Solons Hear Testimony

A bill to pave the way for reorganization of Klamath County schools has been introduced to the Senate and is being considered by the Senate Education Committee.

The bill amends reorganization law to allow Klamath County reorganization plans. It was written by the Interim Committee on Education and is aimed specifically at Klamath County.

One plan was declared illegal a year ago because of a quirk in the law. The new proposal would eliminate this quirk.

Under the new provision, any reorganization plan would have to be passed by voters in all districts concerned before becoming effective.

Under present law, it would have been possible for a plan to be passed in some areas and be defeated in others—thereby reorganizing some areas and leaving others without any school organization.

Plan Illegal

It was this quirk that led the attorney general to declare a plan by the county commissioners to be illegal a year ago.

City Superintendent of Schools Ray Hunsaker has testified before the Education Committee in support of the bill, SB 35.

The bill would merely allow a reorganization plan to be drawn, and does not recommend any particular plan.

Another bill, SB 89, would order reorganization of Klamath County schools by the establishment of a unified school district educating students in grades 1-12 along the boundaries of the present Klamath Union High district.

Blohm Named To SCD Board

Phil Blohm of Malin, and Ken O'Neill, Klamath Falls, were named to the board of directors of the Klamath Soil and Water Conservation District during the annual meeting of the District at Merrill Jan. 27.

Blohm was re-elected. O'Neill, a former resident of Campbell, Calif., now owner of the former Jay Flagg ranch, was elected for a first term. He succeeds the late Myron Taylor whose unexpired term was not filled due to the coming election.

Fight Looms On UN Jobs

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., (UPI) — An East - West fight over a key U. N. committee chairmanship today raised the threat of a confrontation in the General Assembly when it convenes again Monday.

Dr. German Zea of Colombia, backed by the Latin American group and the United States, is opposed by Karoly Csatorday of Hungary, who has the support of the Communist bloc, for the chairmanship of the first or political committee.

The post is important in itself and also often serves as a springfield for the assembly presidency, which has never been held by a Communist.

In an ordinary General Assembly session, it would be a simple matter of holding a vote to decide the chairmanship.

But because of the conflict over Russia's U. N. dues and right to vote in the assembly, no vote has been taken there since the present session started Dec. 1.

The Afro-Asian group called a meeting today to discuss which candidate to support. Informed sources said Thursday that the African members — the group's majority — already had agreed to back Csatorday.

Assembly President Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana, who recessed the assembly Thursday to go to Sir Winston Churchill's funeral and to provide extra time for talks on the financial problem, said he hoped the differences over the committee chairman could be ironed out by Monday.

If they are not, the Zea-Csatorday conflict might go to the assembly floor for a vote. This would, at the same time, raise the issue of the Soviet right to vote.

House Cuts Obstacles To Program

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House action on immigration reform and foreign aid is still a long way off, but two big obstacles to these key administration measures were quietly removed this week.

The action came as part of the little-noticed business of assigning members to the subcommittees that will handle the two important bills. From what is known of the newly assigned members, President Johnson's legislative program appears to have been given a definite boost.

The nine-member foreign aid appropriations subcommittee, headed by Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., was assigned five members expected to be far friendlier to the embattled aid program than the chairman.

The judiciary subcommittee on immigration was increased in size from five to nine members. At least five are expected to be more favorable to Johnson's immigration bill than Chairman Michael A. Feighan, D-Ohio.

The experience of being surrounded by a subcommittee more loyal to the administration than to its chairman is not a new experience for Passman. He ran into it last year and was drubbed in an effort to cut back President Johnson's request for foreign aid funds.

Antelopers Name Officers

LAKEVIEW — At the first meeting for 1965 on Jan. 11 the Order of the Antelope has elected Ed Casto to serve again as chairman of the board of control.

Also re-elected were Gordon Long, Marvin Butler and Leslie Shaw to 3-year terms. Other members of the board are Tom J. Flynn, Chief White Tail this year, Jack Parrish, Ernest McKinney, James Lampkins and John Blair. Jess Faha is grand secretary.

The group plans to meet later in Burns with Bill Jenkins, publisher of the Malheur Enterprise at Vale, to prepare for an edition of The Antelope Gazette which he will publish.

New Equipment To Save Social Security Cash

New automated equipment in the Social Security Administration's record-keeping headquarters in Baltimore will save taxpayers some $1 million a year, Wilber Womer, Social Security district manager in Klamath Falls, stated today.

The new system, known as the Optical Character Recognition System, will be used to convert directly to magnetic tape a great portion of the more than 60 million wage entries sent in every three months by the nation's 3½ million employers, without going through the intermediate step of making punch cards.

In order to take advantage of the new equipment and thus the tremendous savings, Womer stated that employers were asked to help by completing their reports (Form 941) of income and social security taxes with typewriter or other business machine, if possible.

