Old-fashioned "Papa-Mama" bidding brought Ivan Erdos and Kelsey Patterson of Los Angeles to game in the U.S. team trials for world title play, but it required considerably more than

"Papa-Mama" play for Ivan to bring his contract home. He won the opening club lead and decided he could not afford to lead trumps twice from dummy, so he played his king of hearts. West ducked, whereupon Ivan ruffed a club in dummy and led a second trump. When East played the jack, Ivan had jumped one hurdle. He was going to lose only one trump trick. If West had been kind enough to play a diamond or a third club, Ivan would have had no trouble making five odd, but West made his best possible play. He led the four of spades. It was now up to Ivan to play the right spade from dummy and he did just that. He played dummy's deuce.

East's jack forced Ivan's ace. He drew West's last trump and played the jack of diamonds to dummy's ace. A second diamond lead cleared the suit and naturally Ivan unblocked with the 10th. West led the six of spades and Ivan had one last problem. Should he play the queen or ruff? He chose to ruff. It wasn't much of a problem. East had stuck in a three-club overcall to play a diamond or a third club, Ivan would have had no trouble making five odd, but West made his best possible play. He led the four of spades. It was now up to Ivan to play the right spade from dummy and he did just that. He played dummy's deuce.

POET'S CORNER

BOOMERANG

He fosters hate for his position, And demands his fellow man. He is filled with attrition, Builds unrest where'er he can.

He hates those above him, And scorns those beneath. As the poison tree the limb, A deadly sword within its sheath.

He hates responsibility, For his government he states: He's sure its instability, Is filled with reproaches.

Never mentions the good deeds, Of any one he knows, But plants his spiteful seeds, In the garden that he grows.

His hatred unabated, On its topmost shelf, Can't destroy the things now hated, But will destroy himself.

DESTINY

Somewhere, I hope, in the sweetness of heaven There will be room for a kitten to play; Somewhere, I hope, that a small frightened puppy May find the faith that he lost as a stray.

Somewhere, I hope, there'll be green fields to lie in, Safe from the hum of the hurrying crowd; Somewhere, I hope, in the beauty of heaven There'll be a place where our pets are allowed.

Librarian Loans Books For Sailors

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Imagine a librarian trying to retrieve books and magazines located halfway around the world.

That's only one of the hazards facing Mrs. Sonja Bull in her job as librarian for the American Merchant Marine Library Association here.

If and when the books are returned from their trips aboard dingy freighters and tramp steamers, they are often stained with salt water, steam and greasy thumbprints.

"Our books are really consumed. They wear out completely disappear in a way that would appall shore-side librarians," Mrs. Bull said.

But Mrs. Bull, whose lending area probably stretches over more territory than any other library, doesn't let this wear and tear disturb her. "At least it shows that our books are being used," she said with a smile.

The association library operates in seven ports and provides reading material for men of the American merchant-marine and the Coast Guard.

"We also have a more personal service to help mariners who are studying for higher licenses as deck, engineering or radio officers. These men can draw on our technical library so that they can keep up their studies at sea," the librarian said.

Her biggest chore is supplying about 70 boxes of books each month to ships sailing in all types of trade. Each box is filled with about 40 books, including fiction and non-fiction, paperbacks and current magazines.

BOTTLES EVERYWHERE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States in 1964 used at least 27 billion new bottles and jars, more than in any previous year, reports the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute. That is an average of about 140 new bottles and jars for every man, woman and child in the land.

But because many bottles for milk, soft drinks and beer are used many times, the average American in 1964 actually used a far greater total of bottles and jars of food, beverages, toiletries, medicines and the like, GCM explains.

West led the six of spades and Ivan had one last problem. Should he play the queen or ruff? He chose to ruff. It wasn't much of a problem. East had stuck in a three-club overcall to play a diamond or a third club, Ivan would have had no trouble making five odd, but West made his best possible play. He led the four of spades. It was now up to Ivan to play the right spade from dummy and he did just that. He played dummy's deuce.

★ CARD GAME ★

Q—The bidding has been: North 1♠, South 1♥, West 1♠, East 1♥. What do you do?
A—Your partner is either showing signs of life or is afraid of the heart suit. Bid five clubs. If he is showing real signs of life he can go on to six. If he is afraid of hearts, then the club game will be better than no-trump.
TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding two no-trump, your partner jumps to three no-trump over your two spades. What do you do now?
