

Rhubarb Marks Celtics-Knicks Contest

Benches Empty As Two Coaches Clash

BOSTON (UPI) — Don't be surprised if Red Auerbach lights his renowned victory cigar in the first quarter of the next time the New York Knickerbockers come to town.

And don't be surprised if Knick coach Harry Gallatin tries to shove it down Red's throat.

The two nearly came to blows Sunday as Auerbach's League-leading Boston Celtics administered a humiliating 123-95 beating to the hapless Knicks.

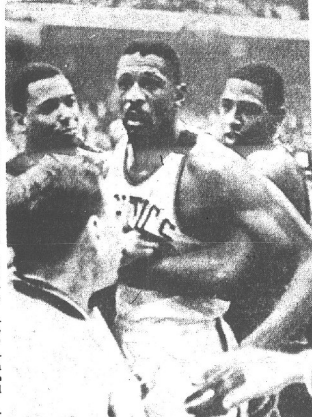

Only a squad of Boston police kept the 5-04-9 Auerbach and the 5-foot-5 Gallatin from tangleing on the Boston Garden floor after an exchange of derisive gestures.

New Coach Due At Oregon St.

CORVALLIS (UPI) — Oregon State may announce its choice for a new head football coach this week.

The Beaver athletic board interviewed six candidates last week. Officials had no comment Sunday.

RHUBARB — Two New York Knickerbockers hold the Celtics' Bill Russell during a rhubarb in Boston Sunday. It was Russell's sixth foul and first disqualification of the season that started the fight.

After the game, Auerbach called Gallatin a "big stupid ape" and Gallatin said Auerbach was "bush."

"You can tell Red he's going to have plenty of trouble with New York from now on," the one-time Knick hatcher man warned.

The melee erupted when Auerbach crossed up defensive ace Bill Russell early in the fourth quarter.

Referee Jack Madden slapped a technical foul on Red — His second of the game — and Gallatin said something from the New York bench.

Auerbach motioned to Gallatin in a gesture that plainly said, "You talk too much."

The big New York coach gestured back, inviting Auerbach to the middle of the floor to settle the matter then and there.

Accompanied by Tom Heinsohn, Auerbach started for the Knick bench and Gallatin headed for Auerbach. As the two benches emptied, a flying squad of police raced onto the floor and intercepted the enraged coaches.

Tom Russell went for Gallatin and also had to be restrained. And the Knicks' Tom Hoover got into a shoving match with a policeman that led to his being ejected from the game.

The Beaver athletic board interviewed six candidates last week. Officials had no comment Sunday.

"Every club except Boston will probably be out to make a trade today."

That's the prediction of Los Angeles Lakers coach Fred Schaus who admitted Sunday night his team was "still after a corner man."

There will be a lot of activity throughout the league," said Schaus. "I assume every club except Boston will be trying to make a corner man. St. Louis, they are desperate for a trade. Baltimore has been in Detroit, New York, San Francisco and Philadelphia are all interested in trading. I'm hopeful we will."

He then shrugged and said "I've felt this way for two months. The City of Angels Schaus didn't appear too worried about filling that corner spot, however, and he began to look at the remainder of the season with a five-game lead over second place St. Louis in the Western Division standings.

The Lakers won their fifth consecutive game Sunday night by defeating the San Francisco Warriors 66-64 on a 24-foot jump shot by Jerry West with only 16 seconds to play.

Elgin Baylor was high man with 27 and West was held to only 20. Guy Rodgers tallied 20 to take high scoring honors for San Francisco.

In other NBA action Sunday night, the Hawks led prey to a rally by the Detroit Pistons.

Canadians Retain Sled Title

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, (UPI) — Canada retains the world four-man bobsled title today, but observers still buzz about the performance of American veteran Fred Fortune.

Fortune was the darling of the crowd, though. With only one good arm, he improved his placing in each heat, missing a second place silver medal by a heart-breaking 0.1 of an second.

Fortune, who owns a restaurant in Lake Placid, N. Y., won three third-place bronze medals in a world two-man bobsled championships in the 1940s and 1950s. He came back at the age of 43 to win a third-place bronze medal Sunday.

His left arm was suddenly stricken with painful cramps Friday. He was treated with pain-killing injections throughout the meet.
