Beavers Relay Team Edged; New Prep Two-Mile Standard Posted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Scholarly-looking Bill Crothers and square-shouldered Bruce Kidd, Canada's one-two punch in the coming Olympics, already had the winter track circuits blazing Saturday.

Crothers broke the American indoor record for the 880-yard run at the Examiner Holiday Invitational Meet Friday night by winning the event in 1:50.2. This was a tenth of a second faster than Arnie Sowell's mark, which had stood up since 1957.

An hour later, Crothers turned in a 1:34.9 anchor lap to insure his East York Club of Toronto the two-mile relay win over mighty Oregon State. The Canadian team was clocked in 7:48.3 to Oregon State's 7:49.6.

Kidd, who was named Canada's athlete of 1963, took a commanding lead with 15 laps to go and easily won the two-mile run in 8:54. Apparently tireless, Kidd even stepped up the pace during the late stages in an assault on the local mark of 8:45.8 set last February by Charlie Clark.

Lindgren Breaks Record... But much of the spotlight belonged to Gerry Lindgren, a 17-year-old high schooler from Spokane, Wash., who was the night's outstanding athlete for winning the prep two-mile run in an incredible 9:00 timing.

The smasher was 23.5 seconds better than the recognized national high school mark set indoors this year by New York's Jim McDermott.

"I came here just to run to win but when I heard the crowd hollering and all that stuff, I went all out," Lindgren said over the public address to a turnout of 12,117 at the Cow Palace.

Keith Forman was the top Oregon performer in the meet. He won the mile in 4:09.8, bursting ahead of Southern California's Julio Marin at the start of the last lap. Ernie Cunliffe, formerly of Stanford and now running for the Emerald Empire Athletic Association, was a third.

Oregon high jumper Paul Stuber finished second to John Thomas at 6-11, but Terry Lewellyn went out after clearing 6-8 and took fourth place.

Former Webfoot half-miler Sig Ohlemann finished third in the 800 behind Crothers and Jim Dupree.

Beaver's Fourth... Fourth place generally was the role for Oregon State Athletics. Lynn Eves came home fourth in the quarter mile behind winner Ellis Williams. Williams had a clocking 50.5 to 51.8 for Eves.

Tom Wyatt also finished fourth in the 60-yard high hurdles with a clocking of 7.4 as Hayes Jones stopped the watches at 7.2 and won his 41st straight indoor hurdles test.

Steve Pauly, Oregon State's national decathlon champion finished fourth in a special pentathlon event with 3,882 points. Ralph Boston won it with 4,173. Pauly's best showing was in the shot put that he won with a 44 1/2 inch heave.

Darrell Horn, now assigned to Kelly Air Force Base in Texas, placed third in the broad jump. He leaped 24 feet 11 inches. Phil Shinnick of Washington captured the event by sailing 28 feet 6 1/2 inches.

Patriots Eastern Toga Winner In AFL Finale

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Babe Parilli threw two touchdown passes and league scoring champion Gino Cappelletti kicked four field goals and two conversions Saturday to give the Buffalo Bills a 28-8 triumph over the Eastern Patriots for the Eastern Division title in the American Football League.

With Parilli hitting fullback Larry Garrison with both scoring passes, the Patriots completely dominated the game, the first division playoff in the AFL's four-year history. In a snow-covered War Memorial Stadium before a crowd of 33,044.

Boston will meet the Western Division champion Chargers in San Diego, Jan. 5, for the AFL crown.

Parilli redeemed himself after a disappointing regular season by his touchdown passes of 59 and 17 yards to Garrison while Boston's top-ranked defense held Buffalo to just seven yards rushing.

Bills quarterback Jack Kemp and rookie Daryle Lamonica both were treated roughly. Kemp left late in the first half with the Bills trailing, 16-0, and Lamonica, the former Notre Dame star, didn't have much luck until he fired a 93-yard scoring pass to Elbert Dubenion with 1:31 left in the third period to avert a shutout.

Lamonica hit John Tracey with a two-point conversion pass.

Parilli's 17-yarder to Garrison and Cappelletti's last field goal, from 36 yards, wound up the scoring in the final quarter. Parilli completed 14 of 35 passes for 292 yards.

Boston's fierce defense pulled off four interceptions and grabbed two fumbles.

The Patriots stormed to a 16-0 halftime lead on field goals of 28, 12 and 33 yards by Cappelletti and the 59-yarder to Garrison The Patriots set the tone of the game in the opening seconds when Billy Lott recovered Dubenion's fumble on the Buffalo 33.

Halfback Ron Burton of Boston, who hadn't played a minute this year because of a pre-season injury Aug. 4, burst up the middle for 14 yards on his first carry.

THE COMPLETE BOWLER

13—Release

PALM turns so it is at a right angle with the pins.

By RAY BLUTH
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

After we have executed a perfect approach and pendulum swing, we are faced with the important business of releasing the ball properly.

Getting rid of the ball and giving it freedom to attack the pins can be difficult—and ruinous to your score if you don't do it right.

Glenn Allison has a fine release. On the backswing he keeps his palm facing the target.

On the downswing, at the proper moment, Glenn's thumb automatically comes out of the hole. This is not a conscious action on his part. It happens in natural relation to the swing, if your ball has been drilled properly.

When the thumb slides out of its hole without any effort on his part, Allison turns his palm so it is at a right angle with the pins instead of facing the target.

As his hand comes up, this turn, plus the raising of the hand, not only lifts the ball over the foul line, it imparts an action that causes the ball to hook and produce a lot of action that topples pins.

GLENN ALLISON
Glenn Allison got off to a fast start. The 33-year-old native of Whittier, Calif., who now lives in Florissant, Mo., started rolling down the lanes when he was 11. In 1938 he topped a world record 1,906 pins in a seven-game series and has scored two perfect games in exhibitions.
