

DKG Meets At Pelican

The Christmas theme was cleverly carried out in the Pelican Party Room for the luncheon meeting of Alpha Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma, international honor society for women teachers, on Dec. 7.

Boughs and sprigs of cedar and pine accented by pine cones and red tapers enhanced the tables and appointments throughout the room. Credit for the festive decorations goes to Mrs. Juliette Robinette, Mrs. Veva Watkins, Louise Mitchell.

Mrs. Wilma Proebstel, Mrs. Mary Whiting, Mrs. Ida Edsall, Dorothy Baile and Mrs. Lillian Brandt.

President Mrs. Dorothy Adams opened the meeting and asked for introduction of guests who were Mrs. C. Clark, mother of Mrs. Jane Craig; Edna Bloom, guest of Mabel Humble, and Mrs. Marjorie Howe's sister, Mrs. Harold Dehlinger, who was introduced by Mrs. Martha McLaughlin.

The musical portion of the program was presented by the boys' octet from the seventh grade at Mills School, directed by Mrs. Jane Craig.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Carol (Marjorie) Howe, who told of her impressions and experiences as a legislator's wife. She also told of women in the Senate and House of Representatives.

Alpha Chapter's next meeting will be Jan. 11 in the Pelican Party Room.

OBSERVE DATE — Sixty years of marriage was observed Dec. 14 by Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Highley, residents of Klamath Falls since 1925. They are pictured with an anniversary cake, gift of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gooing.

Local Pair Wed 60 Years

Sixty years ago on Dec. 14, 1903, Jessie May Sell became the bride of Walter T. Highley in Loup City, Neb. This year on that date, Saturday, Dec. 14, they were honored at a family dinner at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Davenport, 212 North Second Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Highley have lived in Klamath Falls since 1925. He was employed in the lumber business until his retirement in 1947.

They are parents of one daughter and three sons. Two sons were present for the anniversary dinner, Virgil Highley of Burney and E. C. Highley, this city, and their wives. Mr. and Mrs. Ted G. Highley of Sonora, Calif., were unable to be present. Also absent from the festivities was a grandson, J. R. Davenport of Reno.

The Highley's have 10 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Also present for the dinner party were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Webb of Oakdale, Calif., Mrs. F. C. Adams, Mrs. Ruth Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. William Davenport and family and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gooing.

Mr. and Mrs. Highley received many congratulatory messages from members of the Royal Neighbors with which Mrs. Highley is affiliated and the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

HENLEY CLUB MEETS

The Henley faculty wives and women teachers, a new organization formed this year, met Dec. 4 at Henley High School. An interesting program was presented by Laura's Beauty Fair. Hostesses were Mrs. Margaret Hayden, Mrs. Virginia Davis, Mrs. Marie Hale and Mrs. Laura French.

The next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 15.

ANNUAL MEETING — On Nov. 26 at Kingfalls Restaurant the Klamath Falls District and South Klamath Falls District committees of Camp Fire Girls held the annual meeting. Speaker was Gwen Harper, center, director of Region VI, who was making her official visit to the Klamath Council of Camp Fire Girls. Presiding at the meeting was Mrs. Henry Kerr, right, chairman of South Klamath Falls District. Mrs. Lawrence Slater, left, was installing officer for new district officers.

Tips To Remove Yuletide Stains

By KAY SHERWOOD Women's Editor Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Along with the holiday joys goes the not-so-convivial aftermath of cleaning up.

Although the best advice from home economists is to treat stains promptly, some nights I'm just too weary to bother. It does help, though, to have remedies on hand.

A new trick to me but an old one to a friend of mine helps keep wine stains from setting. When someone spills wine, invite them to douse the stain thoroughly with plain salt. I don't know the chemical explanation, but this treatment does seem to prevent the stains from setting and, when I tried it, they washed right out of the cloth.

Lipstick stains on napkins or guest towels may or may not wash out. One handy aid in an emergency is petroleum jelly. Squeeze a bit on the stain and let it soften before laundering. If soft drinks have been spilled, sponge with cool water or equal parts of alcohol and water, then rub petroleum jelly over the spot. Let it stand for at least half hour (or longer), rinse and launder as usual.

Hot water and soap will remove most food stains. But, if I find an unusually greasy spot, I spot-clean it first with a cleaning solvent. Incidentally, a good cleaning solvent which I use for all kinds of oily or greasy stains is one made by a national professional rug-cleaning service.

Delicate stemware is usually washed by hand, in our house.

If a liqueur has dried in the bottom of a tiny glass, soak in warm and soapy water, then swab with a cotton-tipped swab. Swabs are also effective in reaching stains in cut glass-ware and silver.
