Disturbed Child Needs Help

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I married late (at age 34) and I had a baby five years later. I was shocked. Two doctors told me I would never have a family. My son was a colic baby and cried for six months straight. My husband and I didn't know what a good night's sleep was until that boy was nine months old.

Reginald is now six and has caused us nothing but trouble. He broke up my friendship with three neighbors because he tore up their flowers, scratched their furniture with his toys and hit their children. They blamed me and said I didn't control him. Believe me, Ann, I spanked him repeatedly but it did no good.

Last week his first grade teacher told me in her 23 years of teaching she has never seen a more difficult child. She suggested professional help. My husband says all the psychiatrists he knows are nuttier than their patients, and that our boy needs a military school. We know a school that will take him at age seven. It's expensive but it may be worth it. What do you say?—EXHAUSTED

Dear Exhausted: I say the teacher gave you excellent advice and I hope you will take it. I could write five columns on what is wrong with your son and why—all based on the facts you have outlined in your letter. Run, don't walk, to the nearest doctor who specializes in disturbed children. Your child needs help desperately.

Dear Ann Landers: Something happened recently that made me realize the hazards of retirement—not so much for the man who suddenly finds himself with time on his hands, but for his poor wife.

I have belonged to a two-table bridge club for almost 20 years. We met every week at the home of one of the members, and all of us had a delightful time. Last month the women announced, rather mysteriously, that the club was disbanding because there seemed to be so many other things to do. Our final meeting was held two weeks ago.

I heard this morning that the club has been reorganized and I was left out. The reason? Since my husband retired six months ago the women dreaded coming to my home because my husband insisted on hovering over the tables and offering suggestions on how to play their hands.

I cannot deny that all they said is true. Frankly, he gets on my nerves, too, but what can I do about it? Please, please suggest something. — NOT-SO-GOLDEN-YEARS

Dear Not-So-Golden: Your husband needs an outlet for his time and energies so he will not need to hang around you and your friends.

You know where his interests and his talents lie. Get busy and direct them into productive channels or he'll drive you both out of your minds.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son is planning to marry a nice girl who comes from a family that has nothing. He is our only child and frankly we had hoped for something better for him.

The bride's mother phoned yesterday and asked me to send a list of our close relatives. She said she was sorry we could not invite any friends to the dinner because they are working on a limited budget and must keep the dinner list down.

My husband and I are heartsick. We are well off financially and would like to foot the bill for the wedding and do it right. Please advise.—NOT HAPPY

Dear Not Happy: Send off the abbreviated list and show no sign of disappointment or unhappiness. The bride's parents should have the kind of wedding they can afford and you should go along with it — graciously.

Ann Landers' frank and informative new book, "Teen-Agers and Sex" ($2.95), is now available at your book store.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Invention Of Nylon 25 Years Ago Revolutionized Fiber Industry

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — A golden-haired tot named Shirley Temple was the movie queen of the day. Fiorello LaGuardia was the firey little mayor of the nation's largest city.

It was the year that Douglas (Wrongway) Corrigan flew from Brooklyn to Dublin. It was the year Hitler invaded Austria.

And, it was the year that a Wilmington, Del., industrialist stood before an audience attending the New York Herald Tribune Forum and announced the news of "a new word and a new material" — nylon.

The man was Charles M. A. Stine, a vice president of Du Pont, developers of the first fiber to come strictly from the test tube. (Rayon, ahead of it, is a fiber made by forcing a solution of modified cellulose through minute holes and drying the filaments.)

The year of nylon's birth publicly: 1938. The fiber was to provide the impetus for today's mammoth man-created fiber industry, amazing in the number of materials available and the uses to which they are put.

This year, observing its 25th anniversary, nylon itself is being produced by 112 companies in 120 plants and in 38 countries. (The word nylon is generic: it is not a trademark.)

Big Business

In the United States alone, the one miracle fiber is produced at the rate annually of 600 million pounds, at a value close to $900 million. More than 19,000 persons are involved directly in its manufacture; an estimated 750,000 workers in thousands of business firms depend on it in one way of another for a livelihood.

Du Pont says that 11 years of research and $27 million were spent in pioneering the fiber. The man whose research created it was Dr. Wallace H. Carothers, who died some 18 months before the first public announcement of the fiber was made Oct. 27, 1938.

