HOT BIG TEN RACE AND . . .

Defending NCAA Champ Loyola Dominates Midwest Cage Scene

EDITORS: The following is the first in a series of dispatches sizing up college basketball prospects in various sections of the country.

By ED SAINSBURY
CHICAGO (UPI) — Defending NCAA champion Loyola could dominate Midwestern college basketball again this season, but the Ramblers, who last only twice last year, probably will have to share interest with one of the hottest Big Ten races ever.

Michigan and Ohio State raked a shaky nod for the Big Ten crown in pre-season speculation but league balance this year may be the best in a score of years and hopes more or less routine.

Northwestern, Minnesota, Indiana and Illinois could be major Big Ten challengers and Iowa, Michigan State, Purdue and Wisconsin, while probable second division finishers, could be capable of surprise at any time.

Loyola lost only one man from its firehorse five which won the NCAA crown from two time champion Cincinnati in an overtime, Jerry Harkness, but George Ireland has his other four starters back and Vic Rouse, Leslie Hunter and John Egan will have better bench strength behind them than ever.

Irish A Threat

Notre Dame could be a tournament threat too with both Larry Sheffield and Ron Reed.

De Paul has a 6-foot, 10-inch center in Dave Mills and Coach Ray Meyer was enthusiastic about his prospects if Mills can furnish a fair share of the rebounds. Emmette Bryant, Denny Freund and Jesse Nash will supply a "run run run" attack which could be effective if the Blue Demons can get the ball.

Ohio State will be sparked by the Big Ten's most valuable player last year, 6-foot-8 Gary Bradds, who led the league in scoring, but Fred Taylor may have to make his lineup at the other spots for a while.

Michigan has a standout center in Bill Buntin, second best rebounder in the league, and some sophomore talents, notably Cazzie Russell, Oliver Darden and Jim Meyers, figure to turn the Wolverines into a fine squad.

Olympics On Slate

The Klamath County YMCA is sponsoring a Service Club Olympics between the Lions, Tokete Lions, Kiwanis, Linkville Kiwanis, Rotary, Exchange and Optimists service clubs Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Chairman Merlin Pulliam and co-chairman, Martin Lougee, announced the following events in the competition between the various clubs: Basketball freethrow, handball doubles, ping pong singles, rope climb for speed, pocket billiards, darts, throwing, four-man volleyball, duck-calling and liars' contest.

The last two events are scheduled at 9 p.m. or earlier if the other events are finished.

Local Youth Bags Bear

A hunting trip to the Thomas Creek area southeast of Scio recently paid off in the form of a 200-pound (dressed) black bear for young Klamath Falls hunter Danny Row.

The 15-year-old Klamath Falls youth, winner of four medals in hunter safety courses sponsored by the local police department, downed the huge animal from a distance of 30 feet using a .32 caliber special.

Danny was hunting with his father Arh Row and Lester Ferguson and son Tom also of Klamath Falls.

Big Sky Checked By PSC

PULLMAN (UPI)—Possible entry of Portland State College into the Big Sky Athletic Conference will be discussed at a conference meeting at Ogden, Utah, next week.

Conference Commissioner Jack Friel said today that a delegation from Portland State would attend the meeting Monday and Tuesday.

"I talked with a group at Portland State when I was in Portland some time ago," Friel said. "There is an interest in the conference there, but I don't know how much."

Portland State has a full athletic program, including football. The Big Sky, just finishing its first football season, has six members, but Gonzaga University does not play football.
