THE SQUIRREL CAGE

By Douglass Welch

A good day to you all, and particularly to persons who are looking around for Business Opportunities. How to Make Big Money in Your Spare Time, and like that.

My mother-in-law, who is a dear old lady of 82 and lives with us, is always seeking ways for me to make more money. Mostly it occurs to her when she sees me stretched out on the living room sofa with a newspaper over my face, trying to nap. She was brought up, I think, to believe that any time you see a man stretched out napping between dawn and sunset, why, he could be better employed doing something else gainfully.

So she comes in and reads to me. She reads Business Opportunities. Incidentally, I don't want to confuse my mother-in-law with Mr. Dibble's mother-in-law who is 85 and smokes cigars and drinks brandy in bed, and stands on the front lawn in her bathrobe and waves at strangers in passing cars. My mother-in-law is sane and rational compared to Mr. Dibble's mother-in-law. My mother-in-law, for instance, would like to bring a ton of fertilizer into my nice clean basement and start growing mushrooms. She read me from a magazine how you Make Big Money from Mushrooms.

"Surprise and amaze your friends with your own private stock of fresh, home-grown mushrooms," my mother-in-law read. "Harvest your first crop in just 30 days!"

And I mumbled: "Look, I am trying to nap."

And she said: "Of course, you would have to board up the basement windows. Cousin George could bring in a load or two of fertilizer, and I don't think he would charge you anything for it. He is such a sweet person."

And I said: "Cousin George is a burglar, and if he brought us fertilizer he would charge us twice what anybody else would have to pay."

And she said: "Well, lots of people are making big money growing mushrooms."

And I said: "How do you know they are?"

And she said: "It says so, right here."

Big Deal

And then she said: "I should think you could make a little extra money putting wren and bluebird houses together. Here is a place where they send you birdhouse kits. You glue the pieces together and paint cute sayings on them, and sell the completed birdhouses to your neighbors."

And I said: "Sheesh!"

And she said: "Mr. William Lansing of South Bend, Ind., spent only three evenings putting birdhouses together and selling them, and he made $45 the first week. Furthermore, he was Helping Bring the Bluebird Back."

And I said: "I don't want to make money. I want to be a failure. And what is this about bringing the Bluebird back? Where has he been?"

And she said: "It says here you have to write for particulars."

The Greatest

So I was just about asleep and she said: "There is Big Money in Fairy Whistles. They come from Yugoslavia, and the importer will give you Your Own Exclusive Territory if you Act Now. They are gay, sunny yellow wooden whistles with finger holes so they can be played like flutes. Straight from Fairyland. They amuse the Young in Heart."

And I said: "I don't see me selling fairy whistles."

And she said: "The child blows the whistle and in his imagination there appears a real live beautiful fairy, with crown and wand and dress and sparkling golden slippers. And here is a company that sends you genuine Algonquian moccasins and beads, and you put the beads on and sell them to your friends at a Big Markup."

And I called Green Eyes and said: "Honey, will you make your mother stop reading me this crud while I am trying to take a nap." So now Green Eyes is sore at me, and her mother is sore at me, and I am going to have to take them both out to dinner because from the muttering out in the kitchen I know that dinner here won't be fit to eat.

Hatfield Raps Highway Toll

SALEM (UPI) — Gov. Mark Hatfield today compared Oregon's 1964 highway death rate with the disastrous Christmas week floods.

The governor told a traffic safety conference that while Christmas week flooding resulted in 18 deaths, "the other disaster took 576 lives."

He said that financially the traffic disaster was less than that of the flood but was still extremely serious. He said flood loss was $244 million and traffic losses amounted to $103 million.

The governor urged support of a stronger enforcement program he is seeking from the legislature.

Bill Offered On Succession

SALEM (UPI) — A proposed constitutional amendment to change the line of succession to the governor was introduced in the House today.

It would make the secretary of state and state treasurer first and second in line, instead of going first to the Senate president as at present.

The proposal also removes the provision for a substitute governor while the governor is out of state.

The plan would be voted on at the 1966 general election, and become effective Jan. 1, 1969.

Austria, Prussia and Russia formed a league known as the Holy Alliance in 1815.

National SCD Groups Slate Annual Confab

Something of interest for everyone concerned with natural resource conservation is promised during the 19th annual convention of the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts in Portland Sunday through Thursday, Feb. 7 to 11.

Meetings, tours and special events are planned for the 800 to 1,000 delegates expected at the first NACD convention in Oregon, according to Elmer Peterson, Portland, president of the Oregon Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, host for the meeting.

Registration will be on Sunday, with the first general NACD session scheduled Monday morning when Marion Monk Jr., Batchelor, La., NACD president, will make his report. Oregon Night, an evening of fun and entertainment, will conclude the day, according to Bert G. Wilcox, Klamath County extension agent.

Meetings of committees concerned with the various areas of resource conservation will highlight the early days of the convention, Wilcox said, with the second general session slated for Wednesday morning. The NACD council meeting, open to all interested persons, will be Thursday morning.

Guest speakers scheduled to address delegates from the nation's 3,000 soil and water conservation districts include Oregon Governor Mark O. Hatfield, Donald A. Williams, Washington D. C., Soil Conservation Service administrator; Bernard Orell, Tacoma, Wash., vice president of Weyerhaeuser Company, Charles Stoddard, Washington, D.C., Bureau of Land Management director; A. Lars Nelson, Seattle, Wash., National Grange overseer, and U.S. Sen. George McGovern, South Dakota.

Special tours, luncheons and others events are planned for the ladies attending the convention which will be headquartered in the Portland Hilton Hotel, he added. Mrs. Peterson is in charge of the women's program.

Ralph Saylor, Echo, a NACD director, will preside over the Wednesday general session.
