

BIGGEST CONTRACT — With baseball season almost upon us, New York Yankee Elston Howard gets a whiff of spring from a bowl of flowers, after signing what was called the biggest contract ever signed by a major league catcher. Unofficial estimates place Howard's salary at about $70,000. —UPI Telephoto

Howard Hopes To Break Color Line As First Negro Manager

UPI Sports Writer Elston Howard, through playing, possibly as a coach, he said. "And then I'd like a chance at managing." Howard now hopes to break the color line and become the first Negro manager in Major League history. He broached the subject voluntarily Thursday although he said he still expects to play "five more years" after signing a $70,000 contract that made him the highest paid catcher of his time. Howard, who will be 35 next Tuesday, never has spoken to the Yankees about the possibility of managing one day. "I don't mean he hasn't been thinking about the idea," Howard said. "I'd like to stay in the Yankee organization when I'm

On the question of Negroes' rights in baseball, Howard ranks somewhere between Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella. He never has been quite as militant about the subject as Robinson nor quite as passive as Cammy. "I saw that," Howard said. "I feel the same way about him. I'll never forget the question of whether he would be willing to go back to the minors." He said. "A number of fellows have started out managing in the majors. (Alvin Dark didn't go back to the minors.)"

Biggest Indoor Meet Opens

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Amateur Athletic Union opens its biggest indoor athletic show in history today with something called the "women's basketball throw" and follows with two nights of track and field events involving eight Olympians who won gold medals at Tokyo. At stake for leading Americans in most of the 25 events on the program at Madison Square Garden are berths on a combined men's and women's team scheduled to compete indoors at London and Berlin starting April 2. Marine Lt. Billy Mills, surprise winner of the Olympic 10,000 meters, and sprinter Ed McGuire of Tennessee State head the U.S. delegation. Both compete tonight along with three foreign stars who scored at Tokyo.

GIBSON PICKED MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Forty-eight-year-old Sherman Gibson of Detroit Thursday became the 29th member of the American Bowling Congress Hall of Fame by a ballot of writers, broadcasters, ABC officials and Hall of Fame members.

Gambling Bosses Get Thousands From Fix

CHICAGO (UPI) — Crime syndicate gambling bosses reaped thousands of dollars in sure thing bets set up through the "fix" of a Seattle University-Idaho basketball game, the Chicago Sun-Times said today. The newspaper said the take would have been larger but for a number of bookmakers who grew suspicious that a fix was brewing and refused to handle further wagers on the Jan. 22 game. FBI agent-in-charge Marlin W. Johnson refused to comment on the reports that agents were seeking several persons in the Chicago area for questioning about the alleged fix. Chicago tavern owner Leo Casale, 24, accused of conspiring with two Seattle players to control the point spread in the game, was released on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond. Casale, a former senior class president and star basketball player at a Chicago Roman Catholic high school, told newsmen he was innocent of the charge. U.S. Commissioner C.S. Bentley Pike promptly ignored a government request to set Casale's bond at $25,000. "They're trying to put this crime in the category of bank robberies," he snapped. Pike went along with the $25,000 figure but permitted Casale to sign his own bond. He continued the case to Tuesday.
