

FBI Reveals Youth Plot By Commies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An American Communist party plot to exploit what is described as a "drift toward the left" among the nation's youth was uncovered by the FBI in 1963. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover told the Red youth scheme in his year-end report to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, released Thursday. He also noted the FBI's investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy and the murder of civil rights leader Medgar Evers in Mississippi.

Hoover said that last October delegates of the Communist Party U.S.A. met in Chicago "to lay the groundwork for a new national youth organization aimed at exploitation of what the party describes as a drift toward the left among young people." He said the party's general secretary, Gus Hall, stipulated that the youth movement "should avoid the appearance of a Soviet-style organization; however, it should not tolerate anti-Soviet or anti-Communist party thinking."

Grand Jury Indicts Kidnapers

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Indictments against the three accused kidnapers of Frank Sinatra Jr. were in the hands of federal authorities today along with orders for the arraignment of the trio on Monday. It was believed the young singer was a principal witness at the secret federal grand jury hearing which ended Thursday. Six indictments were delivered to federal Judge Albert Lee Stephens Jr. Conviction of all six could mean as much as life imprisonment and $35,000 in fines for each man.

A death penalty is sought against kidnap suspects only when the victim is harmed. The indictment charged that Barry Worthington Keenan and Joseph Clyde Amsler, both 23, carried out the actual abduction. John William Irwin, 42, was charged with aiding and abetting the younger men in the kidnaping. The young Sinatra was spirited across the Nevada-California state line following from a Lake Tahoe motel Dec. 8. He was released 34 hours later after his ransom father paid the ransom demanded in telephone calls from the kidnapers.

Hope Leads To Normal Life

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: I am asking you to print this to let my fellow teenagers know how lucky they are to have just normal good health.

I am a 16-year-old girl who has lived pretty much the same kind a life that teenagers live. A year ago I came down with a disease with a name too long to write so I will use its initials—M.G.

This disease paralyzes certain muscles in the face and throat. I could not utter a single word. Swallowing a mouthful of food often caused me to choke, so I became afraid to eat. That's the way I had to live from September of 1962 to May of 1963. Then I had a delicate operation and the surgeon removed a gland. The doctors didn't know for sure whether the operation would help or even whether I would live through it.

For a week after the operation I was between life and death — fighting for every breath. I made up my mind I was not going to die. I just refused to give up hope.

Today I am healthy and normal. I thank God every night for the gift of life and health. So please tell teenagers everywhere that if they have health they have everything. Little things like an argument with a boy friend, not getting asked to a dance, not getting into a certain college are really unimportant when you consider what some people have to face—THANKFUL TEEN

Dear Thankful: The philosophy expressed in your letter is something all of us should think about—adults as well as teenagers. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: What is the proper procedure for a person who goes into a lovely restaurant, orders a complete dinner and when he is half through the meal discovers the food is terrible?

Is it proper to ask to see the manager? Do you recommend complaining to the waiter or waitress? Or is it best to remain quiet, pay the bill and not return to the place again?

This topic has been the basis for a heated argument between two friends and myself and we want you to settle it.—BEANTOWN BIRDIE

Dear Birdie: The reasonable solution is to tell the waiter or the waitress precisely what you are dissatisfied with. If the steak is tough, or too well done and you undoubtedly be offered another one. If the soup is

Nkrumah Disarmed Would-Be Assassin

ACCRA, Ghana (UPI)—President Kwame Nkrumah overpowered and disarmed the man who tried to kill him with five pistol shots, officials said today. One of the president's security guards was killed by the shots Thursday, it was the third unsuccessful attempt against the 54-year-old Nkrumah in the last 17 months and the fourth since 1956. Officials said Nkrumah took the pistol away from the unidentified man, who was wearing a police uniform, and knocked him down before soldiers and police closed in outside flagstaff house, the presidential residence. "Don't hurt him. Don't kill him. Put your guns down," the president was quoted as saying. Despite the fact the assailant wore a police uniform, informed sources said it still was not clear whether he actually was a member of the force.

New Requirements Scale Will Not Affect OTI

Entrance requirements at Oregon's three largest colleges will be raised for the 1964 fall term, but the change will not affect Oregon Technical Institute.

The State Board of Higher Education said high schools are receiving formal notification of the increase in requirements for Oregon State University, Portland State College and the University of Oregon.

The State Board of Higher Education raised admission standards at these institutions from a high school grade point average of 2.00 (C average) to 2.25. Admission requirements for out-of-state students had been raised earlier on a permanent basis to 2.75. There is no change in the basic entrance requirements at Eastern Oregon College, Oregon College of Education, Southern Oregon College or Oregon Technical Institute, which will continue to require a grade point of not less than 2.00 for admission for Oregon residents. Officials said the raised requirements are for the fall 1964 term only.

CAB Blames Lightning In Crash Of Pan American Jet In December

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government and the aviation industry, convinced that lightning blew up a Pan American World Airways jet over Maryland Dec. 8, has launched a massive research effort to prevent any recurrence. The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB), Federal Aviation Agency, airlines, aircraft manufacturers and the petroleum industry are cooperating in the unprecedented program.

Impetus came from a CAB report to George Moore, FAA director of flight standards, on the investigation of the Pan American crash, in which all 81 aboard died.

The Dec. 17 report, signed by Director Leon Tanguay of the CAB's Bureau of Safety, flatly blamed lightning for tragedy—a one-in-10-million shot.

Tanguay informed the FAA that lightning ignited fumes in the left wingtip fuel tank, although investigators still are at a loss to know exactly how and why the ignition occurred. Tanguay said the bolt struck near a vent used to keep fuel pressure under control.

In the report, the CAB listed a number of recommendations for possible protective measures but conceded that most of them would involve further research. Tanguay said "immediate protective measures are not readily evident." He urged that all government-industry resources be marshaled to solve a problem that until Dec. 8, 1963, was not even considered a major air safety concern.
