In The Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS
As this is written, Soviet Premier Kossygin (pronounced KOSS-ee-jin) and his sidekick, Communist Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev are on their way to Communist Viet Nam for a look-see at what is going on there.

On their way, they are stopping in Peking—where they are met at the airport by Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, Foreign Minister Chen Yi and other high-ranking Chinese Communist officials.

Kossygin professes friendship for us. He is supposed to have NO USE for the Chinese communists.

That suggests this question: What's he up to?

Let's go along with Virgil who said nearly 20 centuries ago (Aeneid, Book II):
"I fear the Greeks, even when they come bearing gifts."
Virgil was talking about the wooden horse the Greeks left in front of the gate of Troy, when they unexpectedly pulled it out and LEFT after a long siege.
