

GIFTS OF THE MAGI

There lay the combs—pure tortoise shell, with jeweled rims—just that shade to her in the beautiful vanished hair! Now they were hers, but the tresses they were to have adorned were gone.

No Christmas Dinner For 18 'Guinea Pigs'

VACAVILLE, Calif. (UPI)—For 18 men at the California Medical Facility, Christmas dinner will be a drink of "smelly, foul-tasting" brandy-flavored liquid. It's all in the interests of science. The 18 men are participating in a six-month test of a pure liquid diet, comprised of chemicals and water, as a study of the diet's future in space travel. They have been on the food wagon since Sept. 3, drinking four meals a day from a flask containing 48 chemicals. They are convicts selected from the inmates of Vacaville Prison. How are they doing? "I'm constantly thinking about food," said Jerry Lewis, a former automobile mechanic. "Chemically we all live well but you'll never replace that good old steak." "I dream about food all the time," said another prisoner. "We have pictures of food for our pinups—not glamour girls."

TWO OF A KIND—Jerry Colonna and friend sound off before boarding plane at Burbank, Calif., for Mediterranean and Middle East to entertain servicemen during the Christmas season. Comedian Bob Hope, who heads the tour, every year, missed the jet Friday on last minute advice from his doctor. A spokesman for Hope said "Bob was all packed to go when his physician suggested he rest two more days." Plans called for Hope to catch up with the troupe late Sunday.

Rate Study
OLYMPIA (UPI)—The State Department of Conservation Thursday published a report showing that customers of public and cooperative utilities paid almost half a cent less for every kilowatt hour of electricity in 1962 than did customers of private utilities. The agency said public utility customers, in effect, realized a saving of $60.5 million during the year. Figures showed that public utility customers paid an average cost of 827 cent for every kilowatt hour of electricity compared with 1,249 cents paid by customers of private utilities. Municipal utilities, cooperatives, mutuals, and public utility districts were figured in for the average rate for public utility customers. Sales of electricity generated $18,759,245 in revenue to public agencies and $14,332,347 for private agencies. Consumption of electricity during the period increased 9.8 per cent over the previous year, the report said.

Rubber Bands May Be Small In Size But They Rate As Big Business In U.S.

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Rubber bands may be small—but they are big business. Item: Last year more than 16 billion rubber bands were produced in the United States. That's nearly 90 rubber bands for each person in this country. Item: To produce this mountain of bands, more than 15 million pounds of rubber were used. The big reason behind the spiraling sales of rubber bands is that they no longer are limited to office use. Today they have a thousand-and-one uses in homes and schools, in industry and agriculture. For instance, "turkey bands" are employed by processors to hold turkey legs tightly so the birds will be compact and easy to handle on the packing line. A king-sized version of the small rubber band has been developed for industry as an effective way of holding lightweight cartons together. One unique use is found in the lobster industry. So that lobsters selected for market can be handled safely (and not claw their neighbors), strong rubber bands are snapped over their pinners. Colorful bands are used by growers to hold celery, asparagus and other vegetables in neat units; tiny circular bands are employed by orthodontists to hold braces in place; colored bands are used widely by electronics manufacturers to hold parts and sub-assemblies together; freezer bands are used by housewives to fasten frozen food storage bags and containers; special bands are used by toy makers to propel airplanes and other toys; bands are wrapped around newspapers to make home deliveries easier, and garment and shoe manufacturers use them to keep cut-out parts secure until they are ready to be used. For many years rubber band manufacturers used natural rubber exclusively in the production of bands. Now a new synthetic rubber made from isoprene, a petroleum derivative, is getting a growing share of the market. This revolutionary rubber, which has the same molecular configuration as natural rubber, has certain advantages over natural rubber, according to the Goodyear Chemical division, which produces polyisoprene rubber called "Natsyn." "This synthetic rubber requires less mixing time than natural, and it extrudes faster," said Robert E. Workman, general manager of Goodyear Chemical.

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Prof. Nathan Divinsky of the University of British Columbia is an enthusiast for both chess and bridge. We have corresponded for a couple of years on the mathematical aspects of bridge. Recently Dr. Divinsky sent me a hand which illustrates a rather unusual end play. The contract was a proaic two hearts and Dr. Divinsky managed to make an overtrick which meant quite a lot because the game was duplicate. West started proceedings for the defense by playing king, ace and another spade. Dummy's queen held the third trick whereupon the Professor cashed the king of hearts and came to his own hand with the ace. A club lead was won by dummy's king and East was thrown in the lead with a heart. East made his best play of a diamond and the jack, king and ace were played. A trump lead from dummy forced West to make his third discard. He had already jettisoned a club and a diamond and now he discarded his last low club. He still held the 13th spade as an out card, but Dr. D. took care of that by playing his own last trump. West could not afford to unguard the ten of diamonds or throw the ace of clubs so that spade had to go. Now the end play was ready. A club lead put West in and he had to lead away from his ten of diamonds.

