12 - Be Nice

THE COURTEOUS young lady lets the bowler on the right, who has started his delivery, have the right of way.

By JUDY AUDSLEY

Written for NEA

The strict rules of bowling are not numerous. About all you have to do is stay behind the foul line and you're technically correct. However, a thing called etiquette, which might be translated common courtesy, is very important to the enjoyment of the sport.

The unwritten rules are simple. If the man on your right has started to bowl, let him finish his delivery before you begin your approach. It is all very well to use body English, but confine it to your own lane don't distract others with it.

Stay on the bench until it is your turn to bowl. Nothing is so disturbing as a waiting player who bounces all over the place. Control your temper and your language and don't offer advice to other players unless they ask for it.

Above all, be gracious. Don't alibi or sulk if you lose and don't gloat when you win.

Bowling etiquette actually boils down to a sportsmanlike version of the Golden Rule. Do unto others as you would have them do unto you, and you will be a model of good deportment on the lanes.

Yank Netters Near Davis Cup Triumph

ADELAIDE, Australia (UPI) —Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston out-dueled Australia's Roy Emerson and Neale Fraser, 6-3, 4-6, 11-9, 11-9, in the 100-degree temperature of Memorial Drive Stadium today to bring the United States to within one victory of its first Davis Cup tennis triumph since 1958.

Rising to the peak of their games before a capacity crowd of 7,000, the aggressive young Yanks concentrated on the competitive staleness of Fraser to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five challenge round.

The United States will win the Davis Cup which Australia has possessed for the last four years and for 11 of the last 13 years by winning either of Saturday's singles matches. Ralston is slated to meet Emerson in one match while McKinley will play 19-year old John Newcombe in the other match.

Yanks Heavy Favorite

The crucial doubles victory—which makes the United States a heavy favorite to win the cup —followed the opening singles matches in which Ralston defeated Newcombe, 6-4, 6-1, 3-6, 4-6, 7-5, and Emerson beat McKinley, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, 7-5.

McKinley and Ralston attained their grueling doubles triumph with an all-out aggressive attack on Fraser. The one-time southpaw ace of Australia retired from competitive tennis last year and only returned to heavy training several weeks ago at the urgent request of Australian captain Harry Hopman.

U.S. captain Bob Kelleher's strategy was to put intense pressure on Fraser in the belief that he would have to wilt sooner or later—and that strategy turned out to be correct. Fraser started slowly. . .seemed to grow stronger. . .and then let his game fall apart.

Plays Heart Out

In the end, Emerson was playing his heart out with some of the finest tennis of his career but could not overcome the weak returns and netted volleys of his teammate.

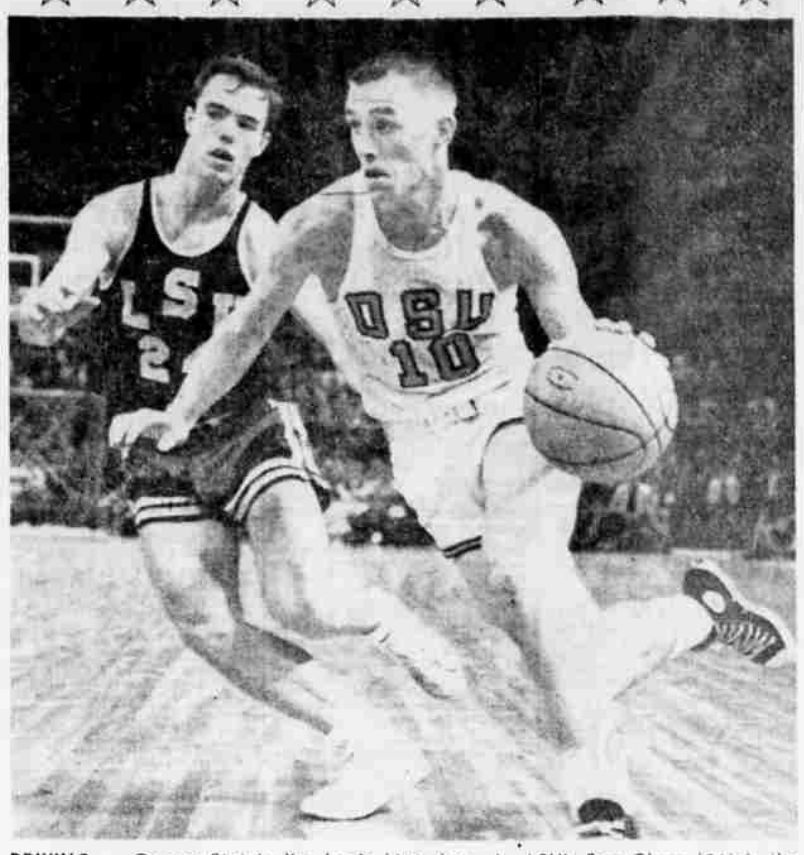
The hour-long third set was the key to the match.

