Texas Longhorns Crowned National Champs

NEW YORK (UPI)—The final United Press International major college football ratings with first-place votes and won-lost records in parentheses:

Team	Points
1. Texas (31) (10-0)	346
2. Navy (4) (8-1)	296
3. Pittsburgh (6-1)	223
4. Illinois (7-1)	217
5. Nebraska (9-1)	201
6. Auburn (9-1)	182
7. Mississippi (7-0-2)	144
8. Oklahoma (8-2)	69
9. Alabama (7-2)	51
10. Michigan State (6-2-1)	40

Second 10 — 11, Mississippi State 27; 12, Syracuse 23; 13, Arizona State 22; 14, Memphis State 16; 15, Washington 13; 16 (tie), Penn State, Southern California and Missouri 9; 19, North Carolina 8; 20, Baylor 4.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two years of frustration during which the University of Texas missed the national football title by a total of seven points ended for the Longhorns today when they were crowned the 1963 major college football champions by the United Press International Board of Coaches. For 13 seniors, the national championship was particularly gratifying, remembering how narrowly they missed the honor the last two seasons.

"We had a little pact between us (seniors) this year that we wouldn't settle for less than 10-0," senior tailback Tommy Ford, the Southwest Conference's leading rusher, revealed. The Longhorns produced the perfect record, the only one in major football this season and Texas' first in 43 years, to attain the apex which slipped through their grasp in 1961, when their only blemish was a 6-0 defeat to Texas Christian, and again last season when Rice hurt them with a 14-14 tie.

Navy finished a distant second, but nonetheless reached the highest ranking held by a service academy in the 14-year history of the UPI ratings. They held the runner-up spot for the last month of the ratings and collected the other four first-place ballots. The Middles play Army Saturday in their traditional rivalry for a possible bowl invitation but their opportunity to unseat Texas was spoiled by a 32-28 upset by Southern Methodist, a team coach Darrell Royal's eleven downs, 17-12.

No newcomers could crack the top 10 the final five weeks of the season but the third through 10th positions were reshuffled in the final tally. Pittsburgh, a loser only to Navy, replaced Michigan State in third; Illinois, the Big Ten champ, climbed four places to finish fourth and Big Eight champion Nebraska advanced one position to fifth.

Auburn Climbs Up Auburn, once-beaten, jumped from ninth to sixth; twice-tied Mississippi dropped from fourth to seventh and Oklahoma advanced from 10th to eighth. Alabama fell to ninth and Michigan State completed the top 10 in 10th place.

and Alabama were the only members of the 1962 top 10 to repeat. Mississippi State, Syracuse and Arizona State led the second 10 in 11th, 12th and 13th, respectively. Memphis State, unbeaten but tied, claimed 14th and Big Six winner Washington was 15th. Sixteenth was a three-way deadlock among Southern California, the defending national champion, Penn State and Missouri. North Carolina finished 19th and Baylor filled No. 20.

NFL Draft Pick Takes Long Time

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Football League struggled into the dawn today to attempt to wind up its annual draft of college talent and get on about the business of signing raw material against the bids of the rival American League.

The NFL plum-picking session progressed at the slowest pace in history as every team cautiously sounded out prospects before it made its official selection.

This first round required 8 hours and 8 minutes compared to the previous record of 4 hours 55 minutes. The second round was completed in 4 hours and 8 minutes and the third, with a 15-minute time limit imposed for each choice, in 2 hours 25 minutes.

But the result was that after almost 15 hours, the 14 teams in the league had named only 42 college players of a total of 280 supposed to be chosen, and each team had obtained rights to only three players.

The pattern paid off for some clubs. Four signed their No. 1 selections before midnight, Minnesota tackle Carl Eller with Minnesota, Tennessee tackle Dick Evey with Chicago, Utah State quarterback Bill Munson with Los Angeles, and Indiana halfback Marv Woodson with Baltimore.

