind and inclination should forever be a goal in our society. Let us resolve here together that we will so meet the challenge which is ours that we will deserve the confidence of the people of Oregon. They have spoken. There is only one response and that is "so be it." Let us be about our task.

perfecting a fine product to improve your cooking

Just as a good cook measures ingredients to achieve perfection in the foods she offers her family, so El Paso Natural Gas Company's chemists check the ingredients in their product. Nature did a fine job in creating natural gas in its raw state. The men and equipment shown here are applying the skills of science to make the finished product the splendid fuel it is: clean and controllable, fast, economical and efficient. Natural gas, as it comes from the ground, is accompanied by liquid hydrocarbons (in themselves valuable, but for other purposes), other chemicals and water vapor. These are measured, removed, and the final product re-tested by chemists—to provide you with the clean-burning flame that performs with perfection in your kitchen. If you are not yet cooking this modern way, call your retail gas distribution company* and learn why natural gas fuel is preferred by 90% of America's professional chefs and 34 million homemakers.
