

Young People Are Guests Of Job's Daughters Bethel 61 At Annual Fall Fantasy

A gala dance looked forward to each year by the young set is the Fall Fantasy staged by Job's Daughters Bethel 61. This year under the leadership of Honored Queen Sally Hanville the affair was again a beautifully decorated party held Nov. 30 in the Willard Hotel. Walls and ceiling of pink paper streamers set the color theme which was accented with red. The forest effect was created with branch trees trimmed with pink angel hair and life-sized animal cutouts.

The dance band, The Tikis, sat before a background of three huge leaves bearing the theme name, Fall Fantasy, in glittering letters.

A windmill and wishing well completed the festive setting for the large crowd of prettily dressed young women and their escorts.

Bethel 61 line officers and their escorts, above, stand on the bridge which was the entrance to the ballroom. The girls, left to right, are Cheryl Eccles, Jane Neece, Sally Hanville and Suana Whytal. In back, same order, John Jandrzejewski, Pat Parks, Sherm Allen and Pete Ellingson.

SOCIETY

By Helen Bechen
Herald and News December 8, 1963

Honored Queen Sally Hanville and her escort, Sherm Allen, above, stood before the realistic windmill for this picture.

Above, John Otterbein and Pam Conn admire cutout bird, part of the decorations.

The foursome above, left to right, are Mark Reynolds, Linda Barkee, Jim Bennington and Donna May.

Around the wishing well at left are, from the left, Tom Kerns, Georjan Gates, Teena Fredrickson and Dennis Chapman.

Pictured between dances at the punch bowl at right, left to right, are Ron Waits, Bobbie Jean Brady, Scott Smelcer and Frances Waits.

— Photos by Kettler