Portland School Boards Lose Fight To Freeze State Equalization Cash

SALEM (UPI)—The Portland School Board apparently lost its battle Thursday to freeze the flow of "equalization" money to other school districts.

The House Education Committee refused on a 7-4 vote to send a bill backed by the Portland schools to the floor. Another motion to write a compromise committee bill was tabled on a 6-5 vote.

"It doesn't look like there will be any legislation in this session to freeze equalization," said the committee chairman, Rep. Carrol Howe, R-Klamath Falls.

Howe voted in favor of the Portland bills, as did Portland Reps. Norman Howard, a Democrat, and Shirley Field and Mrs. E. G. Chuinard, both Republicans.

Opposition Seen

Portland School Board Member John Beatty Jr. told a Ways and Means hearing earlier his board would oppose any increase in basic school support unless it got some relief.

Eighty per cent of money paid out for basic school support now is distributed in flat grants to school districts on the basis of school population. The remainder is allocated to "equalize" educational opportunity in districts with low assessed valuation. The bill which failed to get out of committee Thursday would have frozen equalization at its present dollar amount and used future increases in state school support for flat grants.

The Portland board contended its residents were being forced to pay property taxes to support the schools of surrounding suburban areas, where the residents had a higher median income.

Its directors enlisted the aid of other school districts which contribute equalization money, and hearings turned into a battle between those who get the funds and those who don't.

Busy Day

Thursday was a busy day for committees in both houses.

The House Planning and Development Committee tabled a governor's bill to establish a consumer counsel division within the Department of Commerce. A bill abolishing the power of public utilities to issue stock options to its employes also was tabled.

It did approve measures to appropriate $300,000 to the State Board of Higher Education for public education programs in business and industry, and which would require the director of commerce to submit an overall economic development program to each session of the legislature.

The money bill now goes to the Ways and Means Committee.

Bill Approved

The house local government committee approved a bill increasing the county and city share of highway revenues. The counties' share would go from 10 to 25 per cent and the cities' share from 10 to 15 per cent. The state Highway Commission gets the rest of the money.

The Senate Judiciary Committee voted to exempt up to $200 a month from garnishment of wages. It ordered an amendment to a bill which had set the figure at $100.

An amendment allowing special taxing districts to hold tax elections on other than general or primary election days was approved by the Senate Constitutional Revision Committee.

A few more amendments are expected Monday, when the committee has agreed to vote on a revised constitution.

education and experience of the school district's teachers and reported that the proposed increase would cost the district $113,600, plus a maximum of $32,800 for increments.

Other Points

In addition to the increase, the proposal contains three other points which were adopted by the board:

—Teachers at Gilchrist and Bly will receive $200 per year above the salary schedule to offset the high costs of living.

—A sum of $4,500 is set aside for distribution by Superintendent of Schools Dr. Cliff Robinson to teachers who meet certain standards for services "beyond the call of duty;" and —Teachers would be allowed time off, deducted from their sick leave, to care for ill members of the immediate family, a policy taken from the state civil service.

The teacher salary increase was only one item on a list of budgetary proposals for 1965-66.

Janitors Get Raise

The board agreed to recommend to the budget committee a $200 per year across - the board raise for janitors. They also discussed increases for coaches, supervisors, maintenance crew and the county office staff.

However, action on these items was postponed until an adjourned board meeting at 10 a.m. Saturday.

In other action, the directors approved, on a 3-2 vote, the appointment of Stan McClellan to replace Lloyd Seely as school purchasing agent and maintenance supervisor. The new job will be in addition to McClellan's job as school lunch coordinator.

Voting against the motion to accept Robinson's recommendation were directors B. M. Antle and Paul Fairchild.

Buses On Budget

Directors agreed to place funds for the purchase of three buses in the 1965-66 budget. They also agreed to place an extra sum in the budget to purchase higher grade bodies on the buses. They already had decided on automatic transmissions for 1965-66.

The board also approved the inclusion of funds in the budget for conversion of the heating plant at Gilchrist High from coal to natural gas. Robinson recommended similar conversions be at Ferguson, Stearns, Peterson, Altamont Elementary and Altamont Junior High schools, but no action on them was taken.