The set began with both teams maneuvering for power at the net and with the Yanks exerting strong pressure on Fraser. The 30-year-old southpaw seemed to grow stronger midway in the set but then faltered noticeably and he suffered a break in service in the 20th game. The Yanks won the set when Fraser netted a high lob by McKinley.

SMU Starts Work Again

DALLAS (UPI) —The Southern Methodist Mustangs returned to practice Thursday after a short Christmas holiday minus six members of the team who were held up because of traffic difficulties.

The team worked out or 47 minutes in sweat clothes, practicing fundamentals for their encounter with Oregon in the Sun Bowl, Dec. 31.



DRIVING — Oregon State's Jim Jarvis (10) drives by LSU's Sam Chase (24) in the first game for both teams in the 8th annual Far West Classic in Portland Thursday night. The Beavers posted their first win in defense of the tournament title they have won seven consecutive years as seven-foot Mel Counts hit for 48 points.

Defending Champ Beavers Belt LSU; Mel Hits 48

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State has never lost a Far West Classic basketball game, and as long as Mel Counts is available the Beavers appear safe.

Counts scored 48 points Thursday night as he personally demolished Louisiana State 87-57 in a first-round game. It put the Beavers into the semifinals of this eight-team tournament Saturday night against Colorado State, which beat Iowa 61-56 in the first game Thursday night.

More action is scheduled in the opening round tonight with Seattle University playing Brigham Young and Oregon taking on Washington State.

Oregon State, ranked seventh in the nation, has won 19 straight Far West Classic games and has taken every title since the tournament was started in 1956.

Counts, a seven-foot senior center, wiped out tournament, modern school, and all-time Oregon State scoring records with his outburst.

For the first 25 minutes, the only other players who scored for the Beavers were Jim Jarvis and Frank Peters, who finished with 13 and 17 points respectively.

The big boy from Coos Bay, Ore., hit 15 of 26 field goal attempts and 18 of 23 from the foul line and grabbed 21 rebounds. His 48 points broke the Classic record of 36 set by Dave Gunther of Iowa in 1958, as well as his own modern Oregon State record of 42 set last weekend against Indiana and the all-time Beaver mark of 47 chalked by Nollie Reed back in 1907.

Colorado State had the night's first game in hand most of the way, but it almost got away in the closing five minutes. The Rams rolled to a 44-31 halftime lead, but Iowa closed the margin to 55-50 with three minutes to play.

Only two layins by Gary Anderson kept Colorado State out of trouble. Sonny Bustion led the Rams with 23 points and Anderson had 15. Dave Roach scored 16 and Jimmie Rodger 15 for Iowa.

Sub Has His Night In Madison Square Fray

NEW YORK (UPI) — What happened to Villanova's Bill Melchionni in Madison Square Garden Thursday is just the thing every kid dreams about and what every fan hopes he'll eventually see.

A sophomore, Melchionni figured he would spend most of the afternoon on the bench watching the opening round Holiday Festival game between Dayton and Villanova. But it didn't turn out that way and that's the reason Villanova (7-1) will play Utah (9-0) in one of the semifinal games Saturday night.

With George Leftwich, one of Villanova's starting guards, having an off day, coach Jack Kraft substituted Melchionni early. When it was all over Villanova was on top, and the youngster had 23 points in his first Garden appearance before 15,451.

"I really didn't think I'd get in so soon," Melchionni said. "I haven't been doing that well lately."

It was the kind of game which would have been a great final, but now the Flyers (7-1) will have to play St. John's (2-5), a 73-66 loser to Utah, in the consolation bracket Saturday afternoon.

The other semifinal game will be between Minnesota (6-2) and St. Joseph's (5-3). Minnesota beat Cornell (4-3), 89-77, and St. Joseph's defeated Providence, 60-53. Cornell and Providence (4-3) will meet in the consolations.