Nylon is created from atoms in coal, air and water. And a lady who snagged her first stockings made from the fiber returned them to Du Pont, noting acidly, that "obviously s o m e-body put too much air in this pair."

Commercial production of the fiber didn't begin until late 1939 and its early uses were for toothbrush bristles, fishing lines and surgical sutures.

Hosiery Boom

But the real impact of the invention came with production of hosiery in 1939. The first stockings were sold to Du Pont employees in February, 1939. And in October, 1939, a few went on sale through retail stores in Wilmington. In May, 1940, they went on sale in stores throughout the country.

But with the beginning of World War II, nylon "went to war" — earmarked for parachutes, glider tow ropes, jungle tents, tarpaulins, and tire cord for heavy bombers and fighter planes.

Women were asked to turn their old stockings over to the scrap drive so they could be converted into yarn for military use. Nylon stockings became like shoe ration coupons and steak and butter.

In Tulsa, Okla., 60 girls were asked what they missed most during the war. Twenty said men. Forty said nylons.

The first post-war nylons began to appear early in 1946 — and the reaction often was riotous.

In Philadelphia, 15 foot patrolmen and five mounted police were on duty when a store offered nylons for the first time.

A Cleveland Press headline read: "Thousands storm counters for nylons."

Reported the Los Angeles Times: "Robbers carry off nylons in safe."

Bob Hope noted in September that nylons were due back by Christmas. He aded, "I won't say the women are anxious, but this is the first time Congress ever got 50 million letters petitioning it to abolish October and November."

And so went the first 25 years. What of the next 25?

Du Pont said research promises that nylon's future may surpass its past.

Just last week, the company announced "the biggest news in hosiery since stockings became nylons" — development of a yarn with a special self-crimping property that puts resilience or "give" into stockings to give "a new kind of leg flattery as well as great freedom of fit." Stockings of the new yarn will be available by early 1964.

Racial Tensions Nothing New To Reds

LONDON (UPI)—The demonstrations in Moscow by Africans Wednesday and Thursday appeared to be a culmination of racial tensions within the Communist bloc that have existed for some time.

These tensions resulted in several other racial incidents involving African students earlier this year.

Last May 10 organized groups of Czechoslovakian students marched through the streets of Prague and beat up every colored person they came across, according to Western observers who witnessed the incidents.

As a result, several African students in Prague abandoned their scholarships and left the country.

Last February, African students who had studied in Moscow and Bulgaria reached the West and charged that they had been exploited by the Communist authorities.

Rioting broke out in the streets of Sofia on Feb. 12. Reports said club-swinging police broke up demonstrations of Ghanaian students calling for the release of seven leaders of the Pan-African Students Union who had been arrested.

Seventeen Ghanaian students left the country, charging Bulgarian racism and brutality.

More students left later and one of their spokesmen in Sofia sent out an appeal for help. The spokesman said Bulgarian authorities had made it difficult for the students to leave and that 30 of them were restricted to a compound near the city.

Three weeks later five more African students left Bulgaria. They charged that despite Communist claims of no discrimination they sometimes were called "black monkeys" by residents of Sofia.

Later other African students left their studies in the Soviet Union. An Ethiopian veterinary left Brno, Czechoslovakia, because of alleged inferior schooling and political indoctrination.

Trial TV Ruled Out

DALLAS (UPI)—State District Judge Joe B. Brown announced today that no television cameras, no radio recording equipment and no still cameras will be permitted in his courtroom during the trial of Jack Ruby.

Ruby is charged with murdering Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

Brown's statement ended the possibility that the trial might go on coast-to-coast live television.

Ruby's murder trial is set for Feb. 3.

Fire Ruins Paintings

DETROIT (UPI) — Thirty-five Picasso paintings went up in flames Wednesday night in a downtown fire which caused an estimated $500,000 damage.

The paintings by the famed 82-year-old Spanish artist, Pablo Picasso, were being shown in the Arwin Gallery on the second floor of the Robinson Furniture Co. building. Damage to the furniture store was estimated at $100,000.

Lester B. Arwin, owner of the Arwin Gallery, said the ruined Picassos included "Man in Front of a Cabin," valued at $36,000, and "Picador," valued at $9,500.

Arwin said the gallery, built by Robinson Furniture three months ago for $20,000, is fully insured.

The Picasso exhibit came from New York and was to be shown here until Jan. 4.
