Give an expert a chance to make a brilliant play and he is very likely to come up with it.

West's one no - trump was the unusual no - trump designed to show length in the unbid suits. It couldn't be a real no - trump since he had passed to start with.

The jump to four spades by Jack Howell of Toronto was a slight overbid, but most of the other South players in the World Championship trials also reached that contract and, while most of them went down two tricks, Jack actually made it.

West opened the ace of diamonds and continued with the king. This lead showed a doubleton diamond since, with more diamonds, he would have led the king first. Then West shifted to the eight of hearts.

East won with the king and Jack dropped the queen. There was no reason for this false card to work, but the play of the nine spot would have been no better. However, East had one of those brainstorms that sometimes affect even the best players. Instead of cashing a second heart, he led a low diamond.

Now Jack went into a long huddle. He reviewed the bidding and decided that West would hold five cards each in clubs and hearts for his unusual no-trump bid. Then Jack ruffed with the eight of trumps.

When that held he was ready to mop up. He led a spade to dummy's ace, returned to his own hand by ruffing a diamond with the nine of trumps, drew trumps and claimed the balance.

What do you do?

A—Pass. Your partner is showing a minimum hand with stoppers in outside suits. The no-trump game should be safe and a club slam appears impossible.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three no-trump, your partner bids three diamonds over your three clubs. What do you do now?