POLLY'S POINTERS Alcohol Cleans

DEAR POLLY—After wiping off my refrigerator and washer, I shine them with rubbing alcohol. I also use it to shine chrome table legs, mirrors and bathroom fixtures. Rubbing alcohol will also remove "spit-up" stains from baby's clothing. Four same on the stain and wash as usual. I cut my worn, rag throw rugs into squares a little larger than my hand to use for dusting, floor waxing, scouring sink and bathtub and wiping up spills. They can be laundered and last longer than a sponge. —MRS. B. J. B. GIRLS—I don't have a baby who spits up, but I do have appliances which looked better after an alcohol rub.—POLLY DEAR POLLY—To make simple, inexpensive decorations for your Christmas tree, save the metal strips cut away when coffee and shortening cans are opened with a key. Slowly twist the metal in the opposite direction as to unwind, pulling down slightly as you do so. Be careful not to cut your fingers. Polly. Leave the key on to hang it by. You have a silver icicle curl or you spray it another color if you prefer. Spools that adhesive tape comes on may also be dipped or sprayed with paint. The spool and its outside band can either be left together or separated and small decorations glued to the center. A cord for hanging may be attached by closing the band over cord placed across the edge of the spool. The spools make nice candle holders, too. Dispensers for plastic gummed tape can be made into sleds to use with reindeer made from pipe cleaners.—MRS. L. B. DEAR POLLY—To keep children's mittens handy, take a length of heavy cord and tie clip clothespins to it, about six or eight inches apart. Make a loop at the top and hang cord on a hook. Hang wet mittens on the bottom clips. They dry quickly and a pair may be hung on each clothespin. This has been a blessing for me with three small children who have two or three pairs apiece. To remove chocolate stains from children's clothing, soak the spot thoroughly with club soda before washing and rub as you would any spot. This really works.—MRS. W. F. B. GIRLS—It really does. I tried it on two coils of cotton and also on green corduroy. Spots came out and the colors were not affected—but be safe and always test first.—POLLY DEAR POLLY—If you squeeze too much liquid such as baby lotion, out of a plastic bottle with a small opening, hold the bottle upright and squeeze it. Put the opening into the lotion in your hand or wherever the extra is and then release the bottle. The excess lotion will be sucked back in. —MRS. E. K. DEAR POLLY—Did you know that you can remove many streaks from light-colored dresses with an eraser? I have used a regular pencil eraser but soft art gum erasers are best. This has been a boon to me ever since I was all dressed in a light beige dress and the dog jumped up. With no time to change, I grabbed a pencil and erased the paw marks. —HAZEL

Sometimes it's a strange combination of the old and the new which complicates or complements the happiness in our lives. Christmas greetings from a student in a foreign country, who graduated from Oregon Tech last year, indicates that to the modern education which he selected for his repertoire has been added a wife selected, according to ancient custom, by his parents. We doubt that there is any reason for apprehension that the combination of the modern and the ancient will not contribute to both personal happiness and occupational success in that not-so-far-advanced land across the ocean. Medical Technology students were offered the opportunity to learn the latest techniques for blood typing, crossmatching of blood, Rh determination and irregular antibody identification at a special workshop on Dec. 12 according to Professor William R. Bradford of the Med Tech faculty. Jack Cassoria, a blood bank specialist with the Knickerbocker Division of Chas. Pfizer & Co., conducted the one-day workshop in the Med Tech building on campus. The tests, Bradford said, are particularly important in preventing transfusion reactions and in following maternal sensitization in Rh negative pregnant women. The Pfizer Co. supplied all of the reagents, test kits and a cell panel which were valued at approximately $500 and donated what was not used to the school. Counsellor Don Theriault's Explorers involved in campus programs held a dance last night in the Student Union ballroom. All of the Explorers in the Modoc Council and their guests were invited to the affair.

'Wigwams' On Way Out

PORTLAND (UPI)—The Oregon State Sanitary Authority has begun a crackdown on "wigwam burners" used to get rid of waste at lumber mills. The authority decided at a meeting Thursday to refuse approval for any proposed new burners after Jan. 1, 1965. It also instructed its staff to prepare regulations for an orderly phasing out of the burners throughout the state. Staff members estimated that there are more than 225 of the burners at small and medium-sized mills in Oregon. They said the burners are contributing to air pollution problems. In another action, United Growers of Salem was ordered to stop polluting Pringle Creek with cannery waste. Phillips Bros. Farm in Marion County was ordered to stop polluting Little Pudding River with silage waste. POSTMASTER OPERATES WASHINGTON (UPI)—"Hi, I'm Jack Gronouski," said the smiling man as he shook hands with startled mail sorters Friday in Washington's main post office. "Who's he?" asked one worker as the man passed on down the line of clerks. "The postmaster general," a co-worker replied. Officials said the postmaster general toured the post office to observe mail operations one of the busiest days of the year.

End Play Pays Off

Prof. Nathan Divinsky of the University of British Columbia is an enthusiast for both chess and bridge. We have corresponded for a couple of years on the mathematical aspects of bridge. Recently Dr. Divinsky sent me a hand which illustrates a rather unusual end play. The contract was a proaic two hearts and Dr. Divinsky managed to make an overtrick which meant quite a lot because the game was duplicate. West started proceedings for the defense by playing king, ace and another spade. Dummy's queen held the third trick whereupon the Professor cashed the king of hearts and came to his own hand with the ace. A trump lead from dummy forced West to make his third discard. He had already jettisoned a club and a diamond and now he discarded his last low club. He still held the 13th spade as an out card, but Dr. D. took care of that by playing his own last trump. West could not afford to unguard the ten of diamonds or throw the ace of clubs so that spade had to go. Now the end play was ready. A club lead put West in and he had to lead away from his ten of diamonds.
