

Duplicate Names Pose Problem

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Boy, do I have a problem. If you can help me you are a genius. My maiden name is a very common Scandinavian one — not Anderson, but in the same category. I married a great big adorable Swede whose last name is the same as my maiden name. My husband has two brothers and I have four brothers. Two of our brothers and two of our uncles have exactly the same name. If someone yelled "Swede" at a family picnic, 11 guys would stand up. I am expecting a baby in January. My husband wants to name the baby after his brother. If this happens, he will be the fifth boy in the family with exactly the same name. I want to give the baby a name which will be distinctive. What can you suggest? — TOO MANY DUPLICATES

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I recently bought a lovely new home near an Air Force base. This was a big mistake. Our 17-year-old daughter thinks it's her patriotic duty to go out with every crummy young squirt in a uniform.

It's impossible to tell who these fellows are or what kind of homes they come from. Polly has a date every Friday, Saturday and Sunday night with somebody or other. The Lord alone knows who they are.

I told my daughter from now on she can't go out with anybody until I know what his father does, and something of his family's reputation. Furthermore, I want to see some pictures of his home.

Polly says I am unreasonable. Am I? How else can a father keep tabs on his daughter's companions when they pop up out of nowhere and they all look alike? — CHOOSY AND PROUD OF IT

Dear Choosy and Proud: Why don't you just tell your daughter she can't go out with a fellow unless he brings over his old man's financial statement? This is what your demands add up to.

The Air Force has all sorts of young men—which should be no surprise to anyone who has lived in the world for awhile. You can tell a great deal more about a person by listening to him speak for 15 minutes than by looking at a picture of his house.

Tax Cut Bill Relief Depends On Your Viewpoint

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It all depends on what witness is testifying to know what the $11 billion tax cut bill passed by the House means to your pocketbook.

The statistics cited by differing witnesses in testimony before the Senate Finance Committee are all based on indisputable figures taken from the bill itself, but the results often are confusing.

Bankers, businessmen, economists, labor leaders and others who have testified on the impact of the tax bill generously cite various data, but they come up with contradictory conclusions.

Here are a few samples: The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, complaining that high-income taxpayers would get short-changed, told the committee that persons in the lowest brackets would benefit from tax reductions averaging 39 per cent, while those with annual incomes above $50,000 would get only a 13 per cent tax reduction.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a member of the Finance Committee, complained the measure was a "rich man's bill." He had charts prepared to prove his point. It showed a person with $6,000 taxable income would get only a 5 per cent increase in take home pay, while a $50,000-a-year man would be enriched by an 18.2 per cent increase.

Malin Council Reads Bicycle Control Law

MALIN — An ordinance controlling the riding or operation of bicycles upon sidewalks in the city of Malin was read by attorney Henry Perkins at the recent meeting of the Malin Common Council.

Present were Leonard Petrik, mayor; Paul McCulley, recorder; Mark Sullivan, marshal; and George Papp, Cecil Jackson, John Phillips, and Cy McCoolin, councilmen.

A committee report on dangerous buildings in the city was made by several councilmen, with the old Standard Service Station on Broadway said to be in immediate danger of collapse. It was decided to contact the property owner, Byron Johnson, to determine if arrangements can be made for the removal of the building.

McCulley reported that he had checked with the Oregon Title Company of Klamath County in regard to the ownership of Lots 19 and 20 in Block C, and it was found that the city owns clear title to both lots.

After a lengthy discussion, the recorder was instructed to quote a price of $350 to James Lacy for the purchase of the lots, with the city retaining an easement for the irrigation ditch passing through the property. He was further instructed to find out if Lacy wants an option on the property, and if so, for what length of time. McCulley was authorized to purchase 15 gallons of yellow paint from the Klamath County Road Department to paint the school cross walks. Members also voted to pay all bills.

Bonanza Slates Play Rehearsal

BONANZA—The senior class of Bonanza High School has begun production of the annual senior play. Tryouts for parts began Oct. 17, and rehearsals began Oct. 21.

The play, "You're Only Young Once" by Glenn Hughes, will be given Nov. 22 in the Bonanza Elementary gym. The time has not yet been established.

In this play, high comedy is provided by the school principal, the battle-axe English teacher, the "ladies' man," the flustered coach, the football star, and the delightfully obnoxious characters who seem to be in every school.

There is humor, excitement, mystery, and most important—youth in the play.

Richard Headlee, president of the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, groused that the bill would increase the concentration of rate hikes or tax brackets from one-half to nearly two-thirds on taxpayers with incomes up to $22,000 a year, penalizing the middle-income group.

Leon H. Keyserling, former President Harry S. Truman's chief economic adviser, said the $5,000-income family under the bill would get only a 2 per cent increase in after-tax disposable income; the $200,000-a-year family would get a 16 per cent increase.

The Treasury supplied official figures supporting the bill which showed that taxpayers with income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year would pay 38.3 per cent less taxes, or $555 million less; $5,000-to-$10,000, 19.9 per cent less taxes, or a "savings" of $3.6 billion a year for this income group; $50,000 income and over, 12.6 per cent less taxes, or $325 million less a year.

The seemingly contradictory figures released on the committee in the flood of testimony grows daily as the hearings progress.

Actually, they all are correct. But different results can be obtained by calculating the bill's tax impact various ways—such as with or without tax deductions, including proposed "reforms" or ignoring them, or taking into account special tax credits and exclusions. Perhaps Mark M. Jones, president of the National Economic Council of New York, supplied the last word. He indicated the entire argument over how many dollars this or that person would get might be futile.

The dollar itself, he said, was worth only 36.5 cents in 1963, compared to its value in 1932.

Moscow Accuses Allies Of Evading Red Control

BERLIN (UPI)—Radio Moscow has accused Western allied convoys of illegally trying to evade Soviet controls on the highway to Berlin.

It warned that a German peace treaty which would "normalize" conditions in West Berlin could not be postponed indefinitely.

The Russians have said in the past a peace treaty would give East Germany control of the routes to isolated West Berlin and end Western rights in the city.

The Radio Moscow commentary was broadcast Sunday and printed in the East German Communist party newspaper "Neues Deutschland" Monday.

The attack on the western allied convoys was seen as a sign that the Russians might harass Western allied traffic again.

Last week they held up a U.S. Army convoy for 41 hours at a highway checkpoint because the soldiers refused to dismount to be counted.

HERO LOSES SHOES
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI)—A schoolboy hero had his silver cup for bravery today but was still looking for his shoes.

Yong Peng, 18, was awarded the cup by his school for diving into a flooded house and rescuing 13 persons one after another.

He had left his shoes on a railway bridge as he went about his rescue task and someone stole them.
