"Congratulations on your Prelude to Progress edition. You have a lot to be proud of." — W. W. Sauerberg, Ward-Griffith Co., Newspaper Representatives, Chicago, Ill.

"The edition is outstanding in every way and presents a picture of your community and area that will serve as a source of information for many years." — Sam Gilluly, Montana State Chamber of Commerce, Helena, Mont.

"A great piece of work. You and your staff sure deserve the congratulations." — Dick Keusink, Brookings, Ore., Pilot.

"Congratulations on the splendid results of your Progress Edition. We were interested in the pictures and stories giving some of the early history of the area and needless to say it whetted our appetite to get down through that part of the country as soon as we can." — Grover Wilson, Spokane, Wash.

"I have perused your excellent Progress Edition with great interest." — Ben Sefrit, Bellingham, Wash.

"Thank you for sending along your 'Prelude to Progress' edition. You and your staff can certainly be proud of the end result of what must have been a tremendous amount of work." — Richard A. Liffin, manager Pacific Division United Press International, San Francisco, Calif.

"Looks like you have the formula well in hand and have a very definite idea on how a creditable edition should be promoted and produced." — Dud Brown, Seattle, Wash.

"After reading your Progress Edition perhaps more thoroughly than any other paper I can recall, I suddenly felt as though I knew the community, the businesses and the people as familiarly. You and your staff have done an outstanding job of presenting an intimate interview with Klamath Falls." — Dr. John Roche, Kaispell, Mont.

"Thank you for the personal copy of the immensely impressive 'Prelude to Progress' edition of the Klamath Falls Herald and News." — Frank Perrin, Public Relations Dept., Great Northern Railway, St. Paul, Minn.

"I'm not going to let another season go by without thanking you for the Progress Edition, a truly monumental job. I read with special interest the accounts of early Klamath history. Frequently a good historian is a lousy narrator. . . Mr. Wynne is good in both departments. I hope he receives the commendation he so richly deserves. He certainly has mine." — Joe Pigney, Mill Valley, Calif.

"My congratulations on another splendid Progress Edition." — James H. Ferguson, Assistant Vice President, Pacific Power & Light, Portland, Ore.

"Your sales staff . . . and editorial people did a magnificent job of compiling and putting together the background information. Needless to say some old Klamath Falls residents here in California really enjoyed every page of this huge edition." — Harry C. McLain, Advertising Director, News Call-Bulletin, San Francisco.

"I have just finished re-reading your Progress Edition and am happy to add my congratulations to the many you must have received by now." — J. V. Brenner, Roseburg, Ore.
