

Washington Huskies Get Rose Bowl Nod; USC Trojans Almost Got Vote In Close Ballot

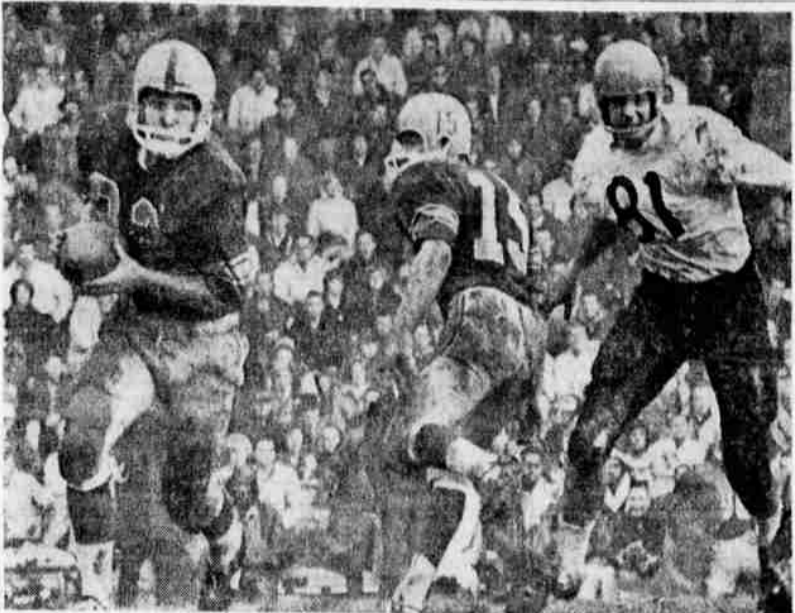

By United Press International
Washington is "in" and Southern California is "out" — and what a difference a year makes. The Washington Huskies, developing rapidly after some shaky performances, rolled over Washington State, 16-0, Saturday and right on into the Rose Bowl game as the West's best in 1963.

A year ago, Southern California, paced by its three "B" boys of Hal Beathard, Hal Beathard and Willie Brown, beat everyone in sight. That earned the Trojans the national championship and, of course, the right to play in the Rose Bowl.

Eleven victories in all—including a 42-37 decision over Wisconsin in the Rose Bowl—represented the finest year in Southern California's history. There seemed little that could stop the mighty Trojans from doing it all over again in 1963.

The Dark Horses
The pre-season forecasters said this: "The race to the 1964 Rose Bowl is dominated by a thundersome thoroughbred in a field of five strong dark horses." They were right about the dark horses and dead wrong about the thoroughbred.

While the Trojans stumbled, Washington kept right on improving, and in the end beat Southern California out of the right to play in the New Year's Day extravaganza at Pasadena. Junior Coffey, demoted to the second string two weeks ago after a poor performance against UCLA, was the hero in the biggest game of the season for the Huskies. He plunged over for their two touchdowns and sparked all along the way, much to the delight of 55,000 homecoming fans at Seattle.

DUCKS ROLL — Dennis Keller (HB 22) of University of Oregon takes handoff from Bob Berry (QB 15) and is off for big gain. Other player is Doug McDougal (RE 81) of Oregon State University. Oregon won the annual Civil War struggle by a 31 to 14 count.

Two Hours
It took the Big Six athletic directors two hours to make up their mind, but they voted for Washington (4-1) over Southern California (3-1) to play in the Rose Bowl.

Of Washington, Tom Hamilton Big Six executive director, said: "Jim Owens has a fine squad and it should be a credit to our conference. After a rather slow start, the club caught fire and finished in a blaze of glory."

Southern California, still struggling even at the end, beat crosstown rival UCLA, 26-6, to finish the season at 7-3. Washington wound up at 6-4.

Long Wait
Illinois, coached by Pete Elliott, won the Big Ten title with a 5-1-1 record and was 7-1-1 overall. The Illini last played in the Rose Bowl in 1952—so it's been a long wait for them. They beat Stanford, 49-7, then, and prior to that whipped UCLA, 43-15 (in 1947).

The Washington Huskies seem to rise to the occasion—when the occasion happens to take place in Pasadena. They walloped Wisconsin 44-8 in the Rose Bowl in 1960, and came back in 1961 to whip Minnesota 17-7.

Meanwhile, Stanford, suffering through another agonizing season, took out all of its frustration on California, beating the Bears, 28-17, on three long field goals by Braden Beck in "The Big Game."

Navy Seeks Bowl Bid; Must Get Past Cadets

By FRED DOWN

Army and Navy will meet next Saturday in the annual interservice classic which they regard as the beginning and the end of their seasons, but for the third time in seven years the game will be "biggie" than both of "em" as far as the rest of the country is concerned.

New Orleans, La., to play Alabama. Another Bowl Settled
Still another bowl berth was resolved when Baylor defeated Rice, 21-12, and accepted a bid to the Dec. 21 Bluebonnet Bowl game in Houston, Tex. Don Trull scored three touchdowns and completed 11 of 33 passes to set new season records of 160 completions and 2,047 yards gained.

Experts Study Boxing Injuries

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Britain's medical experts are taking a close look at boxing's head injuries and, pending a report next year on which the sport could rise or fall, British sources report today that both sides are readying their ammunition.

"The grinding of axes can be heard from both sides," asserts the boxing writer of the London Times. The panic started for those who want to keep boxing in business at a conference of the British Association of Sport and Medicine on the medical aspects of boxing.

One of the first reports was that "punch drunkenness" was more common among professionals than among amateurs, and more frequent among the second-raters or the preliminary boys than among those of championship caliber.

