TOUGH DECISION

WARREN, R.I. (UPI)—There still seems to be some confusion about where to draw the line on the length of schoolgirls' skirts.

The old rule was one-inch below the knee, but Principal Nicholas F. Cariglia said Thursday this was too hard to measure. Now, the rule is "dress shall be of such length as to appear proper."

WALL STREET

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices were narrowly mixed near the close today although some late improvement was noted.

Blue chips generally were neglected while traders and investors turned their attentio to secondary issues.

Steels were easier. Motors were mixed with Chrysler and General Motors representing the upside while Ford eased. Du Pont spurted. Eastman Kodak was nicked by profit taking.

Cow Killed In Crash

An angus cow was killed during the pre-dawn hours Monday when it was struck by an automobile on Highway 39, about one mile south of Merrill, in one of three non-fatal traffic accidents reported to Oregon State Police during the weekend.

Douglas Edward Rambo, 23, Oregon City, told police he was driving southbound about 12:30 a.m. when the cow wandered onto the highway into the path of his car. Dal Reed. Merrill Police Chief, is attempting to locate the owner of the animal, officers reported.

Man Cited

In a two-car collision that occurred about 1 a.m. Sunday, Colyn Guelph Lorimer, 27, Kingsley Field, was cited for failure to drive on the right side of the highway when his car went out of control on Summers Lane and collided with an oncoming automobile driven by Steven Elmar McGinnis, 16, of 5609 Hardy Drive. After the impact Lorimer's car continued northbound for 150 feet, while the other vehicle collided with a parked pickup truck owned by Edwin Boothby, 2910 Sumpters Lane. Neither of the drivers were injured, officers said.

Rear-Ender

In the other accident, Edwin Leon Givens, 17, of 3728 Cortez Street, was cited for violation of the basic rule after he drove his car into the rear of an automobile operated by Jeanette Sue Borgialli, 18, of 1917 South Sixth Street, near the intersection of South Sixth and Gettle streets; 6 p.m. Saturday. The woman motorist had stopped her car behind two automobiles which were in the process of turning from South Sixth onto Gettle when the accident occurred. There were no injuries and damages to both cars were apparently minor, officers stated.

Two Youths Arrested In Burglaries Here

Two Klamath Falls youths have been lodged in the city jail on charges of concealing property stolen during the burglaries of the Moose Lodge Jan. 10 and Montgomery Ward last Dec. 8, Klamath Falls Police reported Monday.

Lodged in the city jail pending their appearance in district court were Michael Fred Chase, 19, 1225 Kane Street, and Steve Harry Killian, 18, address unknown.

Found In Car

City police officers apprehended the youths in a car on Adams Street about 8:15 p.m. Sunday, while investigating an attempted break-in at the Drive More Motors Used Car Lot, 302 East Main Street.

Earlier during the evening, Charles Kenworthy told police that he was outdistanced by two youths — one wearing a striped blue and white sweater and white trousers—whom he observed prowling on the used car lot.

Auto Chased

Later an officer investigating the case was driving along Adams Street when he noted that the operator of an approaching car matched the description provided by Kenworthy. The officer drove off in pursuit of Chase, operator of the other car, and stopped him several moments later. An inspection of the trunk by the policeman uncovered quantities of liquor stolen from the Moose Lodge and a transistor radio believed taken during a burglary at Montgomery Ward last year. The youths were apprehended and booked on the stolen property charge at the city police station.

Officers later learned that a lock on a garage door at the used car lot had been cut during the evening of the investigation.

Oregon CD Apparatus Battles For Its Life

SALEM (UPI)—Oregon's civil defense organization began battling for its life again today as a Ways and Means subcommittee opened study of Gov. Mark Hatfield's request to expand its staff to 12 men.

It was apparent from today's hearing that recent floods have not washed away antagonism toward the agency.

Rep. Sidney Leiken, D-Roseburg, said he would not support the increased budget.

"All I can see is the same buildup as before; I still don't see any new program. The command post set up by the governor for the Christmas floods proved itself, why change?" he asked. "Unless I see something different, I can't vote for this budget."

Rep. Howard Willits, D-Portland, also opposed the budget. He said the governor's office could handle natural disasters and a full time organization wasn't needed.

