

Johnson's Elevation Likely To Help Western Demos

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's elevation to the leadership of the nation is expected to help some hard-pressed 1964 Senate Democratic candidates—especially in his native West.

For Johnson, born and bred in Texas and seasoned in Washington, "talks the language" of the rangeland. He has crisscrossed the area in past campaigns for present incumbents and others. And this region contains the Democratic Senate seats which have been regarded as most in jeopardy.

Twenty-four Democrats and nine Republicans are up for reelection next year. Unlike most tests for the Democrats, only three of the seats are in the so-called "Solid South."

Democrats have been most worried about the West—Utah, Wyoming, California and North Dakota. Even Texas, with one Republican senator, has been shaky Democratic ground.

Two In Danger
Two Western Democrats who have been viewed as in danger from the GOP drive to narrow the 67-33 Democratic margin in the Senate are Sens. Gale McGee of Wyoming and Frank E. Moss of Utah.

McGee said today that even though GOP strength had been overestimated and President Kennedy had "surprising" support in Wyoming, "President Johnson can only increase what we have."

"Lyndon Johnson is a Westerner," he said in an interview.

"He talks our language—cattle and oil. Wyoming has always been ready to identify itself with Johnson."

Throughout the West, Democrats contend, Johnson would draw votes from the segments of population attracted to Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., the GOP presidential front-runner.

Kennedy Preferred
McGee said that a "secret" GOP poll on Wyoming political tides, conducted for the Sept. 3-11 period, showed Kennedy preferred over Goldwater by a 3 to 2 margin.

He said Democrats "stumbled" on the Republican poll, which he claimed also showed him favored 8 to 7 over any of six Republican senatorial prospects.

The poll findings, he said, ran contrary to press speculation that Wyoming was almost a pushover for the Republicans.

California's Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., has been recuperating from brain surgery and is a question mark for reelection. Other Western Democrats facing reelection contests include Sens. Quentin R. Burdick, N.D., Howard W. Cannon, Nev., Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., Henry M. Jackson, Wash., and Ralph Yarborough, Tex.

LOW AVERAGES
BOSTON (UPI)—Jack Sharkey and Jim Corbett had knock-out averages of 273 each, the lowest among heavyweight champions.