Twenty one teachers were placed on tenure effective March 15. They are Lois Adkins, Sharon Rose Anderson, Gerald Bennett, Robert Creed, Donald Eck, Sevro Garcia, Kenneth Ketel, Winona Leonard, Larry Lund, Helen McDonald, Marilyn Mitchell, Bill Osborn, Norma Petrasek, Loyal Robinson, Theodora Romivedi, David Roof, Shirley Silva, Ruth Groenveld, Wilma Hicks, Karen Woodwick and Larry Woodwick.

Solons End School Talks

SALEM (UPI)—Hearings on a compulsory school unification bill ended in the Senate Education Committee Thursday with some witnesses on both sides agreeing that people should have the right to vote on mergers.

Chairman Al Flegel, D-Roseburg, said he thought 4 1-2 hours of testimony was enough and scheduled consideration of the bill March 4.

The measure would force elementary school districts to merge with union high school districts and would set a deadline of Jan. 1, 1966, for those districts wholly within a union high district.

Vote Needed

Opponents hit hard Thursday at failure of the bill to allow residents to vote on mergers and at what they considered an attempt by the state to take away local control of schools.

Robert Humphries, president of the Oregon School Board Association, called it a "fatal shortcoming" and contended the state "is still a minor, although increasing, supporter of local schools."

He said even the money the state paid in basic school support came originally from local taxpayers.

Clifford Orey, Salem, representing the Oregon Farm Bureau Federation, said he was "opposed to unification . . . by legislative edict."

Closures Feared

Fear also was expressed that unification would result in closing of local schools.

"Rural America is a very essential part of our economy and way of life," said Rev. Alcuin Heibel of National Catholic Rural Life. "But if you take the school away from a rural community you take the heart out of it."

The sessions exploded twice when the committee thought witnesses were impugning the character of the legislators.

Otto Hackenberg, a Rainier school director, was dismissed from the witness stand by temporary chairman Walter Toth, of Salem, after he accused the legislature of trying to destroy the people's freedoms.

Board Kills Change Plan

County school director Dick Jessup's motion that the school board sharply change its procedures got nowhere fast Thursday.

Jessup, during a discussion of personnel matters, moved that the board dispense with its policy of handling all motions twice — on first and second readings.

Jessup said that this procedure is too often used as a device for avoiding firm decisions by the board and cited the Keno School closure hassle last year as one example.

"I never know where I stand between first and second readings anyway," Jessup said.

His motion got a quick second from director Paul Fairclo, but died when it was noted directors would have to agree unanimously to bring it up, and director Lawson Kandra wouldn't agree.

Therefore, Jessup asked that the item be put on the agenda for the March meeting of the board.

Kandra said he is opposed to the motion, believing the two reading plan is a good one.

"I'm also opposed to putting it on the agenda," Kandra said.

But the item will be on the March agenda.

Crash Case Scheduled

Judge Orth Sisemore has continued until 1:30 p.m., Feb. 26, the time he will receive an entry of plea from Larry H. Fitzgerald of Roseburg, charged with the negligent homicide of three Klamath Falls residents killed in a two-car collision last Sept. 7, it developed early Friday in Circuit Court No. 1.

Fitzgerald, seriously injured in the collision, was indicted by the grand jury earlier this year and has been granted several continuances relating to entering a plea.

The accident developed as the defendant, northbound in a pickup truck on Highway 97, was passing a truck and trailer and collided headon with a foreign car operated by Alvin C. Olson. The latter and two passengers, including his wife, Nellie, and a sister-in-law, Viola R. Crawford, were killed instantly. Fitzgerald sustained broken legs, internal injuries, and severe facial lacerations in the crash.

Drivers Cited After Wreck

Both drivers were cited by police Thursday afternoon following a two-vehicle collision at Radcliffe and Division streets.

Police said a 1964 pickup was being driven north on Division by Stephen Lang, 22, of Chiloquin when it collided with a 1966 sedan being driven west on Radcliffe by Warren Mayfield, 20, 2677 Radcliffe.

Police cited Lang for failure to yield right-of-way and Mayfield for driving with no operator's license.