Two No. 2 picks were wrapped up too, Southern California end Hal Bedsole by Minnesota and Kentucky tackle Herschel Turner by St. Louis.

The club owners, plagued with the problem of completing the draft so that they can continue trying to sign prospects under the threat from the AFL, settled down for an all night stand in an attempt to complete the 20 rounds scheduled.

San Francisco made Texas Tech end Dave Parks the No. 1 pick of the NFL meeting, followed by guard Bob Brown of Nebraska by the Philadelphia Eagles, halfback Charles Taylor of Arizona State by Washington and Texas tackle Scott Appleton by Dallas, picked after a two hours and 39 minute wait, longest ever in a draft meeting.

Other first round picks were Southern California quarterback Pete Beathard by Detroit, Louisville tackle Ken Kortas by St. Louis, Pittsburgh halfback Paul Martha by Pittsburgh, Ohio State halfback Paul Warfield by Cleveland, Oklahoma halfback Joe Don Looney by New York, and Nebraska tackle Lloyd Voss by Green Bay.

KU Seats On Sale

Reserved tickets for the KUHS clash with Roseburg this Friday and Saturday at Pelican Court go on sale at Klamath County Chamber of Commerce office tomorrow.

Athletic Director Jim Johnson also indicated that there are a few season reserved tickets still available.

The Pelicans open their season with the double clash this weekend with the Indians of Roseburg.

Also on the basketball slate for this weekend is a clash between the KU freshmen and Lakeview on Pelican Court Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m.

2-Man Swap Puzzling To League

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—A trade that was two years in the making—Leon Wagner for Barry Latman—may take the rest of the American League 10 years to figure out.

"There must be more to it than that," declared an astonished Ralph Houk of the Yankees who along with most baseball men felt that the trade was rather one-sided in Cleveland's favor.

Actually there was more to the deal than the Los Angeles Angels merely giving up the 29-year-old Wagner of the Indians for the 27-year-old Latman.

"In addition to Latman," explained Angel General Manager Fred Haney, "we will receive another player from Cleveland by March 1, and it will be a major leaguer, not a minor leaguer."

Even so there was considerable wonderment as to why the Angels would give up a slugging outfielder like Wagner, who drove in 90 runs, hit 28 homers and batted .291 even though he slumped practically half the year.

"We weren't the least bit anxious to give up Wagner," said Haney. "We need pitching. We also have some fine young hitters coming up, kids like Ed Kirkpatrick and Dick Simpson among others. That's why we felt we could spare Wagner."

The prevailing feeling in other quarters, however, was that the Angels wearied of Wagner when his average nose-dived 60 points from .330 in July and when he hit only two of his homers and drove in only 19 of his runs at home all last season.

There was also some conjecture Wagner's general attitude may have influenced the Angels to get rid of him. But that was emphatically denied by Haney and Manager Bill Rigney.

'Haystack', 4 Midgets On Wednesday Mat Card

The Big and the Small of the wrestling world come to town Wednesday, Dec. 4, at the Klamath Auditorium.

Mammoth Haystack Calhoun makes a reappearance here to the delight of grunt-and-groan fans who enjoyed his last outing in the local arena.

In addition, the mighty mites of wrestling, the midgets will also be on the Wednesday card. Haystack, the man-mountain country boy from Arkansas, will team up with Abe Jacobs against the bearded Russian, Soldat Gorky, and Gil "The Bull" Ane in a full blown tag-team scramble.

The midgets will appear on the same card also in a tag team match. Sky Low Low and Irish Jackie pair up to take on Tiny Tim and Bille The Kid in a match that should be the humorous highlight of the season.

Tiny, but mighty, is the apt phrase of the pint-sized wrestlers who pack powerful grappling ability into small frames, but delight the crowd with their antics.

Back Davidson, Klamath

Falls wrestler, will also be on the card against an opponent yet to be named.

This will probably be the last wrestling card of the year, and indications are that it will be one of the best-attended in many years.

