Unhappy Spouse Rejects Party

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: Soon my husband and I will be celebrating our golden wedding anniversary. Our children want to give us a grand party, complete with open house and all the trimmings.

Here is the drawback. Our marriage has not been a happy one. It was more like an endurance test for me. As I look back I don't know how I lived through the humiliation of all his sordid affairs.

He left me with three small children when the baby was less than a year old. If my family had not come to my rescue I don't know what I would have done.

Everyone knew the ugly details. When he returned I took him back and never said a word. But I have not loved him since. For the past 20 years I have supported myself because I have not wanted to take any money from him. I'm no longer bitter, Ann, just indifferent.

Does such a marriage call for a celebration? What do you say? — SMILING ON THE OUTSIDE
Dear Smiling: If your children wish to honor you and your husband with a party don't deprive them of the pleasure. They obviously do not view your marriage as you do—and it's just as well.

Since you have acted a role for the past several years one more benefit performance won't hurt.
Dear Ann Landers: I'm an English teacher and a guidance counselor in a junior high school. This is a rather small community — population under 45,000.

In your opinion how far should the school authorities go in their demands that the 11-, 12- and 13-year-old girls look their age?
Many of our young students come to school wearing tight skirts and sweaters, eye makeup and lacquered hair-do's. Friday one girl appeared in frayed eyelashes. When I called her into my office she said, "This is a free country. My mother knows I fix myself up like this and if it's O.K. with her I don't think it's any of the school's business."

I phoned the girl's mother and she supported her daughter. Her attitude was, "She has to get it out of her system."
What should the school's position be? — FRUSTRATED
Dear Frustrated: When 11-, 12- and 13-year-olds come to school looking like chorus girls they should be told to go home and wash their faces and comb their hair — and not to come back until they look their age.

A school whose standards are set by the kookiest mother in town isn't worth much.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 24 years old and I've loved Judy ever since she was a freckle-faced kid in knee socks. She and I grew up on the same block and there was never anyone else for me. When I went into the service Judy promised to wait for me. I wasn't gone more than six months when I received a letter from my mother telling me Judy had run off and married a fellow nobody ever thought was much good.

Eight months later when I got home Judy's marriage was already on the rocks. The guy she married had got himself into serious trouble with the law. He skipped town in the middle of the night owing everybody.

Judy wants to marry me now but I can't get over thinking of her as somebody else's wife. My folks say I should have nothing to do with her. She swears she'll be true. What do you think? — REX

Dear Rex: If this girl is assuming of course that she is no longer married — then continue to do so. But unless you are capable of complete forgiveness don't consider marriage. The shadows of the past are sure to become life-size monsters unless they are destroyed.

Assassination Investigator

'Why' Still Unanswered

DALLAS (UPI)—When the fatal shots were fired into President Kennedy Nov. 22, reporters on a bus close by gasped "What was that?"

The grim details quickly unfolded. But two weeks later the gruesome "why" still was unanswered.

Federal Bureau of Investigation officers swarmed Dallas and other cities in a comprehensive investigation of the assassination, and the slaying here two days later of Lee Harvey Oswald, 24-year-old suspected sniper.

FBI men were silent about their work. Cooperating local officers also were quiet. The results are to be given the presidential commission, headed by Earl Warren, chief justice of the United States.

The scene of the shooting, including the floors, now is being viewed by Dr. Otto Bach, president of the West Berlin House of Representatives. An Australian flag flew at half mast. Hundreds still visit the area and stare at the Texas School Book Depository, where the sniper awaited and fired.

Police Thursday re-enacted the shooting and a tiny marker was placed on the street at the spot where the first of three shots hit President Kennedy. Texas Gov. John Connally was struck by the second bullet and the third hit Kennedy.

Connally left Parkland Memorial Hospital Thursday, where he was hospitalized and President Kennedy died. The governor told doctors and employees of the hospital he literally owed his life to the state capital, Austin, for a holiday dinner.

where a national television audience witnessed the Oswald shooting also was a question unanswered.

Americans responded to other problems created by the assassination. Policeman J. D. Tippit, the officer who was slain while trying to arrest Oswald, had left only a small estate for his family.

Police sources said that perhaps $200,000 had been mailed to the widow and her three children, although accounting and letter opening was incomplete.

The 21-year-old Russian-born widow of Oswald had received more than $6,000 in donations and letters of sympathy from across the nation. She has two young children.

Backers Of Tax Package Put $47,186 Into Effort

SALEM (UPI)—Backers of the legislature's $60 million tax increase package spent $47,186 to suffer a 3 1/2 to 1 defeat at the Oct. 15 referendum, the secretary of state's office disclosed Friday.

Victorious opponents spent $4,250—and are still $2,754 in the red, the accounting revealed.

A preliminary list of campaign expenditures announced Oct. 28 showed supporters of the measure spent $2,781, and opponents $3,899.

Biggest contributor in the fight to salvage the tax bill was the Oregon Education Association which donated $24,323.

Second largest was a $14,018 contribution of breakage fee refunds by students at the University of Oregon. In addition, the UO class of 1964 donated $400, and the UO class of 1965 gave $540.

dent Arthur S. Flemming was listed as having spent $2,308 in the unsuccessful campaign.

The Committee for Economy and Equitable Taxation, headed by Albany newspaper editor J. Francyl Howard, spent $3,834, but listed only $1,089 in contributions.

The secretary of state's office announced it would continue to request Howard to list donors to request how the $2.754 shortage.

"We'll write him every month, and after a while if he doesn't list enough contributors to cover the shortage, we will turn the matter over to the district attorney," Jack Thompson, elections supervisor, commented.

The $14,018 breakage fee refund contribution — which will not be collected from students until next June — was secured by a loan signed by Flemming, James Shea, Harold A. Kieffer and Richard Williams.

EXPLANATIONS DOWN
1. Flying over Siberia, a tourist might find it VAST or extensive. It would not necessarily be the LAST territory a tourist visited.
2. A clever QUIP may flatter someone's ego. It draws attention to them. A clever QUIZ or questioning might reveal ignorance and deflate rather than flatter someone's ego.
3. Trying to get rid of a wild TRACT of land, a trader could resort to lies about it. Resorting to lies would be encouraging a wild TRAIT instead of getting rid of it.
4. Distinctive spots on a POPPY or flower, should make it a prize winner at a show since such spots would be unusual. Such spots on a PUPPY would be unlikely to mean anything even if he were entered in a show.
5. Imbedded SOOT would be difficult to remove from a white board. Using a knife, imbedded SHOT could be easier to remove.
6. An open LOT, if filled with refuse, could be an invitation for contamination to the children playing there. An open POT would depend upon where it was left and what it was used for.
7. In the hospital, a patient might feel that her CUBICLE or allotted space needed some attention by the nurse. Sick enough to be in a hospital, it is unlikely that a patient would be unlikely to mean anything even if he were entered in a show.
8. While knitting, a young lady might notice that the whole thing had suddenly PALLED or become insipid. If she had finished the whole thing she was knitting, it is not apt to have all PULLED out.

Doctors Defended

PORTLAND (UPI)—Dr. Edward Annis, president of the American Medical Association, charged Thursday night that some forces tried to put over socialized medicine in the 1940's are advancing present efforts for medicine.

Dr. Annis spoke to the Multnomah County Medical Society. He said he had been opposing these forces for 20 years and that the American people were being misled into believing doctors were against care for old people.

"How do you think those people were able to get old?" he asked.

Dr. Annis said the medical profession concerned itself principally with the health of the people through research, application of new knowledge and education.
