

Divorcee Fights Hard To Fend Off Male Sex

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: Will you tell me why a widow or a divorcee is considered a sure thing by every male I've had the good luck to meet these past two years?
I'm a 32-year-old divorcee who holds a respectable position in a dress in good taste. I can talk intelligently about contemporary affairs, books, art, and music.
I'm tired of going out with men who think you owe them your life just because they buy you a dinner. I've been called old-fashioned, prudish, archaic, mid-victorian, sadistic, and masochistic just because I am not interested in extra-marital sex. I've heard every line imaginable, but the one last night was unique. What do you think of a man who wants to take the address out of your eyes? Isn't that incredible? Or am I mistaken?
PLAIN DISGUSTED
Dear P.D.: A man who talks about taking the address out of your eyes is probably interested in putting a little gladness into his own.
Don't lower your standards, Dell, but redouble your efforts. There are still plenty of eligible men around who don't regard every woman they see as their Target for Tonight.
Enroll in an adult education class at the university. Join a great book discussion group, be a volunteer for the political party of your choice. The Red Cross needs Gray Ladies. The list is endless. Get going.
Dear Ann Landers: My husband comes from one of those families whose motto is "All for one and one for all." This sounds admirable but it has caused me nothing but heartache.
In the 18 years we've been married my husband has spent at least half of his spare time helping his brothers and sisters build and repair their homes. In all fairness I should tell you, Ann, that eight years ago when we built our home his relatives pitched in and helped. We could not have afforded this lovely home otherwise.

Last year my sister-in-law carelessly set their home on fire with a cigarette. Now my husband spends all his spare time rebuilding with the rest of the family. He usually takes one of his daughters along to play with her cousins. I sit home alone because my sister-in-law is a bore. I've considered telling my husband that since he enjoys his family so much he should spend all his time with them. Yes or no?—CONTEMPLATIVE
Dear Con: No. I hate to trot out that tired slogan but it's tailor-made—"If you can't beat 'em, join 'em."
After 18 years your husband is not going to change his attitude toward his family, so you'd better change yours.
Make up your mind you're going to find something to admire in that tribe and go with him when he goes. Sitting at home, building resentment against him and his family will bring you nothing but a shattered marriage and infinitely greater unhappiness.

Confidential to Dumbest Bell Who Ever Rang: You are not dumb, you are uninformed. Your request for information suggests you want to learn and do better. Discuss this with your family physician. You will not shock him. He has heard everything. (P.S. You didn't shock me either. So have I.)
Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for Ann Landers' booklets, "Ten-a-Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.
Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Kremlin Avoids Stand On Crisis In Viet Nam

MOSCOW (UPI)—Diplomatic observers said today the Kremlin, despite tough talk about the Viet Nam crisis, has yet to commit itself publicly to a specific course of action.
The farthest the Russians have gone was a Soviet-North Vietnamese communique in which Moscow announced plans to "strengthen further" the defenses of the Communist regime in Hanoi.
Observers in Moscow felt the Soviet Union might follow its promise to North Viet Nam by publicly disclosing the aid measures, most likely anti-aircraft weapons and a modern jet aircraft.
Unofficial reports in Saigon Tuesday said Soviet ground-to-air missiles already have reached Hanoi. The information was not publicly confirmed by the U.S. Embassy. But it came from sources just returned from the North Viet Nam capital, and appeared to be unimpeachable.
Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, in a message to the forthcoming Indo-Chinese peoples preparatory conference in Pnom Penh, Cambodia, demanded that

Adults Disapprove As Two Beatles Join Millionaire Class

LONDON (UPI)—Two of the Beatles move officially into the millionaire class Thursday to the usual chorus of disapproval of hysterical teenagers.

Insurance Bill Gains House Okay

SALEM (UPI)—The House today passed a bill to broaden the authority of the state insurance commissioner to protect the public. It would specifically require him either to approve or disapprove both the form and content of proposed policies.
A tax relief measure for firms engaged in defense work won a 42-17 approval in the House. It would exempt from the state inventory tax the government-owned inventories and machinery in firms engaged in producing defense goods.
The lawmakers gave county election board workers a pay increase, raising their minimum salaries to $1.5 an hour and $9 a day. The rates now are $1 and 86¢.
The House also passed a memorial calling on Congress to authorize and provide funds for a list of Oregon flood control projects.

Daily Mirror, "a downright fable."
Lennon and McCartney own 30 per cent of Northern Songs, valued at $1,600,000. This, added to their earnings from recordings and tours with fellow Beatles George Harrison and Ringo Starr put them in the dollar millionaire class, according to friends.
Brian Epstein, manager of the Beatles, has 7.5 per cent of the firm or $50,000 worth.
Depends On Popularity
In its published prospectus the company says its prosperity "is largely dependent on the continuing popularity of its existing catalogue and on the success of future compositions by Lennon and McCartney which may later be added."
"John and Paul could be gone and forgotten a couple of years from now," said the Daily Mirror. "Or they could grow up into a Gilbert and Sullivan, a Rodgers and Hammerstein."
Ambace means double ace, the lowest throw at dice; hence, bad luck.