The double-barreled attraction of Haystack and the midgets will still be available for wrestling fans at the same price, however, promoter Elton Smith indicated that ringside price will be $2, with $1.50 for general admission and 75 cents for children under 12.

Tickets for this, one of the greatest mat attractions in Klamath Falls history, are on sale at Dick Reeder's Clothing Store and at the Waldorf.

Stanford Indians Tip Oregon Ducks 59-51

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford's Bobby Bedell collected nearly half his team's total points Monday night to lead the Indians to a 59-51 basketball victory over the University of Oregon.

It was a season opener for both.

Neither club was able to generate much scoring steam, but some of the rustiness is bound to loosen when they meet again on the same court tonight.

The Indians were in command nearly all the way. They grabbed the lead midway during the first half and never relinquished it. Stanford led 24-20 at the half.

Bedell, the evening's star performer, gathered in 24 points for the Indians.

Stanford All-America candidate Tom Dose was second high for the evening with 17, and Oregon's Steve Jones led the visitors with 16 points.

Jim Johnson added 11 points for the Ducks while sophomore Jim Barnett tallied nine.

Julius Boros Credits Thievery Of Putter For Finest Season

SEBRING, Fla. (UPI) — Julius (Moose) Boros, at 43 voted the professional golfer of the year, today thanked a thief for the most successful season of his entire career.

The placid, easy-going Hungarian admits that he was "fit to be tied" last spring when after finishing third in the Masters two shots back of winning Jack Nicklaus he found that someone had stolen his putter.

"Nothing better ever happened to me," he grinned as he held it up against defending champion Sam Snead in the Huis and Haig challenge round at Harder Hall Golf Course today.

It had been three long years since Boros had won a tournament. But he derricked a long ignored putter out of a closet at home and suddenly regained the touch which carried him to the U. S. Open championship in 1952.

"The answer is in my putting," says Boros, who admits that he isn't as long off the tee or as supple as he was in the past. "You putt and you win. Don't putt and you struggle."

There was the added factor of a new driver which he ordered and which added "about 15 or 20 yards" to his tee shots.

The combination carried him to victory in the Colonial Invitation, ending his long drought, and set him on fire on the pro tour.

He followed up with a second place at Oklahoma City, was checked momentarily by a muscle spasm the following week, tied for second at Indianapolis, won the Flint Open, and "rested" through the Thunderbird which came just before the U.S. Open at Brookline.

Nobody would have given the Moose much of a chance against the so-called "big guns" such as Jackie Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer when they teed off at Brookline. But the Moose admits he "had a hunch." He was right.

Nicklaus didn't even qualify for the final 36 holes. And, at the end, there was Boros in a tie with Palmer and young Jacky Cupit. In the playoff his one under par 70 beat Cupit by three strokes and Palmer by six, making Boros the second oldest open winner in history.

"You're as old as you feel," grins the man who followed that up by finishing second in the Cleveland Open.

OSU Wins 80-66; Counts Hits 38

By United Press International

The basketball season may be only one game old, but Oregon State already has established itself as the team to beat on the West Coast and the Beavers' Mel Counts already has tossed his hat into the small ring reserved for All-America candidates.

Counts, a 7-footer with at least most of the moves, has cracked all scoring marks at Oregon State for the past two seasons. But he was never better than in the Beavers' 100-97 Monday night against Washington State.

Counts hit 33 points to miss the Boeiller Gym scoring record at Pullman by a single point. The Beavers won it, 80-66.

Brent Watson had 14 for the outgunned Cougars.

Other coast powerhouses also won about as expected Monday night.

Stanford got a tough fight from Oregon before pulling out a 59-51 decision. The Indians' smooth-as-silk center Tom Dose, second only to Counts among Coast pivot men, had 17. But the big news was that touted soph Bob Bedell lived up to press clippings with 24 points.

If he can continue to help Dose like that, the Cards could breeze to the Big Six title. The Cards host Oregon in a rematch tonight.