"The system cannot 'read' handwriting, colored inks or handprinting," Womer said.

However, it was emphasized that handwritten returns will be accepted by the Internal Revenue Service if typing cannot be used by an employer.

Womer added that for handwritten reports, the manual punchcard system will continue to be necessary. Typewritten reports that are rejected by the machine because of strike-overs or other flaws will also have to be handled manually.

Illness Up In County

Thirty two cases of communicable disease were reported in Klamath County for the week ending Jan. 16, according to a report from the Oregon State Board of Health. Of that total, measle cases numbered 21, influenza, 9; scarlet fever and infectious hepatitis, one each.

Klamath was the second highest among Oregon counties in the incidence of measles reported, trailing Tillamook County which had 82.

Other figures for the state indicated that influenza led all other diseases with 391 cases, followed by German measles, 211; measles, 172; pneumonia, 22; and scarlet fever, 14.

The breakdown of communicable diseases for adjacent counties follows:

Deschutes, 10: Influenza, six; pneumonia, two; German measles and tuberculosis, one each.

Douglas, 35: Influenza, 35.

Jackson, 25: German measles, 22; measles, three.

Josephine, seven: German measles, four; measles, three.

Lake, 15: Influenza, 14; measles, one.

County Sells Road Rocks

County residents desiring to purchase cinders and base rock from the county at special prices must obtain their permits to do so at the County Engineers Office before 5 p.m. today. John Creed, county engineer, has reminded the public.

The offer has been extended by the County Board of Commissioners to property owners whose lands abut public roads which were damaged during the floods at the end of the year. The commissioners have announced that the responsibility of maintaining public roads is that of the abutting land owners but, as a service to the public, the road material is being offered at the special rates.

The cinders and rock are being sold at two points in the county during the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., beginning today through Sunday. The cinders are available at the Merrill Cinder Pit at 75 cents per yard.

Meanwhile, 1½-inch minus base rock is being sold for $1.20 per yard at the Stukel Mountain Pit. An additional 10 cents per yard will be charged at each site if the material is loaded by county equipment.

Mississippi Builds 'Special' Jail As Negroes Discuss Death Protest

By United Press International

Negro leaders said they are ready to march today at Jackson, Miss., in protest against the slaying of an 18-year-old youth but a final decision on the demonstration depends on a decision by their attorneys.

Two court orders have forbidden the demonstration and authorities were so sure that mass arrests would result from the march through the stronghold of segregation that a special compound has been set up at the county fairgrounds.

Charles Evers, state director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the two identical court orders issued Thursday afternoon by three circuit court judges and the county judge caught Negroes by surprise.

Decision Postponed

Evers said he didn't feel the orders were "worth the paper they're written on" but agreed to postpone a decision on the demonstration pending further legal advice.

The demonstration was called to protest the shooting of Ollie W. Shelby, 18, by a sheriff's deputy last week. Authorities claimed Shelby was shot after he attacked two officers and was beating a jailer in an effort to escape. He was being booked at the jail following his conviction for making indecent gestures toward a white woman.

A coroner's jury ruled the killing justifiable homicide and Sheriff Fred Pickett refused to yield to Negro demands that the officers involved be suspended.

Other Developments

In other racial developments, Dr. Martin Luther King Thursday ordered field workers to prepare for mass voter registration demonstrations in Wilcox, Perry and Lowndes counties in Alabama where Negroes outnumber whites

A drive in Selma, Ala., hit a lull Thursday while attorneys sought contempt action in federal court at Mobile against Sheriff James Clark and others for interfering with voter registration attempts by Negroes.

Elsewhere:

New Bern, N.C.: The Federal Bureau of Investigation stepped up its investigation Thursday of the civil rights bombings Sunday of two automobiles and a Negro mortuary. At least 10 FBI agents were assigned to the case.

Texas Politician Due For Top Job With LBJ

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A prominent Texas businessman politician who has President Johnson's full confidence is expected to become the "anchorman" of the White House staff.

He is W. (for William) Marvin Watson, 40, chairman of the Texas Democratic party and assistant to the president of the Lone Star Steel Co. in Dallas.

Watson is resigning both posts to take up his new duties as special assistant to Johnson, starting Monday, at an annual salary of $28,500.

The White House said Watson would handle administrative matters and federal-state relations for the Chief Executive. But like other special assistants, he is sure to be called on to work on whatever tasks Johnson assigns.

Sources close to the President described Watson as cool in a crisis, candid, likeable and able.

"He will not be a chief of staff — the President is his own chief of staff," said one source. "But Marvin may act as an anchorman around here."

Watson was reluctant to leave his job at Lone Star Steel and his home in Daingerfield, Tex. (Pop. 3,133) where he once managed the Chamber of Commerce and was a city official.

In political matters, Watson is regarded as a conservative. But friends say he does not belong to the ultra-conservative wing of the Democratic party in Texas.