"I object to civil defense's emphasis on enemy attack," he said. "The shelter program is ineffective and impractical—it's a waste of money. We should plan only for natural disasters. Too much emphasis on war can bring about a war."

Cut To Three

Two years ago the legislature stripped civil defense to a three-member staff as a result of frustration over the agency's performance during the Columbus Day windstorm of 1962.

Hatfield has asked for $286,865 for the next two years. The general fund would supply $90,178, compared tot $52,693 in the current biennium.

It was brought out that a 12-member agency would be necessary to get federal matching funds.

Civil Defense Director Robert Sandstrom said the added staff would be used to keep records and to provide more field work and training for local organizations.

Multnomah, Crook, Jefferson and Gilliam counties and the City of Portland axed their defense programs after the state cutback in 1963. About half the remaining counties have only part-time directors.

Warne Nunn, Hatfield's executive assistant, warned it was "risky" to keep civil defense at its present level. He said existing county organizations would deteriorate if the state did not provide more training and leadership.

Sen. Walter Leth, R - Salem, noted that the CD staff had been "working 12 hours on, and 12 hours off during the recent flood disasters."

Three Held For Theft

WEED—On Jan. 22, three juveniles, all 12 years of age, of Weed were cited to the Probation Office in Yreka and charged with two counts of burglary.

The first count occurred at approximately 12 midnight when a boy entered the Angel Valley Barber Shop by forcing and breaking a window. They took beer, wine, whisky, pop, and cigarettes and then stashed them in an abandoned house across the street. The property was recovered and returned.

The second count occurred at approximately 12:30 a.m. when three boys entered the Holy Family Catholic Church. The entry was made through a small window in the back. They went through and opened the back door. One boy was caught at the scene and the other two were picked up at home. They were placed under house arrest to appear in Yreka on Jan. 27.

In The Day's News

ar there ever since.

But let's get back to the present.

When it was learned that the British sovereigns were coming, word went out that TIARAS would be worn at royal receptions. Whereupon a Greek jeweler had a bright idea. He ordered 300 tiaras from Europe to meet the anticipated demand. It looked like an opportunity to make a nice profit.

But something slipped.

The British embassy explained that those ladies who HAD tiaras could wear them but no TIARALESS lady would be prevented from curtseying to the queen.

That left the jeweler STUCK with the world's largest stock of unsold diamond tiaras on his hands. At this writing, the word has got out that Queen Elizabeth WON'T wear a tiara.

It's a rough world.

KF Mayor Defends Proposals

Mayor Robert Veatch today issued a statement in reply to recent criticisms voiced against a proposed street-widening program.

Veatch told the Herald and News today, "When the city manager proposed a project of street widening within the city of Klamath Falls, it was presented to the council purely as a proposal. Before any such project is reduced to action, it must have the endorsement of the council. The council, however, could not properly endorse the project as a whole, except as a matter of policy. Each individual project would then have to be acted upon separately after a completion of a study of each project, which would entail estimates of cost and proposals of financing.

"At that time, the public hearing would have to be called to hear objections from the public involved in each individual project. I want to stress that at this point, we are only discussing ideas for overall improvement of the city, and we invite comments and constructive ideas from any resident of the city."

Short List For Council

Klamath Falls city councilmen face one of their shortest agendas in months Monday night.

Councilmen are scheduled to pass a resolution seeking further federal funds for storm damage. Plans will be presented for the Vine - Richmond improvement project.

Another resolution will authorize the sale of the city-owned West End Grocery building, which is being torn down to make way for a planned off-ramp from the Link River Bridge.

City Manager Bob G. Kyle is scheduled to report on an agreement with Southern Pacific Railroad for storm sewer crossings, correspondence from the State Highway Commission, a petition for the improvement of Main Street near the Ponderosa Nursing Home and Ponderosa School, and several other routine items.

The meeting will begin at 7:30.

Committee Sets Visit

The Legislature's Ways and Means Committee is scheduled to meet in Klamath Falls Saturday.

The committee, touring Southern Oregon, is scheduled to discuss state welfare policies at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, lunch at Oregon Technical Institute, tour Oregon Tech, and stay overnight in Klamath Falls before visiting Bend Sunday.