Because behind the pageantry and the traditional pomp will be the possibility that this year's Army-Navy game will create a head-on meeting in the Cotton Bowl between the nation's first and second-ranked college football teams. Texas, rated No. 1 by the UPI board of coaches, has already earned a Cotton Bowl berth on the strength of its perfect season and Southwest Conference championship. And now it's up to Jolly Roger Staubach and his Navy cohorts to beat Army and win the second-ranked Middles an invitation to oppose the Longhorns on New Year's Day.

Bowl Lineups
The other big New Year's Day berths were resolved Saturday as follows: —Washington defeated Washington State, 16-0, and was selected by the Big Six to face Big Ten champion Illinois in the Rose Bowl. —Mississippi and Alabama were matched in the Sugar Bowl despite disappointing windups of their campaigns. —Auburn beat Alabama, 10-3, and won the right to oppose Nebraska in the Orange Bowl. Fullback Junior Coffey scored two touchdowns on short plunges to lead Washington to its victory while Auburn tallied its points on a 32-yard field goal by Woody Woodall and Mallon Kent's eight-yard scoring pass. Mississippi State scored a moral victory when it battled Mississippi to a 10-10 tie but Ole Miss' disappointment was eased immediately after the game when it was invited to tended that the quota of danger in boxing did not seem sufficient to "do away with it." Some of the maneuvering would have done credit to a U.S. investigating committee hamming it up before a full set of television cameras. One physician asserted that he had seen "quite a number of head injuries from boxing during the past 20 or 30 years." Then, a member of the medical subcommittee of the British Boxing Board of Control blew a slight whistle on him. "We did find one boxer and," he said of the previous physician, "he had given him a license to box. We did not agree and we were upheld by the stewards of the board of control." Then he added the line which typifies the tragedy of a world in which boxing commissions have no iron-holding agreements internationally. "This boxer," he explained, "went away somewhere else to box."

As an addendum, he added, the post mortem reports on eight boxers previously killed in the ring "showed no evidence of any previous brain damage." Once, in other words, was enough. The result of the entire conference seemed to indicate that school boxing was run with rigid care, amateur boxing could use a bit more caution in spots but that professional boxing is the same the world over.

Board Eyes New Coach

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—The University of Tennessee athletics board met today to hire a new football coach who can push Tennessee back to its old days of gridiron glory. Coach Jim McDonald, who held the top job for only five months and compiled a 5-5 record this season, was moved to the post of assistant athletic director at an undisclosed salary. McDonald, former Ohio State fullback, tried to fit a multiple offense into Tennessee's old single wing attack but it didn't take. McDonald succeeded Bowden Wyatt last June after Wyatt fell victim to five mediocre seasons and a growing howl from fans that single wing football is too old fashioned. Alumni and fans complained that high school stars who learn T-formation football don't want to play for Tennessee. The athletics board, meeting in closed session said there was a chance it could name a successor today, but it wasn't likely. The meeting was scheduled for 9 a.m. EST.

Hal Greer of the Philadelphia 76ers is waging a one-man battle to prove that the "little man" still belongs in the National Basketball Association. And his campaign couldn't come at a better time for the 76ers, who have been hit by some untimely injuries. Greer, the backcourt star from Marshall College, scored 43 points for the second consecutive night as the 76ers defeated the Detroit Pistons, 132-121, in a neutral court game Sunday in Cleveland. He had 43 against the New York Knickerbockers Saturday night in Madison Square Garden. His Sunday spurge helped make up for the loss of Lee Shaffer, who had been leading one of the most ancient breeds of dog, the Basenji is barkless, but not mute.

the Philadelphia team in scoring. Shaffer suffered a dislocated kneecap Saturday. The 76ers also are missing Dave Gambee, who has a leg injury. Greer had plenty of help, from Johnny Kerr with 21 points and Paul Neumann with 17 but the biggest surprise was Coach Dolph Schayes, who played in Shaffer's spot and had 15 points and 10 rebounds. It was just the fourth appearance of the year for Schayes.

Bearcats, Duke Show National Title Talent

By SANDY PADWE
UPI Sports Writer
Cincinnati, Duke and Wichita made some vivid and lasting impressions during the opening weekend of the college basketball season. Judging by their performances against relatively strong opening game opponents, the three teams — ranked second, fourth and fifth in the nation — should offer Loyola of Chicago plenty of opposition for the national title. The Bearcats beat George Washington, 101-65; Duke beat Penn State, 92-62; and Wichita defeated Wyoming, 82-67. Ron Bonham hit on 11 of 16 shots from the field and had 31 points for Cincinnati while teammate George Wilson helped by collecting 14 points and 14 rebounds. Jeff Mullins was Duke's top scorer with 25 points, but the most impressive aspect of the Blue Devil opener centered on their defense. It was so strong that they led by 40 points during the second half. Wichita, trailing 30-29 at the half, cracked its game open on a 36-point spurge by Dave Stallworth. The Wheatshockers had to overcome a sensational performance by Wyoming sophomore Leon Clark, who had 33 points.

Look Picks Vern Burke

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vern Burke, Oregon State's great pass catching end, today was named to the 1963 Look Magazine All American football team. Burke was one of two West Coast players named to the 24-man team. The other was guard Rick Redman of Washington. The magazine said Far West players eliminated them for all or part of the season included halfback Mel Renfro of Oregon, fullback Junior Coffey of Washington and quarterback Pete Beathard of Southern California.

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a way to shrink piles without surgery. The new method, called "shrinkage," stops itching and relieves pain — without surgery. In case after case, while only relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all — results were
