'Challenge Of Leadership' Stressed At 4-H Banquet

By RUTH KING
TULELAKE—John Emo, 4-H specialist, University of California at Davis, spoke at the 4-H leadership banquet Wednesday night, on "The Challenge of Leadership." The dinner meeting was in the home economics building at the fairgrounds.

The 4-H Club program, which originated 29 years ago in Yakima, has reached its present significance in America, he said, because of the dedicated efforts of the men and women who have volunteered their services to make the club work possible.

Leadership participation is voluntary which is the greatest contributing factor in the success of the clubs. Leaders are teachers, the speaker continued, and as such they lead youth, both boys and girls to become good citizens, to make the most of their capabilities, to honor their country, to greater loyalty, to larger service and to better living.

He outlined the needs of youth: physical, social, survival, security, love, belonging, esteem and self realization, that must be realized if the individual is to become a well-balanced adult.

In closing he commended the leaders for re-enrollment, and for the excellent work that has been accomplished in clubs in this northern part of California.

Brief remarks and statistical figures on membership totals in California were given by Andrew H. Schmidt, agricultural engineer, of Pacific Power and Light Co. who said there are now 13,889 boys and 22,855 girls in 4-H Club activities in California.

Deer Meat Uncovered

An Oregon State Police officer called at a Fort Klamath residence on a routine matter Wednesday and uncovered a cache of 33 quarters of deer meat and the hunter who admitted taking them.

The hunter was Patrick Erin Shelp, 27, of Livermore, Calif., who was later arraigned on a charge of illegal possession of venison by District Court Judge Robert B. Kerr and released after posting $150 bail.

Shelp, who has been staying with a friend at Agency Lake admitted slaying the deer within two days previous to his arrest. One-eighth Klamath Indian, Shelp formerly withdrew from the Klamath Indian Tribe and is no longer entitled to unrestricted hunting and fishing privileges as are the remaining members of the tribe, according to a federal court ruling of Nov. 29. Judge Kerr has taken the Shelp case under advisement and will make a decision after he confers with the federal court.

District Attorney Dale Crabtree was not available to comment on the ruling involving the Indian tribe.

Dates Changed On Open House

Plans for the annual Christmas open house at the Elks Temple has been changed from 7 to 9 p.m. to 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 22.

Jury Acquits Defendant After Short Deliberation

Marie Barkley, who presented no evidence in defense of a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, was acquitted Wednesday afternoon by a jury that deliberated only a half-hour.

The Circuit Court jury of eight men and four women returned a unanimous verdict at 2:30 p.m. The jurors had received the case at 12 p.m., but were out to lunch from 12 to 2.

Miss Barkley, 23, had been accused of shooting at Frances Colleen Crume with a rifle July 6. Evidence indicated that Miss Barkley drove up to a Gary Street house July 6, stopped her car, fired several shots at the house from the car, then stepped out and fired several more shots. The prosecution contended that Miss Crume was in the house and therefore an assault with a dangerous weapon had been committed.

Elks Band Performs

The Elks band of Klamath Falls made its sixth consecutive visit to the Veterans Administration Domiciliary at White City last week, and presented a one-and-a-half-hour concert for an overflowing crowd of member residents, according to Paul C. Bethel, chief of recreation.

The band was under the direction of Oscar Denault, esteemed loyal knight, who started the program by conducting the band in the Washington Post-March by Sousa. The members heard stirring renditions of band favorites, including a tone poem by Moehlman, and a Victor Herbert special by trumpeters Robert Chilcote, Dave Johnson and James Metler.