Gator Bowl Teams Tune For Contest

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —The Air Force Academy and the University of North Carolina went through final tune-ups today on the eve of their clash in the 19th annual Gator Bowl.

The Carolina Tar Heels, a slim two-point favorite, went to nearby St. Augustine to work on defenses aimed at stopping quarterback Terry Isaacson whose running and passing accounted for half of the Air Force's offense during a 7-3 season.

The Falcons flew into the Naval air station here Thursday afternoon after a morning workout in Orlando, Fla., where they spent Christmas.

The rival coaches for Saturday's Gator Bowl game are old rivals even though their present teams have never met.

Air Force Coach Ben Martin used to be at the helm of the Virginia Cavaliers who are one of the oldest rivals on the schedule of coach Jim Hickey's Tar Heels.

Hickey has been putting his players through their paces here for several hours a day.

"One of our biggest worries," he said, "is the fact that the Air Force makes defensive changes on almost every play.

"We'll be facing more defensive changes than in any other game this year," Hickey said. "They do a lot of switching on offense too."

PATRIOTS SIGN PEDRO

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Patriots Thursday signed their 13th round draft choice, Pete Pedro, a halfback from West Texas State College.

The Archers' Corner

By Norman Singleton

Since there doesn't seem to be too much activity in archery during this holiday season, perhaps it's time to write about archery in general.

If any of you are interested in some reading on archery, here are a few books on the subject: Hunting with the Bow and Arrow by Dr. Saxton Pope: The Witchery of Archery by J. Maurice Thompson and the Archer's Craft by Adrian Eliot Hodgkin. These books should especially interest the hunting archer and are all available at the city library.

In last week's column I forgot to mention Leroy Schoenthaler, who was also on last week's rabbit hunt.

Last week the Klamath Archers held their annual elections, with Bob Rhoades elected president; Edgar Sample, vice president; Karen Fields, secretary-treasurer; Dale Baxter, field governor, and myself as publicity and news.

If any of you received archery equipment for Christmas and would like to get in a little practice, an indoor range is available at the Twyla Ferguson School gymnasium. The next scheduled nights are Jan. 6 and Jan. 8. If you would like a little instruction, I'm sure there will be someone there who would help you.

Here is the league shooting schedule I promised last week:

Jan. 8—Joes Sporting Goods vs. Don Divens; The Sherwoods vs. Walt's Boats and Motors; J. W. Kerns vs. Farmers Lumber Company; First Federal vs. Signal Oil.

Jan. 15—Joe's Sporting Goods vs. Walt's Boats and Motors; J. W. Kerns vs. Don Divens; First Federal vs. The Sherwoods; Signal Oil vs. Farmers Lumber Company.

Jan. 22—Joe's Sporting Goods vs. J. W. Kerns; First Federal vs. Walt's Boats and Motors; Signal Oil vs. Don Divens; Farmers Lumber Co. vs. The Sherwoods.

Jan. 29—Joe's Sporting Goods vs. First Federal; Signal Oil vs. J. W. Kerns; Farmers Lumber Co. vs. Walt's Boats and Motors; The Shrewoods vs. Don Divens.

Feb. 1—Joe's Sporting Goods vs. Signal Oil; Farmers Lumber Company vs. First Federal; The Sherwoods vs. J. W. Kerns; Don Divens vs. Walt's Boats and Motors.

If you are looking for game to hunt, I tried something this past weekend that was new to me. How many of you have tried hunting Homodontomys or the wood rat as it is more commonly known.

I imagine most of you at one time or another have seen large piles of sticks and rubble lying in a heap in the woods. These piles are the home of a small furry rodent which is native to most of the United States. Scientists have listed 28 species and 50 sub-species.

The one which is common to this area is the dusky - footed wood rat. You will find his home either at the base of tree or in the tree.

He lives mostly on organic materials such as oak, deer brush, Oregon myrtle, Douglas fir, crab apple fruit, Christmas berry (Photina), mountain mahogany, honeysuckle, rose, dewberry, cottonwood, madrone, manzanita, kidneywort, hazel, elder, willow, poison oak, buckthorn, currant, snowberry, vetch and monkey flower.