Burglar's Tap Cleaner's Safe

Burglars broke open a safe at the Broadway Cleaners, 4615 South Sixth Street, before 11:30 p.m. Thursday and escaped with approximately $200 in cash, Oregon State Police made known Friday. The burglars pried open a door at the rear of the building and went to the safe, which they opened by knocking off the door knob. Officers said nothing else in the building appeared to be disturbed.

The break-in was discovered by a Merchant Police patrolman on his regular round of duty.

Chamber Board Voices Support For Eldercare

Support for the Eldercare bill now before Congress was voiced unanimously by the board of directors of the Klamath County Chamber of Commerce at its regular Wednesday night meeting.

The National Affairs Committee earlier had recommended approval of the Eldercare program by the board. The committee had studied both this and the Medicare program carefully, and had endorsed the former and opposed the latter program.

It was pointed out to the board that the Eldercare program would depend on state administration and would not be based on the social security program. It also would be based on a person's ability to pay and would make hospital aid available to those persons who could not afford such care.

The membership committee reported that 15 new members were added to the roster of the chamber during January, and that old membership files were cleaned up when 17 firms were dropped for nonpayment of dues.

Chamber President Brooks Dickerman and Manager George Callison reported to the board on their recent attendance at an Oregon-Washington - Idaho conference in Portland.

Fred Ehlers reported on a recent meeting of the Community Development Committee which is also studying the problem of a Civic Center. He reviewed recent actions of the Civic Center Committee sponsored by the Board of Realtors and indicated that it was moving ahead on plans for revamping the Klamath Auditorium, although it was also studying other possible alternatives.

tion from the Lost River Diversion Canal to Keno.

"The Link River may need to be widened and deepened or the shoreline raised, but the studies of this aspect of the program are still in progress," Beard added.

In commenting on the company's program, McKee told the Herald and News prior to the meeting that the extraordinary conditions might never occur again but the company believes it is in everyone's interest to push ahead with the planning and work as rapidly as possible.

"The work that we are recommending be done will facilitate better regulation of the upper lake as well as handling the flows along the Link River, through Lake Ewauna and the Keno area during any high-water period of the future," he added.

Prompt Okay Sought

"We are able to undertake the work without delay, assuming prompt approvals from the government agencies, and we want everyone concerned to understand the magnitude of the problem and to be informed about the proposed plan of action," McKee concluded.

Local groups represented at the meeting were Keno Irrigation District, Klamath Basin Water Users Protective Association, Tulelake Irrigation District, Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife at Tulelake, United States Bureau of Reclamation, Klamath Irrigation District, Klamath Drainage District, Klamath County, City of Klamath Falls and Wales Engineering.

Average water depth of Lake Erie is only 58 feet and its deepest part is 210 feet, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Girls Open Mint Sale On Saturday

The annual Camp Fire Girls fund-raising sale of mints will get underway on Saturday, Feb. 20, with over 11,000 boxes of mints expected to be sold in the Klamath Basin alone.

The Klamath Council Camp Fire Girls mint sale includes the active participation from the Camp Fire Girls, the Blue Birds, the Junior High Camp Fire Girls and the Horizon Club, in the areas of Klamath County, Tulelake, Dorris and Macdoel, in Siskiyou County, Calif.

The sale is themed "Mint Magic" and was developed by the national headquarters as a means to supplement the United Fund allotment to the local council operations. Ten per cent of the sale profits is scheduled to be given to the individual Camp Fire organizations for group projects, to provide assistance with the expenses for program materials, field trips, service activities and community projects.

Further aims of the sale are to give each individual girl experience and training in business procedures and in handling money and to extend the Camp Fire Girls program in the area, making it possible for more girls to share in its activities.

Profits that will remain with the council will be added to the United Fund allotment to be used to make the final payment on Camp Ka-est-a, the Camp Fire Girls summer camp at Lake of the Woods, and to help finance needed improvements at the camp.

The girls participating in the sale will travel in pairs in a house-to-house canvas to sell their candies, with some groups erecting candy sales tables in local businesses, during a 20-day campaign which ends March 12.

The sale was approved jointly by the Klamath County United Fund and the Klamath Falls City Council.
