Right is Mrs. Robert Gallup of Malin, who also entered the contest with a wool suit. They modeled the garments at a meeting of the Klamath County Farm Bureau Women Nov. 19.

Farm Bureau Women Hear Report, Greet Contestants

Klamath County Farm Bureau Women at a luncheon meeting Nov. 19 at Kingfalls Restaurant heard a report of the Nov. 10-13 annual meeting of the Oregon Farm Bureau Federation and greeted contestants in the annual Wool Fashioners Contest sponsored by Farm Bureau Women.

President Mrs. R. W. Enman conducted the meeting. The Oregon Farm Bureau Federation re-elected Harold Beach of Hermiston as president during the annual meeting in Salem, Mrs. Blaine Johnson of Glendale was elected women's chairman.

Frank Price, general secretary of the California Farm Bureau, acted as session toastmaster.

The Washington Scene was the theme of an address given by the Honorable Robert Duncan, Oregon Rep. 4th Congressional District. Dr. Ernest Wilkenson, president of the Brigham Young University, spoke to a capacity crowd of delegates and legislators at the annual banquet.

The House of Delegates, the policy-making body of the Farm Bureau, reviewed the many problems facing agriculture. They took a firm stand on the National Farm Program in endorsing the wheat and feed grain bill introduced by Congressman Quie of Minnesota and Dole of Kansas.

Wilbur Harnsberger, Klamath County president, was presented with a watch won for him by John Tofell, Klamath County Farm Bureau insurance agent.

Others from Klamath County attending the convention were Leland Cheyne, regional director; Peggy Harnsberger, member of the Advisory Council; Jim Lane, county vice president; John Tofell, insurance agent; Erma Tofell, county secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Haskins, Jack O'Connor and Laverne Haskins.

Reactions Reported

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Here is the reaction of Oregon's congressional delegation to the death of President Kennedy Friday:

Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse: "In this dark and tragic hour, a great president has fallen. The immorality of the assassination is beyond understanding. All the world has lost a great leader and a wonderful human being. Let us all pray for his loved ones, for our country and for God's help to our new President."

Democratic Sen. Marine Neuberger: "This is a sad and tragic day. My heartfelt sympathy goes out to members of the President's family. It is indeed a day of sorrow for all the world."

Democratic Rep. Edith Green: "It's not for us to blame the man who pulled the trigger but rather the breed of political outlaws that we have not taken seriously to date."

Democratic Rep. Al Ullman: "We have never had a President who was more fair-minded, more Democratically oriented or more deeply concerned about the best interest of America and the American people, whether they agreed with him or not. He stood for the very best we have to offer."

Republican Rep. Walter Norblad: "Simply horrible and unbelievable that such a thing could happen in a civilized nation. Mrs. Norblad and I express our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Kennedy and the family."

Rep. Robert Duncan, a Democrat, was unavailable for comment.

Huxley Dies Of Cancer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Novelist Aldous Huxley, famed for his satirical vision of a "brave new world" and a member of the eminent British family of letters and sciences, died Friday of cancer. He was 69.

Huxley died at his home. Private funeral services were conducted Saturday morning in Los Angeles.

Huxley was the son of Leonard Huxley and grandson of renowned biologist Thomas Huxley, credited with popularizing the evolutionary theories of Charles Darwin. He was the brother of Julian Huxley, noted biologist and writer and grandnephew of poet-essayist Matthew Arnold.

Author of more than 20 books, Huxley was noted primarily as a philosophical novelist. He used characters largely to represent his far-ranging ideas in his fiction works, which were sprinkled with subtle wit and incisive satire.

Activity In Salem Comes To Halt With News Of Tragedy

SALEM (UPI)—"In Memoriam President Kennedy."

This black-penned inscription on a simple wreath beside the great seal in the Capitol rotunda spoke for Oregon today.

It explained the hushed chill that has characterized the state-house since the news of President Kennedy's assassination flashed through Friday morning.

