Fish, Game Bill Snags On Need For Hearings

SALEM (UPI)—An attempt to ram through a bill that would merge the fish and game commissions hit a snag Wednesday when a House committee bowed to demands that more public hearings be scheduled.

Rep. Edward Elder, R - Eugene, chairman of the Fish and Game Committee, reluctantly agreed to schedule a night hearing sometime between Feb. 8 and Feb. 12.

The merger proposal which has been before the legislature almost continuously since 1921, was proposed by the Wildlife Interim Committee and has the blessings of Gov. Mark Hatfield.

Ted Bugas of the Columbia River Salmon and Tuna Packers Association, and Rep. William Holmstrom, D - Gearhart, asked for further hearings after a brief review of the merger proposal was completed.

Holmstrom said copies of the proposed bill hadn't yet been mailed to interested groups.

Hassles Occur

Squabbling between the fish and game commissions and their partisan supporters has racked the state for years.

In his "State-of-the-State" address, Hatfield noted "we can no longer afford the luxury of divided and duplicating responsibilities in this field, and the public has grown weary of the continuing conflict between supporters of the game commission and fish commission."

Rep. Don McKinnis, D-Summerville, a member of the Interim Wildlife Committee, said the merger "provides for smoother operation" of the commissions' activities.

Dan Allen, executive secretary of the governor's committee on natural resources, offered amendments recommended by Hatfield.

One would do away with the proposed phasing - out of the present commissions, and launch the proposed new merged department with a new five-member board appointed by Hatfield.

Under questioning from the committee, Allen attempted to skirt details of the series of battles between the present two commissions, but finally admitted "there have been conflicts."

He also said "there probably wouldn't be any savings" as a result of the merger, but said improved services would result.

Bugas termed the merger proposal "a step in the right direction" but said it wouldn't solve the problem of conflicts of jurisdiction over fish resources.

The expression "silly as a coot" seems to come from this bird's clumsiness on land.

Cars Damaged In Collision

A rearend collision on South Sixth Street at Summers Lane about 12:45 p.m., Wednesday, resulted in minor property damage to both vehicles and no injuries to the motorists, Oregon State Police have reported.

The accident occurred when Arnold Neace, 54, Star Route, Chiloquin, stopped his car at a traffic light on Summers Lane when it was struck in the rear by a vehicle operated by Katherine Marie Collins, 41, of 3734 Cortez Street.

Both cars had been westbound at the time of the accident, officers said.

Basin Woman Named By National Cow Belles

Mrs. William Gouldin, Klamath Falls, was chosen president-elect of the 14,000 - member American National Cow Belles, an auxiliary organization of the Cattlemen's Association, at their meeting in Portland Wednesday.

Mrs. J. B. Wines, Wells, Nev., was installed as president of the Cow Belles by the 400 delegates from 26 affiliated state organizations.

A West Coast specialist in agri-business told the American National Cattlemen's Association convention Wednesday that beef raisers face "many problems of survival," despite a predicted 35 per cent increase in the demand for beef over the next 10 years.

John Hopkin, economist with the Bank of America in San Francisco, said that while farmers must increase production of beef cattle, these beef calves "cannot be supplied from existing grass areas under present technology and levels of management."

Hopkin said other problems include "the battle of cost," substitution of capital for labor, increased skill in decision making and financial management and better control of cash flow.

Another speaker, L. M. Stanehjem, president of the Independent Bankers Association, called the rural banker the rancher's best friend in both prosperity and during diverse times.

"Rural community banks have the desire, means and ability to furnish dependable, long-term credit to livestockmen," the head of the First International Bank, Watford City, N.D., said.

The cattlemen also heard from Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and were read a statement from Rep. Wayne M. Aspinall, C-Colo., chairman of the House Interior Committee, during a morning session.

Highway Chief Sees Five-Year Wait For Albany Bridge Over Willamette

SALEM (UPI) — A second bridge across the Willamette River at Albany is at least five years away, State Highway Commission Chairman Glenn Jackson said Wednesday.

Jackson said construction of the bridge that soon would depend on legislative approval of an accelerated highways program to complete more urgent projects.

He dropped the announcement at the end of a House Highways Committee Hearing on a resolution calling on the highway department to consider the bridge on U.S. Highway 20 near the city's business district.

About 100 Albany residents made the trip to the capitol to show their support for the project.

A five-man team headed by attorney Orval Thompson told a story of traffic congestion, fire and driving hazards and even national defense problems caused by the present two-lane bridge.

Rep. C. R. Hoyt, R-Corvallis, called the situation "a mess that really defies cleaning up by any other means."

Mayor Speaks

Albany Mayor Russell Tripp said the average daily traffic across the bridge jumped from 5,460 vehicles a day in 1951 to 9,300 last year.

He put into the record a letter from Fire Chief Harry Warner, who said his trucks have to go the wrong way down a one-way street to get to the bridge in time to be of any help at fires across the river.

During Oregon State football games at Corvallis, Warner said traffic sometimes backed up eight blocks.

Lt. Col. Frank Ault Jr., commander of Adair Air Force Station, said his personnel "must have quick and easy access to the station at all times."

A plea for a higher grade which would keep the highway near the bridge above high water also was made by Benton County Judge E. E. Larkin.

"There's no question that this bridge is going to have to be built someday," said former State Sen. Melvin Goode. He contended it should be done before new commercial and residential areas make right-of-way acquisition difficult and expensive.

State Highway Engineer Forrest Cooper estimated the cost of the bridge at between $1.5 and $1.75 million, and the cost of raising the highway grade at another $400,000.

Vandals Enter School Rooms

NEW PINE CREEK—Vandalism was reported at the State Line School last Thursday morning, Jan. 21, by Mrs. Carroll Cloud when she brought her son to school.

Desks were found overturned and books, papers and other objects were scattered about the room.

The vandals had gained entrance by breaking two small window panes in the front door, then unlatched the door by reaching inside. The Alturas sheriff's office investigated, but nothing of importance was found missing or no extensive damage done.

School Sought Near Portland

SALEM (UPI) — Rep. Ross Morgan, D-Gresham, said Wednesday the Portland area should have a vocational technical school.

The state now has one such school, Oregon Technical Institute at Klamath Falls.

Morgan said Oregon City, Beaverton and Gresham were possible choices for a site.

However, he said he would prefer to see community colleges in Multnomah, Clackamas and Washington counties before a technical school was considered.

Review Asked

PORTLAND (UPI)—Attorney Gerald Robinson filed a motion in Federal Court Wednesday asking it to review an Immigration Service decision denying political asylum to Yugoslavian seamen Veljko Stanisic and Veselin Vucinic. The two seamen left their ship at Coos Bay early this month.
