SF Suburbs To Be Home Of Bing Crosby Family

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (UPI) — A 24-room Tudor-style mansion, shaded by fine old oak trees and overgrown with ivy, is to be the next home of the Bing Crosby family.

Leaving Southern California and their West Los Angeles mansion behind, the singer is expected to move his wife, Kathy, and their three young children to this exclusive San Francisco suburb sometime after the first of the year.

The cost of the house is $175,000. The reason for the move, Crosby says, is that they have a lot of friends around here.

Another reason, according to some, is that the Crosbys want to raise their children well away from the Hollywood hustle and bustle.

All's Quiet
 If it's quiet and seclusion that they want, they should find it in Hillsborough. The community is one of the wealthiest suburbs of San Francisco. It rests in patrician isolation among the steep wooded hills of the San Francisco Peninsula skyline 18 miles south of the city.

President Never Used 'Hot Line'

MOSCOW (UPI) — United Press International learned on the best authority today that President Kennedy never used the "hot line" to Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

There had been speculation it might have been used between Moscow and Washington during the worst moments of the Autobahn crisis in Germany in October and early November.

Nor was the emergency communication circuit between the White House and the Kremlin activated when the Russians arrested Prof. Frederick C. Barghoorn on espionage charges. Barghoorn was released after American protests through normal channels and President Kennedy's strong demand at a press conference for the professor's freedom.

The "hot line" is designed for brink-of-war situations — to cut through everything and get to the top on both sides to avoid any misunderstandings that could bring on a nuclear holocaust.

World Leaders Study New U.S. President

By PHIL NEWSOM
 UPI Foreign News Analyst
 Memo to various world leaders:

You will want to know about the new President of the United States, what kind of man he is and the foreign policy the United States will follow under his leadership.

Many of you already have met this tall Texan who as vice president travelled about the world on missions in behalf of President Kennedy.

First: Nikita Khrushchev: There were reports from high Communist diplomats in London over the weekend that you were deeply disturbed that a change now may be made in U. S. strategy.

You first met Johnson in Washington a couple of years ago and it's probable you didn't make a good impression. Your greeting to Johnson was recalled thusly:

"I do not know you, but I have read all your speeches and I do not like any of them."
 Berlin Speech
 In that case, you surely recall

a speech Johnson made before the West Berlin Parliament in August, 1961, just after erection of the Berlin Wall. He said:

"To the survival and to the creative future of this city, we Americans have pledged, in effect, what your ancestors pledged in forming the United States: 'Our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.'"

That means there will be no lack of U. S. determination to continue to defend allied rights in West Berlin.

Mao Tse-tung of Red China: You recall a visit Johnson made to Formosa and to Southeast Asia.

In Formosa, Johnson told Chiang Kai-shek that the United States "has no intention of recognizing the Peking regime" and opposes "seating the Peking regime in the United Nations."

And you also must remember what Johnson said in the Philippines. He said there that "we will continue to honor our obligations and will proceed either alone or with our free world friends to preserve our position in Asia."

After Johnson got home from that trip he recommended that an additional $100 million be set aside for economic and military aid to go primarily to South Viet Nam, Thailand and Pakistan.

Not much comfort for the Red Chinese there.

President Charles de Gaulle: President Kennedy opposed your determination to build an independent French nuclear force. He did not like your veto of British membership in the European Common Market. You remember that in Paris Johnson also called for "a true Atlantic community with common institutions." He told you that instead of French nuclear forces, NATO needed to reinforce its non-nuclear defense.

Joint memo to Prime Minister Nehru of India and President Mohammad Ayub Khan of Pakistan: You must remember the man's humanities. With Nehru he discussed hunger, illiteracy and disease and how they could be eliminated.

Birthday Gift May Multiply

By ANN LANDERS
 Dear Ann Landers: Am I wrong to be angry?
 My birthday was last Friday.

I had given my boy friend lots of hints — starting two weeks ago. We've done plenty of window shopping together so he knows what my taste is in jewelry, fur jackets and luggage. He has a good job and is not short of money.

The morning of my birthday I received a telegram saying: "Sorry your birthday gift has not arrived. It has been ordered and is on the way. Please be patient. Love, Hubert."

We had dinner together that evening and I thanked him for the message. He assured me I would love the present. Well, this morning he phoned—all excited. The "gift" had arrived and he would bring it right over. I almost went through the door when he showed up at the front door with two baby hamsters in a cage.

I have no interest in hamsters. To me they look like alley rats. What shall I do?—ROBBED

Dear Robbed: Give The Last of The Big Spenders his two hamsters back—before you have eight.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm sure I am not the only mother in this world who tried to hide her hurt feelings and pretends to all the world that her son or daughter is loving and considerate—when such is not the case.

Is it too much to expect a prosperous married son to pick up the telephone and call his mother every two weeks? The night rate is 45 cents for a station call. Am I selfish to want some small remembrance on Mother's Day and perhaps a telegram on my birthday?

The last time I spoke with my son I called him. I told him it would be nice if he could alternate the calls. I would call him once a week and he could call me the next week. He said, "Fine." That was seven weeks ago. I haven't heard from him since. Why are children so inconsiderate? Shall I call him or what? Please advise.—VERY SAD

Dear Very Sad: Children who discard their parents like paper plates after a family picnic don't get that way by accident. There is always a reason for selfishness and indifference.

My advice is to leave the boy alone. He may remember to pick up the phone and call his mother when his own son gives him the deep-freeze treatment.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a pediatrician who has been driven to the brink by mothers who have an appointment for one child and bring all four youngsters to the office simply because she has made no arrangement for someone to stay with them.

This practice:

1. Creates a problem of overcrowding in the reception room.
 2. Exposes healthy children to possible disease.
 3. Diverts the attention of the nurse and receptionist.
 4. Encourages the physician to get the family out as quickly as possible, thereby reducing his effectiveness.

Thanks for any help you can give us beleaguered pediatricians by passing the word.—W.R.T.

Dear Doe: The word is passed but don't bet your little black bag that it will change anything. Mothers will continue to drag all the kids along because it's cheaper than hiring a sitter.

Ann Landers' frank and informative new book, "Teen-Agers and Sex" ($2.95) is now available at your book store.

Now, as then, a time for THANKSGIVING

From our forefathers comes the tradition of Thanksgiving as a time to stop and consider our blessings and reverently to render thanks to the Almighty for all the good things in life . . . after having striven mightily for another year to achieve those material necessities and comforts. Then as now the world was full of trying problems, they met every difficulty with hope, faith and courage. We the people of Downtown Klamath Falls are thankful for the opportunity of playing our part in providing the necessities and comforts of our time in this bountiful Klamath Basin.
