Pelicans Blast Medford; Stop Crater Comets Here

Keck's Confidence Rewarded By Team

By DON McKINNON
Herald And News
Sports Editor

Coack Al Keck of Klamath Union High School said Friday evening, "I have eight boys who can go the distance, and I'm going to use them all, in free substitution. I plan to run the Black Tornadoes all night, and win."

While most of the arm-chair strategists were dubious to some extent (including this writer) as to the advisability of such a move, Keck proved he knew more about his charges than most of us, and he won!

If he's a gambler, he's a good one, because his Pelican cagers took his signal, and defeated the Medford Black Tornado club, handing it its second defeat in 16 starts.

Vital Contest

Keck used his eight "boys" just as he had intended, and the result . . . a whopping 51-42 defeat of the third - ranked team in the state, and a decisive morale factor in the Pelican outlook towards a conference title and the state tournament.

There isn't enough room in this page to tell what happened in detail, but Medford will remember for a long, long time how the Pelicans outplayed them man-for-man.

Time and again the Pels stole the ball from the bewildered Black Tornadoes, 14 times to be exact, and to the amazement of fans at the game, a number of these "steals" happened while the ball was being pushed upwards toward the basket.

Doesn't Tell All

Even the usual box score of the game doesn't quite tell the story. While the box shows Terry Ash with only five points, it doesn't reveal the eight (or more) assists Ash made in feeding for certain scores. It also doesn't tell of the 15 big rebounds Ash captured, and of the confidence he spread in his teammates.

The box also doesn't tell of the seven rebounds by one of the game's outstanding players, Rick Brosterhous, who as the only sophomore on the squad has earned the respect of every player in the conference for his abilities.

It doesn't tell of the four (or more) stolen balls which Brosterhous grabbed from Medford players, including the league's leading scorer Bill Enyart, nor does it tell of the outstanding, undeniably excellent defensive efforts on the part of the Pelican cagers.

Like Demons

It's difficult to pick one player off the eight-man roster Keck used, and say he was more or less outstanding than the others. All fought like demons, and all played with only thing in mind, to win, regardless of personal acclaim.

Jim Patzke continued in his accurate way as he collected game high honors of 19 points, and Brosterhous added another highly important 13 to that figure. Bob Moore added four more, and contributed immeasurably to the sterling defensive effort displayed by the Pels.

John Jendrzejewski, a young cager who was recently moved back into his more familiar post at forward, was excelled by none at Medford as he connected for eight points, and alternated with Moore in holding Enyart to 15 points, only two buckets in the second half of play from the field.

Great Desire

Outstanding performances were also turned in by Jim Drew, Steve Baker and Kim Coon. While Drew failed to score, he displayed tremendous desire in the game, many times saving the ball from certain loss by his aggressive action.

The Pelicans started slow, failing to score until almost four minutes had passed and Medford held a 6-0 lead, in what appeared a possible runaway by the Black Tornado against a cold Pelican five.

But things didn't work out that way, and the Pels overtook Medford, leading at each break, and holding the lead throughout the contest.

The Pelicans can justifiably claim the state title in defense this season as they have held opposing teams to a 43.3 points per game average. If not the title holder, the Pels certainly share with the best (reported to be Parkrose).

Coach Keck has stressed defense, and has an enviable record in this department.

SATURDAY GAME

The Pelicans may have let up slightly after their big win at Medford Friday night, but the Crater Comets would arue the point.

Crater fell to the hard-closing Pelicans by a 49-32 count, ater leading the Pelicans throughout most of the first half of play at Pelican Court Saturday night.

The Comets, with an upset win over Grants Pass the night before, couldn't find the horses to overhaul the elated Klamath cagers.

Despite the close first half of play, second half action found the Klamath club edging away, until finally they held a comfortable margin, and decided to play "keep away" with the visitors.

Terry Ash shared high game honors with Mike B. Turner, the legue's second ranking scorer, as both netted 16 points. Jim Patzke added another 12 to the winning effort.

The Pelicans now boast a conference record of 8-3, with one big important win over the league-leading Medford Black Tornado unit.

Portland State Captures Wrestling Championship

Portland State College walked off once more with the Oregon Collegiate wrestling championships, and Rich Sanders, a member of the Viking wrestling squad, and an alternate on the U.S. Olympic wrestling team, earned honors as outstanding participant in the meet.

Portland State compiled an impresive 75 points to edge out Southern Oregon College, with 73, and defeat Oregon Tech with 50, Eastern Oregon with 40 and Oregon College of Education with 34.

The matches ended late Saturday night with the results as follows:

In the championship bracket, winners included:

Don Bailey (115) Southern Oregon, dec. Larry Lietz, OTI, 8-2; Rich Sanders (123) Portland State, pinned Terry Spahr, Oregon College, 8:32; Lamont Simons (130) Oregon College dec. by Rich Green, Portland State, 9-3; Masaura Yatabe (137) Portland State, defeated John Thennes, OTI, 3-1; John dePlace (147) Southern Oregon, dec. F. Garrison, Portland State.

Rollin Schimmel (157) Eastern Oregon, dec. Les Brown, Portland State, 7-1; Chuck Holiday (167) Eastern Oregon, dec. Mike Bilderbach, OTI, 8 - 2; Glen Moses (117) Southern Oregon, dec. Bill White, Portland State, 6-0; Joe Cox (191) Southern Oregon dec. Mike McKeel, Portland State 6-2; Dave Burns (heavyweight), Southern Oregon, dec. Mike Anderson, Oregon College, 6-3.