Other major teams to flex their muscles Monday night included Idaho, which downed Nevada 96-73; Gonzaga, which had a 108-57 romp over Eastern Washington, and Washington, which edged Texas Western 87-89.

A couple of West Coast squads went into the meat-grinder. Fresno State lost at Utah State, 102-71, and Loyola of Los Angeles was thumped at Utah, 94-77.

Idaho set a new school rebounding record with 72 grabs against Nevada. Old record of 69 was set last year. Tom Moreland led the Vandals with 25 points.

Gonzaga's fast-break built up a 50-28 halftime bulge against Eastern Washington. Billy Wilson led the Zags with 21 points. Gonzaga has its shortest squad in years and is going to have to win them on speed this year. It worked Monday night.

Washington had its hands full with Texas Western, but pulled out the decision with a late rally after the visitors' big Jim Barnes drew his fourth foul. Steve Wilson had 23 and Lynn Nance 15 for the Huskies. Barnes hit only six points in the second half and has 20 for the night.

Other scores: Southern Oregon 49 Humboldt State 45, Nevada Southern 66 San Diego Navy PhiKapp 54, Pomona 102 California Baptist 79, Federal Insurance of Seattle 86 Puget Sound 69, Pacific Lutheran 71 St. Martins 60, University of Pacific 79, California State 65.

Coach Quips At Banquet

PORTLAND (UPI) — Johnny McKay, football coach at Southern California, touched on the lighter side of the gridiron Monday night at the annual scholar-awards banquet here.

McKay brought howls of laughter to the audience as he came up with such quips as:

"The greatest accomplishments of football are the memories of playing. I remember a 24-yard run I made and it's now a 7-yarder."

"Football teaches pride. We didn't have enough this fall so my boys will watch the Rose Bowl on television."

"I wasn't great my first year at USC because the alumni hadn't mailed in enough good players."

"To the prep athletes I give this advice—stay in this state... but if you are interested in travel it can be arranged."

McKay spoke at a dinner which honored eight Portland-area scholar athletes.

Loyola Ranked First In National Cage Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cincinnati edged closer to the first-ranked Loyola Ramblers today and high-scoring Duke tied NYU for third place in the United Press International Board of Coaches major college basketball ratings.

A sparse weekend schedule saw only five of the top 10 teams in action but all won handily.

Defending champion Loyola picked up five additional first-place ballots without sinking a basket, being ranked first by 27 coaches. Cincinnati lost two of its No. 1 ballots from the previous week but had five more second-place votes to cut Loyola's leading margin from 40 to 26 points. The Bearcats clobbered George Washington 101-65.

Jeff Mullins, stepping in to replace Duke's graduated All-America Art Heyman, registered 25 points in the Blue Devils' season-opening romp over Penn State, 92-82, moving Duke into a third-place tie with idle NYU.

The only other changes in the top 10 involved Michigan and Oregon State, each moving up one place eighth and ninth, respectively, forcing Texas (No. 8 last week) back to 10th.

Dave Stallworth accounted for 35 points as Wichita retained the No. 5 position with a 92-67 opening win over Wyoming; idle Arizona State retained sixth and Ohio State All-America Gary Brads sank 20 points in the Buckeyes' 68-42 warmup over the University of California's Davis Branch.

Kentucky advanced a notch to 11th; Providence moved from 14th to 12th and San Francisco moved up to tie UCLA for 13th.

Grid Grant Established

SALEM (UPI) — The Frank Leamy Football Scholarship, an annual four-year grant of $1,500 per year, has been established.

Reginald Jensen, president of the IOOA Life Insurance Co., said the scholarship will be given to an outstanding Oregon high school football player for use at any college or university in the state. Selection of the winner of the scholarship will be made by a panel of Oregon sportswriters and sportscasters.

Leamy, former football coach at Notre Dame, now is associated with the IOOA's life insurance firm.