Oregon's officialdom reflected the disbelief, and then the stunned sorrow, of the people.

Gov. Mark Hatfield declared Monday a date of mourning in Oregon. State offices will be closed.

Hatfield said he will go to Washington, D.C., Sunday night to attend the funeral of President Kennedy the following day.

Hatfield closed state offices early Friday afternoon and sent employees home.

A solemn and sickened legislature recessed indefinitely.

Flags dropped to half staff.

The news first reached the capitol on teleprinters in the basement press room.

The first newsmen to shoot the flash were greeted with responses of "You're kidding," and "That's not funny."

Within moments the word had spread through the statehouse.

It was met with horror, denial, tears and prayers that the President would live.

Normal activities of state government stopped.

Legislators, agency heads, state officials and clerks streamed into the press room and crowded around printers, radios, and a television set.

Some were stunned.

Many were so choked with emotion they could not speak.

Men and women alike had tears in their eyes.

A few became ill.

Minutes earlier the legislature had been alive with partisan reaction over the Boardman project.

In an instant partisan differences evaporated.

Disbelief still was the dominant reaction when word came that the President was dead.

"God, God, God," mumbled one legislator. He clutched in his hand a photograph he had just received of himself taken with Kennedy during the President's recent visit to Tongue Point at Astoria.

The House received confirmation of the death as it met to recess.

Members stood in grave silence while two representatives, a Democrat and a Republican, offered prayers.

"In this hour of anguish, we beg thy guidance," they prayed.

Republican Gov. Mark Hatfield called it "an hour of great tragedy, grief and personal loss to every citizen."

"Our heartfelt prayers are with President Johnson as he assumes the heaviest burden in the world today," he said.

Republican Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr. said "we have lost not only a devoted American who gave his whole life to the service of his fellow man."

"We have also lost something very dear to the concept of a decent, civilized society," he said.

The Senate also prayed, "give us strength...we bow in profound sorrow..."

Senate President Ben Musa and House Speaker Clarence Barton, both Democrats, issued a joint statement, saying "The entire legislature stands in solemn and deep grief at the loss of our beloved leader. We ask divine guidance and protection for his family."

Hatfield sent personal messages to Mrs. Kennedy and to President Johnson.

Security around Hatfield was tightened. A second guard was assigned to the governor at the capitol.

Two Bills Unsettled

SALEM (UPI)—Here is the status of legislation at the special session which was recessed because of the President's assassination:

—A bill to cut legislators' salaries to $200 a month, and the pay of elected state officials 7 1/2 per cent for one year was approved 40-17 by the House, and awaited Senate action.

—The bill to untangle the Boardman space age industrial park project in northeastern Oregon had cleared committee and a waiting House action. Future of the measure was clouded by an attorney general's opinion which declared parts of the proposal were of doubtful constitutionality, and called for an immediate court test of the legislation if it passed.

If the bill clears the House, it must be voted upon in the Senate before the special session can formally adjourn.

All bills dealing with the fiscal crisis resulting from the Oct. 15 tax referendum already have cleared the legislature and have been signed by Gov. Mark Hatfield.

Hatfield's Proclamation

SALEM (UPI)—Governor Mark Hatfield Friday night issued this proclamation:

"Because this nation and this state have suffered a loss and tragedy beyond all measurement with the death by an assassin's bullet of our President, John F. Kennedy:

"And because this evil and dastardly act has brought severe shock, great grief and deep sorrow to our people:

"I hereby order and proclaim that Monday, November 25, 1963, be set aside as a day of mourning throughout the State of Oregon and that we pause in our daily pursuits to observe the day in reverence to the memory of President Kennedy and in prayer and sympathy for his family.

"I further order that all state and public offices in Oregon be closed on November 25 and that the day be honored with appropriate observances by each and every one and that the flags be flown at half staff until sundown December 22, 1963."
