Arizona Police Investigate Death Of Heir To Zenith Radio Millions

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — How and why did Eugene Francis (Stormy) McDonald III—co-heir to the $24-30 million Zenith radio fortune kill himself?

Disturbed by these questions, authorities Thursday expanded their investigation into the death of the 23-year-old youth, who appeared to have had every reason to live.

McDonald's body was found Wednesday night outside a photographic darkroom in his rented $50,000 home in this desert sun and fun city.

He was lying in a pool of blood. Both his wrists had been slashed and there was a bullet wound in his head.

Sheriff's homicide investigators found a 22-caliber pistol beside McDonald's body. It had been fired once.

Authorities Curious

But some authorities were curious about three aspects of the case:

—The implement used in the wrist slashing was not found.

—The bullet entered the back of McDonald's head.

—There was no suicide noté, although friends reported he had been despondent recently.

However, the thing that puzzled authorities was the question, Why?

"Why would a guy with millions of dollars and so young want to take his own life?" asked one puzzled detective.

"We are very interested in this case," said Pima County attorney Norman Green. "There are a lot of unexplained things which must be answered."

Pathologist Concurs

County pathologist Dr. Edward Brucker conducted an autopsy Thursday and announced he concurred with detectives, who listed McDonald's death as suicide.

But Green asked Brucker to confer with another pathologist, Dr. Louis Hirsch, to determine whether McDonald might possibly have died by a means other than his own hand.

Justice of the Peace Toby La Vetter late Thursday convened a coroner's jury to view McDonald's body and examine the circumstances of the youth's death.

Bids Sought On Seeding

Bids for contract planting of approximately 2,255,000 one-two-, and three -year-old forest tree seedlings on approximately 4,253 acres of government land in California and Oregon are invited by the Bureau of Land Management.

The tree planting project is part of the bureau's annual reforestation program to rehabilitate various portions of the public domain. Douglas fir and ponderosa pine are the main species to be planted with some Jeffrey pine and Shasta fir included. Approximately 658,000 seedlings will be planted in California; 1,597,000 in Oregon.

Twenty four separate projects located in Klamath, Jackson, Josephine, Douglas, Curry, Lane and Linn counties are included in the Oregon plantings, and 13 individual projects in Lassen, Plumas, Nevada, Placer and Calaveras counties will comprise the California portion.

Opening of the bids will be held in the Bureau's Field Administrative Office, Room 723, 1002 NE Holaday Street, (P.O. Box 3861), Portland, at 2 p.m. Feb. 11, 1965.

Contractors are required to furnish equipment, supervision, labor, transportation and supplies, with the exception of the seedlings. These will be furnished by BLM at local storage points.

Congressmen Probe Alabama's Critical Racial Situation

By United Press International

A six-man congressional delegation flies to Alabama today to make a personal investigation of Selma's racial situation.

Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., spokesman for the group of four Negroes and two whites, said the congressmen wanted to "get a full view of the situation and to hear from all sides."

Diggs said also the group wanted to see whether additional federal voting legislation was needed and, if so, what kind.

Federal Judge Daniel H. Thomas of Mobile, Ala., Thursday ordered sweeping changes in voter registration procedures in Dallas (Selma) County. Thomas's order liberalizes and speeds up registration and tossed out a controversial procedure requiring voter applicants to take a test on civics and government.

The order applies only to Dallas County but the Justice Department recently filed suit in federal court in Montgomery asking for a statewide ban on such tests.

Negro leaders at Selma expressed disappointment in Thomas's ruling because it did not hold Dallas County Sheriff Jim Clark in contempt of court. Clark, restrained from interfering with Negro voter registration in Selma, has made most of the 2,800 arrests during the civil rights campaign in Selma and nearby Marion, Ala.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., leaders of the campaign, ordered a temporary halt in Selma demonstrations Thursday.

King, jailed during a march in Selma earlier this week, was expected to post bond and leave his cell today.

Police at Marion arrested 173 Negroes Thursday when the group attempted to march on the courthouse to protest voter registration procedures. Negroes vowed at a mass meeting Thursday night to continue the demonstrations today.

Elsewhere:

Washington: President Johnson told a news conference Thursday that "all of us should be concerned with the efforts of our fellow Americans to register to vote in Alabama." He pledged that the "right to vote" will be secured for all Americans.

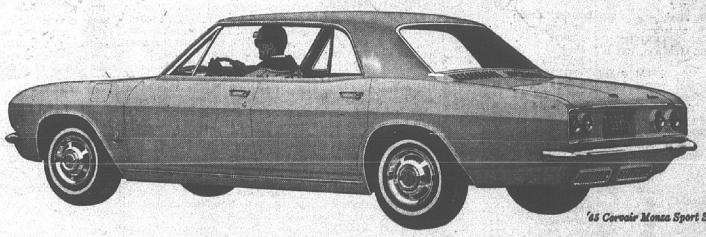
No window post.
No floor hump.
No radiator.
No power steering.
No power brakes.

Some of the things you don't get in a Corvair are among your best reasons for buying it.



'65 Corvair Monza Sport Sedan

Corvair by Chevrolet

The beauty of it, of course, goes deeper than the things you don't get. There's the other side of the coin—what you do get in their place.

Take the no window post, for example. What you do get is hardtop styling—with curved frameless side windows—in every Corvair closed model. Even the lowest priced coupe or sedan.

The transmission and driveline hump you don't get means more foot room for both front- and back-seat passengers. Thanks to Corvair's rear engine, the floor is practically flat.

No radiator—the engine's air-cooled—also means no water, no antifreeze and no hose leaks to worry about. All of which add up to some more important pluses.

Power steering? Power brakes? Corvair needs them like a centipede needs crutches. With most of the engine weight on the rear wheels, the front ones are free to steer easily. And stops are quick and sure—with no nose-diving. Come on down to our showroom and discover the difference for yourself.