For centuries the Indians, particularly those of the Southwest, have depended on wood rats for appetizing, nourishing meat. They are sold on the open market in Mexico and is considered by many to be superior to rabbit or chicken.

So if any of you archers would like something new in the way of meat here is an unusual type. If any of you try this be sure to let me know how it is.

A parting note: If anyone knows of any unusual or scarce game which can be hunted with a bow, perhaps others would like to know. Let me know and it will be passed along.

Huskies In Slow Work

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —Coach Jim Owens said Thursday his Washington team "looked sluggish" after the Christmas practice layoff.

Owens made one major lineup change for the Rose Bowl encounter with Illinois on Jan. 1, moving Jim Lambright from fourth string to first string end, replacing Robbie Heinz. The other end is Al Lihke.

The practice session Thursday stressed passing and pass defense. There was much hard contact work at Veterans Stadium, but no formal scrimmage.

Injured Junior Coffey downed a sweatshirt and regular practice pants, but wore no pads. Coffey did not do any running.

"We just wanted him to get the feel of the shoe a bit," Owens said.

The fullback was fitted with a specially built shoe to support the tiny fracture near the little toe of his left foot. Coffey's latest foot injury occurred last Saturday during practice.

Red Auerbach, the basketball coach who has everything leaned back on the Boston Celtics' bench and lit a 50-cent cigar.

It was the signal that the Celtics' 24th victory in 28 National Basketball Association games this season was safely tucked away.

Auerbach smokes a "victory cigar" after every Celtic triumph but Thursday night he lit up five minutes before the final buzzer of Boston's 126-110 win over the Los Angeles Lakers. The Lakers had narrowed their deficit to 12 points in the third period but then K. C. Jones scored four straight field goals to zoom the Celtics into a 91-73 lead.

Bill Russell, returning to action after missing two games with a pulled hamstring muscle, captured 20 rebounds and was one of eight Boston players who scored in double figures. Elgin Baylor had 19 points and Jerry West had 22 for the Lakers.

The Philadelphia 76ers beat the San Francisco Warriors, 118-112, the Baltimore Bullets defeated the Detroit Pistons, 110-103, and the New York Knickerbockers downed the St. Louis Hawks, 111-107.

The 76ers overcame a 40-point performance by Wilt Chamberlain with a three-point play by Larry Costello clinching the victory. Chet Walker scored 30 points for the 76ers.

Don Ohl scored 27 points and Bailey Howell had 20 for the Pistons, but 26 points by Walt Bellamy and 22 each by Kevin Loughery and Terry Dischinger carried the Bullets to their 11th win in 32 games.

Al Butler scored with 17 seconds left and Johnny Egan added two free throws for the Knicks, who played without injured Tom Gola. Len Chappell had 24 points for the Knicks and Cliff Hagan had 32 for the Hawks.

Challenger Misses Date

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cassius Clay, the poetic pugilist, was scheduled to take a pre-induction physical examination at the U. S. Army Induction Center here at 7 a.m., EST, today. He never showed up.

The glib heavyweight contender was in the balmy climes of Florida, it developed, but not illegally. At about 10 a.m., impatient Army officials here were informed that Clay had arranged to have his papers transferred from New York to Florida.

"He now belongs to Florida," an Army official said. "New York will never see him."

Clay, 21, a prime physical specimen, is scheduled to fight heavyweight champion Sonny Liston in Miami on Feb. 25. Liston has implied that Clay's physical condition will deteriorate during the bout.

Clay has requested deferment of his induction until after the fight.

RECORD GOLF ENTRIES

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A record 412 golfers have entered the $55,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament which begins the PGA winter tour next Thursday at Rancho Park.

Track Show Offers Top Names Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The big names of track and field get their initial test of the winter indoor season tonight when they toe the mark in the Examiner Holiday Invitational Meet at the San Francisco Cow Palace.

At least 30 of the competitors are expected to make the U.S. Olympic team next summer for the games in Japan.

The top entries include:

440 — Ulis Williams, Arizona State; Adolph Plummer, New Mexico.

880—Jim Dupree, Southern Illinois; Jim McGrath, Wisconsin; Sig Ohleman, Emerald Empire Athletic Association; Willie Atterberry, unattached.

Mile—Keith Forman, Oregon; Ernie Culiffe, USAF.

Mile Steeplechase — George Young, formerly of Arizona; Jeff Fishback, Santa Clara Valley Youth Village; Hylke van der Wal, Canada; Chris Miller, Lewis & Clark.