In the consolation bracket, winners were:

Ralph Hill (115) Eastern, dec. Russell Brown, Portland State, 1-0; Terry Bond (123) Oregon Tech, pinned G. Wilson, Southern Oregon, 1:59; Bill Quant (130), Eastern, dec. Chuck Akes, Oregon Tech, 3-0; Jack Underwood (137), Southern Oregon, dec. Terry Klein, Oregon College, 2-0; Terry Sjolander (147), Oregon College, dec. Don Read, Oregon Tech, 4-3; Wally Kroph (157) Oregon College, dec. Fran Kane, Southern Oregon, 3-0; Fred Siebenthal (167) Portland State, dec. Ron Reding, Southern Oregon, 4-1; Bob Darcey (177) Oregon Tech, dec. Steve Crampton, Eastern, 7-2; Steve Strauhan (191) Eastern Oregon, dec. J. Christianson, Oregon Tech, 2-0; and Fred Hamm (heavyweight), Oregon Tech, pinned Mike Starr, Eastern Oregon, 5:50.

Championship round competitors moved into the final bracket by virtue of their showings in preliminary action at the OTI gymnasium earlier Saturday afternoon.

The tournament featured teams in the Oregon Collegiate Conference, including Eastern Oregon, Southern Oregon, Portland State, Oregon College and host Oregon Tech.

Tournament director was Ron Pheister, athletic director for Oregon Technical Institute. Matchmaker was Larry Burleson.

Portland State College has dominated the OCC wrestling tournament since 1962, winning the big meet in each of the last three years. Prior to the dominance of Portland State, Oregon College of Education ruled the roost in 1961.

More West Coast Schools Involved In Game Fixes?

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation is investigating possible point-shaving in basketball games at another West Coast university, Chicago's American said Saturday.

The paper said it has learned that federal agents have "officially" entered the case and said there were reports that an All-America candidate on a high-ranked team may be involved.

"Sources close to gambling interests in Chicago say the scandal will balloon to involve a number of other schools," the story said.

An FBI spokesman here told United Press International he had no knowledge of such a probe.

Earlier this week, Leo Casale, a Chicago motel operator, was arrested as one of three men allegedly implicated in a point-shaving fix in a Seattle University—University of Idaho game.

At Chicago's De Paul University, school officials were investigating a student betting ring that wagered up to $1,200 on basketball games.

Basketball Coach Ray Meyer said one of the students was a former basketball player. He said the ring bet $1,200 on the De Paul-Memphis University game which De Paul won 99-70 Jan. 5.

PRELIMINARY FINAL

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — The United States will meet Japan today in a preliminary final for the right to play Australia Sunday in the championship game of the world women's softball series. The Aussies blanked the U.S. girls 7-0 Friday and Japan edged New Zealand 3-2.

Bruins Rally; Beat Oregon

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Erratic UCLA blew a 15-point halftime lead Saturday night, but roared back midway through the second half to whip Oregon 74-64 and win its 10th straight AAWU game in the opener of a doubleheader at the Sports Arena.

Southern California met Oregon State in the second game.

UCLA, primarily on the success of its pressing zone defense, zoomed out to a 41-28 lead by the intermission. But the Bruins turned sour in the second half, while Bill Jennings, hitting one shot after another, led the Ducks to a 50-49 lead with 10:21 to play.

With the score tied 51-51, the Bruins' Mike Lynn sank a basket. Then Gail Goodrich, who had scored 15 points in the first half, dropped in 10 points in the next four minutes to boost UCLA ahead 66-54 with 5:15 left.

Goodrich topped all scorers with 28 points, while Jennings had 23, 15 in the second half.

UCLA has a 20-2 mark this season. Oregon now is 3-7 in AAWU action and 9-13 overall.

Trojans Win

Southern California defeated Oregon State Saturday night behind the sharpshooting of Block, Westphall, Balcom and Young, each netting double figures, to give the Trojans a 64-38 victory.

Jarvis led the Beavers with 14 points.

Bucklew Gets Third Place

Doug Bucklew, Klamath Falls skier, earned a third place in the Junior Expert Class Cross Country Races at Mt. Hood Saturday afternoon.

The event, a four-mile ski course, was designed to determine members of the Pacific Northwest Ski Division team to participate in the Junior National meet at Bend, March 15 through 20.

Bucklew finished in a time of 30 minutes. First place time at the event was 29 minutes.

While selection to the team is not automatic by virtue of top finishes, Bucklew's finish should strengthen his bid for a berth, officials said.

Medford Wins

The Medford Black Tornadoes bounced back from two straight defeats to trounce Ashland Saturday night 67-49 at Ashland.

Bill Enyart collected 24 points, assisted by Bertrand with 15 and Olson with 13. Morrow was high for Ashland with 10.

Owls Win Pair From Cascade

PORTLAND — The Oregon Tech Owls swept a pair of weekend non-conference cage contests here with Cascade College, edging their hosts the first night by a 78-77 margin, then cutting loose for an 80-68 win Saturday night.

Big Will Robinett led the Owls both nights, collecting 22 on Friday, and 26 Saturday night for a 48-point two-night effort.

The Owls held a 46-29 halftime advantage Saturday night, holding their margin through the remaining portion of play.

Coach Jim Partlow's second-place team now returns to Klamath Falls where they will tune up for their final conference clashes of the season against dangerous Oregon College of Education.

Grizzlies Lose At Prospect

PROSPECT — The visiting Gilchrist Grizzlies were shaded here Saturday night as Prospect scored a 58-49 class B basketball victory.

Leading the attack for Prospect was Andy Maurer with 14 points. Game Scoring honors went to Denny Jessup of Gilchrist with 19. He was assisted by Matt Koski with 13 in a losing effort.

Prospect held a 21-10 first quarter lead which it never relinquished through the remaining three periods of play.

The Gilchrist Jayvees added to their victory skein with a 41-37 win over Prospect.