Two mile—Bruce Kidd, Canada; Charley Clark, Southern California Striders.

60-yard hurdles—Blaine Lindgren, formerly of Utah; Hayes Jones, Detroit; Ralph Boston, Tennessee.

High jump — John Thomas, Boston; Joe Faust, ex-USC.

Pole Vault — C. K. Yang, UCLA; Ron Morris, Striders; John Rose, Arizona State; Don Meyers, Colorado; John Cramer, Washington.

Broad jump—Boston; Darrell Horn, USAF; Phil Shinnick, Washington; Ranier Stenius, Finland.

Shot put—Parry O'Brien, Pasadena A. A.; Mike Baggett, California; Jay Silvester, former Utah State.

A crowd of about 13,000 is expected to jam the Cow Palace for the competition.

The pole vault cast is expected to make a shambles of the 16 feet, 3½ inch national indoor record now held by Brian Sternberg of Washington.

And there could be a pretty good assault, too, on the 880-yard mark of 1:49.9 held by Peter Snell of Australia.

Herb Carper of Santa Barbara is on hand to defend his world mark of 6.0 in the 60-yard dash.

TOP TEN STORIES . . .

Oregon State NCAA Competition Rated Best Sports Yarn Of 1963

PORTLAND (UPI) — Oregon State's advance to the semifinals of the NCAA basketball playoffs was the state's top sports story in 1963, according to a poll of sports editors.

The Beaver bid, which fell short when Slats Gill's men were trounced twice, won by nearly a two to one margin over the runnerup story—Portland's bid for the Olympics and the proposed Delta Park complex.

Other balloting was close among a wide variety of stories with more than 30 getting votes.

Here's how the sports editors saw the top 10:

1. OSU reaches NCAA semifinals.
2. Portland's Olympic bid and proposed Delta Park development.
3. Lewis and Clark's unbeaten football season.
4. Honors given Vern Burke, Oregon State end.
5. Steve Pauly of Oregon State wins NCAA decathlon.
6. Injuries to Mel Renfro and Bob Berry and Oregon's upset by San Jose State.
7. Oregon lands future major sports events.
8. Peter Ward's fine rookie year with the Chicago White Sox.
9. Oregon prep wrestlers tour Japan.
10. Terry Baker.

Mel Counts and Baker led Oregon State to a fine basketball season but the Beavers were no match for Cincinnati in the first game of the NCAA semifinals at Lousiville, Ky. At year's end, another find OSU team, led by Counts, was making itself heard among national powers.

Portland lost out to Detroit as the U.S. choice for the 1968 host Olympic city, but that city in turn lost the bid to Mexico City. Portland now is pointing toward 1972 when it hopes facilities will be available in the Delta Park area of north Portland.

Lewis and Clark went unbeaten in eight football games and attracted more attention when it was passed over by the NAIA for a playoff berth.

Vern Burke made the UPI all-America football team as well as several others and was also given the Pop Warner trophy as the most valuable senior football player on the West Coast and the Voit award as the outstanding player on the coast.

Steve Pauly, who also was a key member of that Oregon State basketball team, won the national decathlon at Corvallis. The great C. K. Yang of Nationalist China and UCLA did not compete.

Oregon was upset 13-7 by San Jose with Renfro and Berry riding the bench from injuries suffered in the great game with Washington a week before. The Ducks came back from that to win three straight and get a Sun Bowl bid. The bowl bid ranked just out of the top 10.

Events Coming

The state came in for more national attention when Eugene was picked for the 1965 NCAA track and field meet and Portland for the 1965 NCAA basketball championships. Portland also got the 1964 NCAA Western Indoor track championships and the 1965 Women's International Bowling Congress tournament and convention. The 1964 Western Regional hoop playoffs went to Corvallis.

Peter Ward, a onetime Lewis and Clark athlete, finished as runnerup for the outstanding rookie of the year in the American League as he held down third base and hit .295 for the White Sox.

A high school group of wrestlers toured Japan during the summer and scored a flock of victories give more prestige to the state.

Baker signed a fat pro contract with the Los Angeles Rams after the basketball season, then rode the bench nearly all year. But he led the Rams to an exhibition victory in Portland...and won the Hayward award as the state's top athlete of the previous year.
